Peking—Chile

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP) — Chile established diplomatic relations Tuesday with Red China, the second Latin-American nation to do so. Nationalist China immediately severed its ties with Santiago.

A joint communique said: "The government of Chile recognizes the government of the People's Republic of China as the one legal Chinese government."

Chile took note of Red China's claim to Formosa—called Taiwan by the Chinese—the seat of the Nationalist Chinese government.

This is the same position taken by Canada and Italy recently in establishing relations with Red China. It avoids saying that Formosa belongs to Red China.

In Washington, White House press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said he was not prepared to comment on Chile's decision.

Foreign Minister Clodomiro Almeyda said the document establishing relations was signed Dec. 15 in Paris by their ambassadors there, Enrique Bernstein of Chile, Huang Chen of Red China.

The first Latin-American nation to recognize Red China was Cuba.

Chile is the 57th nation to establish relations with Peking.

Almeyda said Red China offered a potential market for Chilean products of 'gigantic dimensions." The establishment of relations, he said, has opened the door for mutually advantageous trade agreements.

The establishment of diplomatic relations with all nations of the world was an important part of the program of the Popular Unity Coalition of Marcist President Salvador Allende.

Shortly after he took office in November, Allende re-established relations with Cuba. Allende has also promised to establish relations with North Korea, North Vietnam and East Germany.

Defense Overpricing

WASHINGTON (AP) — Government auditors have found overpricing by defense contractors in more than half of the military contracts examined in a spot check.

Reporting the findings to Congress, Comptroller General Elmer B. Staats said Tuesday the overpricing stemmed from submission by contractors of incomplete, inaccurate and outdated cost information in price negotiations.

Auditors of the General Accounting Office examined 35 contracts totaling $135 million awarded to 21 contractors in 1968.

For 18 procurements totaling $47 million, the auditors found that negotiated contract prices were $1.5 million higher than the cost indicated by data available to the contractors at the time of negotiation. The contractors were not identified.

The auditors said little or no overpricing was found in the other 17 contracts totaling $88 million.

As examples of overpricing, the report said one contractor's bill for purchased parts for hand grenade fuses was $303,000 higher than justified by previous cost experience. It said a negotiated price for gun direction computers and magnetic discs included materials overpriced by $236,000.

The auditors conceded the overpricing on the contracts examined was not large in relations to the totals involved, but said it occurred under the same conditions that the 1962 Truth in Negotiations Act was intended to correct.

The 1962 law requires contractors to submit cost or pricing data in support of their price proposals and certify their accurancy.

As a result of the GAO findings, Staats said the Defense Department has negotiated price reductions of $340,000 in two cases and is taking action to obtain adjustments in other cases.

Flu Epidemic

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — Bug-carrying Northern tourists were partially blamed by a health official Tuesday for an outbreak of influenza that claimed 18 lives and struck 13,000 persons in this resort town last week.

"We have an international airport," said Broward County Health Director Paul Hughes. "We're only 14 hours from any spot on earth . . . and any disease."

Hughes said he had not yet pinpointed what type of flu was involved.

"It could be any of four types of flu or flu-like diseases," he said. All 18 victims succumbed to pneumonia after being hit with the flu, he said.

"All of those who died were elderly persons with chronic diseases such as emphysema," said Hughes. "They were in bad shape to start with and it didn't take much to tip the balance."

In addition to the tourists from Northern states and Canada who came to bask in 80-degree temperatures on ocean beaches, Hughes blamed a recent cold snap which hit this ocean resort last month.

Military Assistance

WASHINGTON (AP) — A former top Pentagon official admitted Tuesday the Johnson administration used a bookkeeper's sleight-of-hand to avoid congressional scrutiny of spiralling billion-dollar military assistance programs to select foreign nations.

"I think there's no doubt that the effect of the transfer was to reduce the capacity of the Congress to scrutinize the program," said Townsend Hoopes, former deputy assistant secretary of defense for military assistance.

He referred to the administration's decision in fiscal 1966 to transfer material support funds for the Vietnamese army from the regular Military Assistance Program (MAP) budget to the Defense Department budget.

The administration stated at the time, Hoopes said, that the rising cost of the war could not be met with Military Assistance Program funds unless there was a drastic scaling down of MAP funds given to other nations.

Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., chairman of the joint economic subcommittee probing military aid programs, said, "I think this tells us something about the lack of congressional oversight about this program.

Quiet Diplomacy Takes Over
Middle East Talks Resume

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — In an atmosphere of quiet diplomacy, the disrupted Arab-Israeli peace talks resumed Tuesday under the guidance of Gunnar V. Jarring, the U.N. special envoy for the Middle East.

Ambassador Yosef Tekoah of Israel was the first to call on the Swedish diplomat in his 38th-floor office at U.N. headquarters. They talked for almost a half hour. The substance of their conversation was not disclosed.

Jarring arranged late afternoon meetings with Ambassador Mohammed H. El-Zayyat of Egypt and Ambassador Muhammad H. el-Farra of Jordan.

El-Zayyat spent about an hour with Jarring, then conferred with U.N. Secretary-General U Thant. The Egyptian diplomat told reporters he hoped the new talks would achieve "all that we hope for—peace and justice."

After the meetings, however, El-Zayyat said, "I am not as hopeful as when I went in. I didn't get any indication there is a serious intention to begin talking." He indicated he expected to see Jarring again Wednesday.

El-Farra had no comment on his talk with Jarring.

It was obvious that quiet diplomacy was taking over in the indirect talks, which were broken off by Israel four months ago.

Tekoah told newsmen that he did not have another appointment yet with Jarring, but that "the telephone lines are open" and he would be in touch with him.

The reopening of the talks got a nod of approval from Moscow. The government newspaper Izvestia said a positive step had been taken toward restoring peace.

The Soviet statement reiterated support of the Arab position that Israel must evacuate Arab territories occupied since the June 1967 war.

President Nixon declared in a television interview Monday night that if the Soviet Union did not play a conciliatory peacemaking role in the Middle East there was no chance for peace.

In advance of the resumption of the talks Secretary-General U Thant issued a report by Jarring to the U.N. Security Council on the status of his three-year-old mission.

Israel said withdrawal should take place after "permanent, secure and recognized boundaries are agreed upon." The Arabs say Israel must withdraw its forces first.

Nixon Criticizes Old Congress For Neglect

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon flew off for Southern California Tuesday, taking a parting shot at the old Congress and preparing a welcome for the new.

He said the 91st Congress, which ended last Saturday, had within its grasp "the opportunity to write one of the most productive and memorable chapters in the history of American government.'

"That opportunity was lost," Nixon said, adding, "The nation was the loser."

In a lengthy written statement, the President listed federal revenue-sharing and welfare reform at the top of a list of 21 specific proposals that he said "died of neglect" in the 91st Congress, and which he promised to renew after the new Congress convenes Jan. 21.

Before departing for an eight- to ten-day working vacation at the Western White House, Nixon assured his Cabinet at a formal meeting that he does not intend to fire any more of them, talked with three leading Republican governors and top White House advisers about revenue-sharing and welfare reform, and, with Chief Justice Warren E. Burger looking on, signed a bill to speed court business by creating a special executive officer for each federal judicial circuit.

While at the Western White House Nixon plans to work on his State of the Union address to Congress, the major thrust of which he has said will concern an expanded program to share federal income tax revenue with states and localities.

A modest revenue-sharing propsal died last year in the House Ways and Means Committee, and Nixon cited this among the "major failures" of Congress.

Besides revenue-sharing and the Family Assistance Welfare Reform Plan, Nixon said he will renew proposals to overhaul the federal system of grants-in-aid to states and localities, to aid schools that have special problems because of rapid desegregation, to raise military pay, to protect consumers, to increase Social Security benefits, to set up import quotas for textiles, to reform the electoral college system of electing presidents, and to deal with pornography.

The President began his day with a 1½-hour Cabinet meeting devoted mainly to the economy. Press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said Nixon told members "that there would be no further Cabinet changes at his request." Later he met with Republican governors Louie B. Nunn of Kentucky, Raymond P. Shafer of Pennsylvania and Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York, and with Vice President Spiro T. Agnew, counselor Robert H. Finch, and assistants John D. Ehrlichman and Donald Rumsfeld.

Bitter Arctic Cold Grips Many Portions Of America

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Still battling the drifts of a weekend snowstorm, many parts of the nation faced a new problem Tuesday: bitter arctic cold.

Temperatures dropped to below zero in Iowa where a Sunday night storm dumped mountains of snow and resulted in at least 20 deaths.

The mercury dropped to —33 at Alamosa, Colo., and to a record —4 at Lubbock, Tex.

In Iowa, state and local officials pulled out all stops in an effort to finish cleaning roads and highways. Foster Smiley, state maintenance engineer, said the state already had spent an estimated $1.5 million to remove snow which piled up in drifts as high as 10 feet.

Airports began to open Tuesday and the Iowa highway patrol reported most primary roads were open. The National Weather Service, however, predicted the possibility of more snow Friday.

The story was the same in much of the rest of the nation: cold and snow.

Afternoon temperatures failed to rise much above zero in a region extending from northern New Mexico north to Montana and east to Wisconsin.

In Utah, the Mountain Fuel Supply Co. of Salt Lake was forced to cut natural gas service because demand exceed supply. Salt Lake City schools switched to standby coal or oil heating.

The cold snap caused light damage to the Southern California citrus crop. Agriculture officials said that if the frigid conditions persisted the entire avocado crop of northern San Diego —65 per cent of the California crop—might be wiped out.

Nebraska highway officials mustered all available heavy equipment to remove the mounds of snow that remained after the worst snowstorm in 25 years to hit the eastern part of the state. But they said it might be Friday before all residential streets in Omaha and Lincoln were cleared.

The cold front passing over the warm Great Lakes waters produced many snow squalls on the lee side of the lakes.

Three Hutto Court-Martial Jurors Tentatively Chosen

FT. McPHERSON, Ga. (AP) — Three Vietnam veterans were tentatively selected Tuesday as members of the court-martial board to try Sgt. Charles Hutto on charges arising from the alleged My Lai massacre.

Five other potential jury members were rejected after lawyers for the Army and Hutto, charged with assault with intent to murder at least six My Lai civilians, challenged their impartiality.

The three officers seated were selected from a 10-member panel of prospective jurors summoned on the first day of the Hutto court-martial. The court-martial board must have at least five members.

Questioning of the other prospective jurors will resume Wednesday.

The military judge said the seating of the three must be regarded as tentative because they are subject to pre-emptory challenges. The defense and prosecution each may exercise one such challenge before testimony commences.

The three are Lt. Col. Donald M. Laffoon, Lt. Col. Robert H. Daine, and Maj. Marvin D. Ficklin, all of Ft. Campbell, Ky.

Each said he had not formed an opinion of Hutto's guilt or innocence.

Suit Against Army Dismissed Tuesday

CHICAGO (AP) — A federal judge dismissed Tuesday a suit that sought to enjoin the Army from spying on private citizens, but he called the activity 'typical Washington bureaucratic boondoggling."

Judge Richard B. Austin, after more than a week of U.S. District Court hearings, rejected the American Civil Liberties Union's request for an injunction to halt surveillance of citizens by the Army. The suit also asked that the Army be directed to destroy information collected during the alleged spying operation.

In dismissing the suit, Judge Austin said testimony in the hearing disclosed only that Army surveillance was "typical Washington bureaucratic boondoggling."

Judge Austin, called the suit " a comedy of errors," and termed it "much ado about nothing." He characterized the spy operations as "an assemblage of Keystone Cops."

Report Dole Next Republican Chief

WASINGTON (AP) — Despite strong opposition from top members of his own party, Sen. Robert J. Dole of Kansas will be the next Republican national chairman, several highly placed sources said Tuesday.

Formal confirmation of Dole's appointment is expected Jan. 15 during a meeting here of the Republican National Committee. However, according to one account, President Nixon will meet with a special nominating committee the day before and announce that Dole is his choice.

The GOP announced Tuesday afternoon that the nominating committee will be named later this week.

When told of the latest reports that he would get the job despite considerable opposition among other Republican senators, Dole told The Associated Press he believed that he was the front runner but said he had not been informed he would get the post.

Dole, a 47-year-old first-term senator, is a staunch supporter of the Nixon administration and one of the more conservative members of the party's congressional wing. He has figured from the start in speculation over who would replace Rep. Rogers C. B. Morton of Maryland for the chairmanship.

Morton is giving up the GOP post and his House seat to succeed the ousted Walter J. Hickel as secretary of the interior.

Dole is opposed by some moderate and liberal Republican senators, several of whom reportedly have told the White ouse they would look with disfavor on a Dole appointment.

View Transportation Emergencies
Seek Antistrike Legislation

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon will press vigorously for early enactment of a law to prevent emergency strikes such as the still-threatening nationwide railroad walkout, his labor secretary said Tuesday.

"Such strikes become something like an industrial H-bomb," said Secretary of Labor J. D. Hodgson in announcing the White House is putting top priority on the first new anti-strike legislation since the Taft-Hartley Act a quarter century ago.

"They cause hardship, mass inconvenience, danger and a threat to the nation's health and safety," Hodgson told newsmen.

"Decisions are going to be required of the nation whether we will enact a realistic law to deal with national emergency disputes in the transportation industry or limp through repeated crises with a wornout crutch," Hodgson said.

Congress halted a 24-hour nationwide rail strike Dec. 10, imposing a partial 13.5 per cent pay hike for some 500,000 workers involved. But the special law expires March 1 and the strike could resume if there is no settlement.

Key congressional committee chairmen told The Associated Press three weeks ago hearings will be held early this year on emergency strike legislation.

Hodgson said Nixon will resubmit a strike law proposal similar to the one that languished in Congress last year. That proposal would have junked the 45-year-old Railway Labor Act which now covers rail and airline disputes and replaced it with one covering all transportation strikes.

The earlier Nixon bill would have given the White House several options including the power to order strike delays of up to 110 days instead of the current 90 days, to permit partial striking of a major industry, or to appoint a neutral board to choose either management's or labor's final contract proposal as a binding settlement.

Hodgson said Nixon's new bill will be much like the earlier one.

Both rail labor and management opposed the initial Nixon proposal, and Hodgson said "I doubt if we can get something both sides will like."

Hodgson said Nixon will put high priority also on a reintroduced version of his family-assistance plan of welfare reform to put a $1,600 floor under the annual income of an indigent urban family of four. It will be revised to meet some of the objections that caused it to become bogged down in the Senate after House passage last year.

"Reform of the nation's runaway welfare system remains at the center of the New Federalism," Hodgson said.

"This program will be a boon to working people in this country and to all citizens who feel that work is the way out of poverty and dependency," he said of the welfare-reform proposal that would require recipients to register for work or job training and provide a network of child-care centers for working parents.

He said the administration will continue also to seek labor bargaining based on real productivity growth, and curb what he called unreasonable wage settlements in some industries such as construction.

"The number of strikes and the astronomical level of the wage settlements in this industry (construction) are ruinous. It is in everyone's interest that we find better answers to the problems that have marked bargaining in that industry in the last two years," he said.

The Great Lakes Are Dying

It was only a moment ago, on Nature's leisurely calendar, that the fur trappers and priests moved into the heartland of this continent along the highway of the Great Lakes. That moment — three centuries or so, as man reckons time — has sufficed to bring those crystalline bodies of water to the verge of polluted ruin.

Since the era of La Salle and Hennepin, populous centers have grown up on the shores of the lakes. An increasing flood of community and industrial pollution has poured into them, with the result that an expert on the subject can now say in all soberness: "Lake Ontario is dead and Lake Erie is dying."

The man who offers that disturbing appraisal is Stanford H. Smith, a senior investigator for the Great Lakes Fishery Laboratory who also is a research associate at the University of Michigan. In an interview foreshadowing his report to the American Association for the Advancement of Science, Smith warned: "Unless something is done soon, the situation in Lake Michigan could deteriorate rapidly. The next danger would be in Lake Huron, and finally in Lake Superior."

Various interrelated factors contribute to this destructive trend. Power plants, industries and municipal sewage are sources of trouble. In some instances, specific chemicals cause trouble: the present growing concern about mercury is a case in point. Pesticides in the runoff from farm areas cause direct harm. A more subtle kind of harm results from fertilizers and rising shoreline temperatures, which combine to encourage excessive growth of water plants that rob fish and other marine life of an adequate oxygen supply.

The harmful effects are manifested in numerous ways: The water is no longer clear in areas where the bottom could be seen a couple of decades ago; some valuable species of fish are virtually gone; unpleasant odors offend the nostril of those who stroll the shores or put out in small boats. It is sad evidence of how man has despoiled his environment since the early fur trappers pushed westward.

More Students Than Ever

It costs more than ever before to go to college. The general economic picture is such that a good many young people have doubtless been forced to postpone their plans for higher education. Widespread campus unrest, though now temporarily at an ebb, may also be a discouraging factor.

Despite all this, the total enrollment in our colleges and universities is greater than it has ever been. There are now an estimated 5.9 million full-time students attending the nation's 2,574 institutions of higher education.

The estimate is authoritatively made by Dr. Garland G. Parker in his annual survery published in the educational journal "School and Society." Parker, who is vice provost for admissions and records at the University of Cincinnati, has been collecting such data from institutions throughout the country for many years. From the vantage point of this experience he concludes that the current record enrollment indicates more confidence in higher education than one might suppose to be the case.

We find no reason to quarrel with that judgment, and consider it highly encouraging. There has been considerable feeling that campus ferment has greatly undermined public confidence. It is good to find contrary evidence.

Freshman enrollment seems particularly significant. Though the number of 18-year-olds is thought to have increased no more than 3 per cent this year, four-year accredited schools reported a 3.8 per cent increase in the number of new students enrolling. We agree with Dr. Parker that this reflects "the continuing conviction on the part of a large proportion of high school graduates that collegiate training is essential to success and job security."

Laird Seeks Closer Relationship With Japan

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
AP Military Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird is moving toward a closer relationship with Japanese defense officials with the expectation Japan will become a keystone in Pacific area security.

Laird's increased interest in Japan is directly related to the progressive withdrawal of U. S. military forces from Asia.

Some U. S. defense officials believe Japan—with its population of more than 100 million, its industrial strength and its remarkable economic growth—is the one Asian power capable of filling any vacuum left by disengagement of U. S. military power in Asia.

Laird recently dropped in passing a reference to his hope to "pay particular attention in coming months to cooperation with Japan."

He intends to visit Japan, probably about mid-year, to get to know Japanese defense officials better.

Laird associates said, "We're going to have to establish a rapport with them, much as we have done with NATO leaders."

It is not at all certain that Japan would be willing to take on the role that Laird and his associates apparently envision for it. But some Pentagon authorities are convinced that, like it or not, Japan will find itself thrust into a pivotal role in Pacific area defense as a counterweight to Communist China.

There is no suggestion the United States will avoid its responsibilities under a security treaty it has with Japan, but the emphasis appears to be toward a greater share of responsibility for Japan.

Remembering Japan's World War II conquests of large chunks of Asia and the Western Pacific, weaker nations in that part of the world may have misgivings about a military resurgence by Japan.

In any case, Pentagon officials acknowledge that evolution of a new leadership position by Japan in the Far East would take years, possibly a decade.

Among other things, Japan would have to undertake a vast expansion of its military spending, now totaling only about $1.6 billion a year from a gross national product of about $167 billion.

Japan's present "self defense forces" total only about 259,000 men, its navy is small and light, and its air force hardly of big-power status.

Riots In Poland Jolt To The Kremlin

By LEON DENNEN

NEW YORK (NEA)—Strikes and "bread riots" in Poland were suppressed with the usual Communist brutality.

But they led to the fall from power of Wladyslaw Gomulka, Moscow's trusted man in Warsaw. They were certainly a grim reminder to the Kremlin leaders and their East European puppets of the smoldering discontent in their Communist dictatorships.

After the Russian troops invaded Czechoslovakia in 1968 and crushed the liberal opposition, Leonid Brezhnev, the Kremlin's shaky boss, foresaw an era of stability in his Red empire.

He was confident enough to court the West German "fascists" and sign a "nonaggression" pact with Bonn's Chancellor Willy Brandt. He also encouraged Gomulka to conclude a similar pact with the Germans.

Brezhnev saw these pacts as a major diplomatic victory for Russia. He obviously hoped to draw credit for his "successful" European policy at the much-postponed 24th congress of the Russian Communist party scheduled for next March.

The dramatic events in Poland completely upset Brezhnev's timetable. They also strengthened the diehard position of Walter Ulbricht, East Germany's Communist boss.

It is Ulbricht's contention that any relaxation of tension in Europe is bound to encourage opponents of communism. He fears the consequences of a rapprochement with West Germany on his domestic policy far more than the disapproval of Big Brother in Moscow.

The East German Stalinists have reason to be discouraged by the actions of their Soviet overlords. Ulbricht, after all, has been more loyal to the Kremlin than any other East European Communist leader.

What irks him particularly is the contrast between East Germany's enormous economic value to the Russians and the offhand way in which Brezhnev is treating him politically.

But Ulbricht is an old conspirator in the netherworld of Red intrigue. He has powerful supporters in the Kremlin and among Russia's marshals and generals.

It is thus quite likely that the very success of Brezhnev's negotiations with Brandt might be the undoing of the Soviet party leader. It was a similar policy toward West Germany that former Premier Nikita Khrushchev lost his job.

However, neither Ulbricht nor his friends in Moscow can turn back the clock of history.

The fact is that behind the deceptive cloud of synthetic homogeneity imposed by Moscow the nations of East Europe preserve and cherish their national and cultural traditions and individualities. These have been obscured but not snuffed out by the Marxist-Leninist dictatorships.

The recent strikes and riots by workers — the very "proletariat" in whose name the Communists ostensibly rule—in the Baltic ports of Gdansk, Gdynia and elsewhere in Poland were spontaneously sparked by a sudden stiff rise in food prices decreed by the Warsaw regime.

But this was only a kindle-point. It was more proof—if proof is still needed—that the Red world is a volcano of discontent.

Indeed, the periodic explosions of popular anger in the Communist-ruled countries expose how shallow and precarious is the hold which Marxism-Leninism has on the people behind the Iron Curtain.

Even among Communist bureaucrats there is growing dissension on how to save their slowly disintegrating world and preserve their class privileges.

After the eruptions in East Germany in 1953, in Poland and Hungary in 1956, in Czechoslovakia in 1968 and now in Poland again, who can predict that new revolts will not continue to shake Moscow's empire?

Ann Landers:

Proves Blonds Have More Fun

Dear Ann Landers: I wish I could get my hands on that girl who said blonds do not have more fun and the public has been brainwashed into believing a lot of nonsense. She is wrong. Blonds DO have more fun and I proved it. In the last four years I have been Ash blond, Platinum, Golden-Glow, Dutch-tulip yellow, Honey-Beige and Pineapple Pink. I've also been brunet, a redhead and just about every shade in between that you can think of. I have worn my hair long and loose to my shoulders and the Grecian boy cut (which is the next thing to bald). I've had it layered, curled, straightened, ringleted, stripped and feathered. I have also worn wigs of every conceivable color and style as part of my experiment.

I kept a diary-type record of what happened to me. My hair was the determining factor because it is unquestionably my most outstanding feature.

As a golden blond I had more whistles, phone calls and invitations than at any other time. As a redhead I got nothing but propositions. As a brunet I attracted some attention, but not much. As a brownette I was as good as dead. I am living proof that the ads are right. Any comment? I see you are a brunet.—Joy Girl

Dear Girl: Since I've never been anything but a brunet, I have no idea what my life would have been like had I been a blond. I bow to your research and experience.

Dear Ann Landers: My younger sister (age 22) is expecting her first child. She is in her third month and very happy about it.

When I asked who her doctor is, she told me she feels fine and sees no point in going to a doctor until she gets ready to deliver.

I know every pregnant woman should go to the doctor for periodic checkups, but I don't know why. When she said, "Why should I spend the money?" I didn't have the answer. Please tell me so I can tell her.—Uninformed Sis

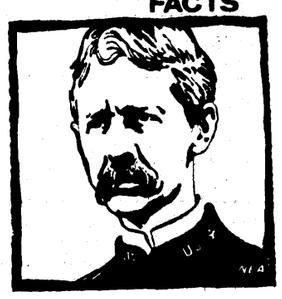

Dear Un: Pregnancy produces chemical changes in all women—even healthy ones. The major changes occur in hormonal composition, blood chemistry, blood pressure, and the kidneys. Every pregnant woman should be checked regularly. Today there are excellent medications which can help a pregnant woman stay well and produce a healthy child. The pregnant woman who does not get periodic medical checkups runs a serious risk—not only for herself, but for her unborn baby.

Dear Ann Landers: I was interested in the letter from the young fellow who liked a certain girl very much but he was scared to death that she might wind up looking exactly like her mother and he couldn't stand the old lady. He then referred to the Hungarian adage, "If you want to see what your sweetheart will look like in 30 years, take a good look at her mother."

That letter shook me up because I am going with a fellow who bears a remarkable resemblence to his father and I can't stand the old man. You advised the guy to buzz off. You said even though this girl might not end up looking like her mother, he'd be expecting her to at any moment. Does the same go for me?—Shook Cookie

Dear Cook: Yes. Identification can be a spooky thing, and your imagination may lead you to conclusions which have little or no basis in fact. I'm giving you the same advice I gave to the guy who wrote. If you can't stand your boyfriend's father and you see a remarkable resemblence—forget him, doll.

Law For Today

Q. I'd feel a lot safer if we had a peephole or one-way mirror on the door to our apartment. Our landlord says that if we want one we'll have to install it ourselves. Isn't that his responsibility?

A. That depends on the size and age of your building. Illinois law requires that the owner of every multiple dwelling (i.e. 5 or more separate housing units) built since July 20, 1967 provide a peephole on the entrance to each unit. The peephole must be placed to allow the person on the inside to see "any person immediately outside the entrance door."

Etiquette Customs

Deference Or Defense?

By JOY STILLEY
AP Newsfeatures Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Once upon a time knights in armor opened their visors when meeting someone, to determine if they were confronted by friend or enemy. From this stems today's custom of tipping the hat.

In medieval days a man walking or riding on the right had the advantage of being able to unsheath his sword quickly with his right hand. The position of deference is still to the right of the host or hostess.

"Although their practical purpose has vanished, many such etiquette traditions continue today," says Esther B. Aresty, whose new book, "The Best Behavior," traces the course of good manners from antiquity to the present.

Some customs that have outlived their usefulness, however, have been abandoned, such as the prohibition against cutting salad with a knife. This originated, Mrs. Aresty explains, before the advent of silver or stainless steel blades, when acid in the salad dressing would discolor knives then in use.

But other regulations laid down centuries ago remain valid to this day, notes the author, who researched hundreds of rare old courtesy and etiquette books. The earliest was "Instructions," written about 4,000 years ago by the Egyptian Ptahhotep.

"Deference to elders was preached in this ancient papyrus scroll and is one of the oldest rules of civilized mankind," she points out. "Another ancient courtesy rule is the practice of breaking bread, rather than biting into a whole slice, apparently because it was customary to collect table leavings for the poor. This was even called for in the Talmud."

Earlier books were general, stressing courtesy and human relationships rather than specific rules, Mrs. Aresty says. At the beginning of the 19th century, etiquette books, while they contained some elements of the courtesy books, became volumes of regulations.

However, Mrs. Aresty thinks that conforming to such regulations is not the basis of good manners. "You can put the forks on the right side and the knives on the left side of the plate—you may confuse your guests but all you've done is violate a regulation. But if you sit at the table with curlers in your hair and don't give your guests a chance to talk, then you're guilty of bad manners.

"Anything that offends is bad manners and you can define good manners in just htree words: consideration for others," she states. "Manners are what separates the herds from the leaders, the savages from the civilized."

While admitting that today's fast-paced life necessitates more informality, she contends that elimination of the niceties, in the area of man-woman relationships, is a "shattering loss."

"It's a great pleasure to be a woman and have a man look after you," declares the author, who confesses "I'm not a women's lib gal. Women are emasculating men in this country and women's lib is delivering he coup de grace."

The trim, well-groomed authority on manners of the past is particularly outspoken in her criticisms of children's manners of the present. Noting that manners were taught in school around the turn of the century, she adds that it would be a good idea for schools to reintroduce such a program.

"You must teach manners; they're not instinctive. The public school system must become surrogate parents in many ways because children are growing up without parental supervision" says Mrs. Aresty, the mother of a grown son and daughter.

"In this country etiquette writers have always complained about the behavior of children," she goes on. "The tantrum is an American phenomenon. In Europe you rarely see the squalling cutups that are commonplace here."

In other ways, too, European and American manners differ, Mrs. Aresty says, though the distinction is blurring with the prevalence of international travel.

"There was a long tradition in America of not being fancy and not copying European ways," she comments. "Although the fork came into use in England in the late 17th century, in America most people shoveled food into their mouths with knives right into the 19th century. Well past the Civil war, readers were still being advised not to put the knife into the mouth when eating."

Men were the arbiters of manners in Europe, since they had plenty of leisure and social life centered around their needs. Thus they wrote the earlier etiquette volumes: but in America women became the custodians of manners and here they wrote the books.

The rules of etiquette change constantly, Mrs. Aresty points out, and what is accepted at one period can be considered wrong at another time.

Lameduck Session May Put New Life In Proposed Rule Changes

By GREGG HERRINGTON
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two Democratic senators say the long and stormy life of the 91st Congress—and the big stack of unfinished legislation left when it died—may have been a blessing in disguise.

Majority Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana and Sen. Warren G. Magnuson of Washington said in weekend interviews the confusion and acrimony of the lame-duck session will give new life to Magnuson's proposed Senate rule changes when the 92nd Congress convenes.

The proposal is designed to eliminate the last-minute snafus that usually develop when Congress tries to pass controversial appropriations bills necessary to keep the government operating. Magnuson's plan: Separate controversy from the appropriations.

Magnuson said he will reintroduce, "as I have for the past 25 years," the proposal separating each session of Congress into two parts, the first for authorizing legislation and the second for appropriating legislation.

Mansfield bolstered the proposal with an endorsement in the wake of Saturday's adjournment of the 11th-longest congressional session in U.S. history—349 days since convening last January.

"After the legislative session we could sit around and let it set for awhile, then we would appropriate and we would know what we're doing," Magnuson explained.

"You know, there are times now when they've been up there on the Senate floor changing a poverty program, for example, while we've been in an Appropriations Committee meeting appropriating money for the old program."

When the 92nd Congress convenes Jan. 21 it will be responsible for acting on proposed government programs and budgets for the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1971.

However, it has become seemingly impossible for Congress to get that job done by July 1 each year. The classic example is perhaps the dispute over the supersonic transport plane.

The Transportation Department has been granted money through March 1971 for the project while the question of whether there should be an SST at all is still very much up in the air.

Magnuson said such situations would be eliminated under his plan.

Mansfield saw one other bright spot in the lengthy, appropriations-centered lame-duck session of the 91st Congress.

He said it gave the Senate equality with the House on money bills.

Traditionally, perhaps because the Constitution requires that money bills originate in the House, the Senate has yielded to the House when controversies have developed over appropriations.

Because the Senate balked on the SST this year, Mansfield said, "we will be more equal, and that's as it should be under the Constitution."

Some Guidelines For New Skiers

By AP Newsfeatures

Pre-beginnerhood in skiing is enough to boggle the mind.

Besides having to endure the humiliation of those first clumsy attempts, the novice must spend hours investigating and buying the necessary paraphernalia: skis, bindings, boots, poles, goggles and apparel. To complicate matters there are endless manufacturers vying for your dollars. So before you can cope with their pitches you have to know the "language."

Familiarize yourself with the sport well in advance of your first experience. Look at the consumer ski magazines.

Even the advertising will help you learn something about apparel and equipment. But don't feel that you must rush out and buy equipment before you've lain eyes on a slope.

Rent your equipment for awhile and experiment with various manufacturers. There are skis built to accommodate all levels of accomplishment, and most ski lines cover the whole range.

Try various skis in the beginning until you've developed an understanding of your own ability, make sure the skis are flexible and responsive in order to afford the control so vital to beginning performance.

Choosing the proper apparel can be a truly entertaining project these days. The choice in slopewear is in close competition with streetwear in terms of variety.

There's nothing wrong with the old standby pants-and-parka combination, but there's a far more exciting choice in style than ever before.

There are a few basic things to remember when putting yourself together for the first time.

Select clothes which allow for plenty of movement. Pants, especially, must accommodate falls and sprawls without letting loose at the seams.

It's wise to make an investment in a good pair of stretch pants. They see the most action of any piece of skiwear, because, of course, your body is most active and most flexible below the waist when skiing.

From there on in, its nothing but fun and imagination . . . putting together head-to-toe looks, cowboy-and-Indian costume looks. Anything goes once you've beaten the basics.

Beginnerhood really isn't as boggling as it seems, and you couldn't have chosen a better year. So take it easy and enjoy.

MORE MILK

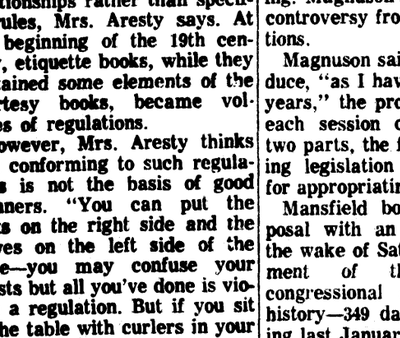

NEW YORK (AP) — Dairy cows, the classic symbol of tranquil existence, are producing more milk than ever before, according to the De Laval Separator Co., milking equipment manufacturer.

Although the number of U.S. cows has decreased 3.5 per cent this year, milk production will decrease only about 2 per cent —to 117 billion pounds.

The former name of Peking, China, was Peiping, meaning "northern peace."

Weeping Seminole Glad To Be Alive

HOLLYWOOD, Fla. (AP) — Tears stream endlessly down the jagged scar on Howard Osceola's face, but he wipes them away with a smile. Although he weeps constantly, he considers himself lucky to be alive.

"The surgeons were very good men, very good men," said the young Seminole Indian of the doctors who succeeded in patching his body but were unable to close a tear duct on his left eye.

"The one who worked on my left eye was a very great man. They did not think it could be saved," he said.

The handsome 19-year-old from the Seminole Okalee Indian Village was struck by at least two cars, and probably three, in a hitchhiking accident last September. His jaw was crushed, both his arms broken in many places, his left collar bone splintered and seven ribs shattered.

As police reconstructed the sequence of events, Osceola was first knocked down by a hit and run driver who left him lying in the road. A second car then struck the unconscious man.

The second driver went to notify the police. When they reached the scene they found Osceola in a roadside canal where he had apparently been tossed by another hit and run car.

"I will not die," Osceola told police who found him lying with only his face above water in the canal beside an empty stretch of U.S. Highway 27 west of Hollywood. "Please do not let me die."

Osceola was unconscious for a month. But after nearly four months in the hospital, he was back on his feet.

Herman Smith Of Virginia Dies Suddenly

VIRGINIA — Herman B. Smith, 68 year old retired water works superintendent here, died suddenly at 10:30 p.m. Monday night at St. John's hospital in Springfield where he had been taken an hour previously.

He was born Sept. 2, 1902 at Cumberland, Tennesee, son of O. T. and Patty Gowin Smith. He was married to Helen Wright who survives with three sons, H. B. Smith, and James R. Smith, both of Virginia and Carroll Smith of Charleston, Ill. There are 7 grandchildren.

These brothers and sisters survive, Bernard, Waverly, Kansas; Kenneth Smith and Eleanor Jontra, both of Howard, Kansas and Myrtle Sullivan of Wichita, Kansas.

The remains are at the Massie Funeral Home where friends may call 7 to 9 p.m. Wednesday.

Funeral services will be at 2 p.m. Thursday at the funeral home with Rev. Michael Schnell officiating. Interment will be in Walnut Ridge cemetery.

THE OLD AND THE NEW. Workers in India still use bamboo for scaffolding, but cover for this pulp plant storage tank is made of a space-age material—fiberglass-reinforced plastic. The 36-foot-diameter cover, which resists corrosive solutions in the tank, was built in the United States and shipped to India for installation.

YOUR BIRTHDAY AND HOROSCOPE

WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 6—Born today, you are a clever individual who will have to be on his guard against developing the habit of trying to outwit everybody else. Others will greatly admire and respect you so long as you keep your brilliance of mind working for the good of others as well as yourself. Let it begin to be employed against others, to the detriment of their social or professional success, and you will find that you may have overworked a good thing to the point of turning it against yourself.

Highly intelligent and gifted with an excellent memory, you should have little if any difficulty in school as a child or in learning the details of your profession as an adult. Your ability to hold new facts in your mind ready for use—even before others have fully grasped them—make you a competitor worthy of anyone's attention. Your choice of a career may take considerable time—but the care will pay off.

Depending upon what success means to you, you will be happy or unhappy with the results of your labor. If you expect great financial rewards, you will probably be disappointed. If you will be satisfied with the joy that comes with a job well done and the admiration and respect of your peers and superiors, you can know the highest kind of happiness.

To find what is in store for you tomorrow, select your birthday and read the corresponding paragraph. Let your birthday star be your daily guide.

Thursday, January 7

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23 - Jan. 20)—Keep within the limits of your own ambitions. Don't be persuaded into going after goals impossible for you to attain.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21-Feb. 19)—You can change a disappointing turn of events into an activity that is both fun and profitable for all concerned.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 21)—Make an effort to do more than is asked of you today. You can make an excellent impression on higher-ups by going the extra mile.

ARIES (March 22-April 20)—Favors done in the expectation of a gainful return are inclined to backfire these days. Do a good turn—and then keep quiet about it.

TAURUS (April 21-May 21)—Take the course of action which will serve you best in the long run. Goals immediately attainable may not be best.

GEMINI (May 22-June 21) — Now that you have attained the present goal, seek to maintain it in excellent fashion. Don't let others interfere.

CANCER (June 22-July 23)—Hidden risks mean that you must exercise special caution today—even as you go about routine chores. All may not be as it seems.

LEO (July 24-Aug. 23)—You make a great deal out of little today. Where children are concerned, take care that you don't appear to be merely tolerating them.

VIRGO (Aug. 24-Sept. 23) — Check over recent activities. You may find that you have made the wrong decision—but one that is not irrevocable.

LIBRA (Sept. 24-Oct. 23) — Maintain your health and you will at the same time maintain a joyous spirit. Be glad for the gifts you have already received.

PATTERSON — Word has been received here that James R. Hamilton, son of Mr. and Mrs. James H. Hamilton of Patterson, has been promoted to the rank of Specialist 5th Class, while serving with the Third Squadron, 8th Cavalry, Coleman Barracks at Mannheim, Germany.

Sp-5 Hamilton is a clerk-teletype operator in the S-2 (intelligence) section for his Squadron. He was inducted into military service Aug. 5, 1969.

Hamilton is a 1967 graduate of North Greene High School at White Hall and attended Robert Morris College.

PEARN STATIONED IN CALIFORNIA

(FHTNC) CAMP PENDLETON, Calif. — Marine Lance Corporal Victor W. Pearn, son of Mrs. Dephin Pearn of 429 S. East St., and husband of the former Miss Judith A. Klopfer of 305 Hooker St., both of Jacksonville, Ill., is serving at the Marine Corps Base, Camp Pendleton, Calif.

PASADENA BALLOON?

SALEM, Ill. (AP) — Donald Quick, who farms northwest of Salem, thinks he may have the record-setting balloon from last week's tournament of roses.

While in a field Monday, Quick found a polka-dot balloon of medium size labeled "Victory Park, Pasadena, Calif."

If it is one of those sent aloft prior to last Friday's Ohio State-Stanford football game n the Rose Bowl it traveled east at speeds averaging 33 miles per hour for three days.

Salem, in Southcentral, Illinois, is about 2,400 miles from Pasadena.

Principal For New Jr. High To Address Ambucs

Members of the local Ambucs will have the privilege of hearing Bill Gussner, who will serve as principal for the Jacksonville Armstrong Junior High next year, speak at the luncheon meeting Wednesday noon at Holiday Inn according to program chairman, Holley Ash.

Last week the 'surprise' program was unfulfilled with the exception of hearing new members give a run down on their backgrounds for the benefit of their fellow Ambucs.

President Ron Gray was in charge. Announcement was made of the recent addition of a $300 gift to Pathway School, a major benefactor of the local club. Attendance chairman formally removed members of his committee and accepted volunteers from the floor to fill the vacancies, Bud Mohnen, Larry Schmaljohn, Holley Ash and Bill Oxley. Money changed hands as the last 1970 meeting in the following sequence, Jim Hall pocketing $12 for the 50-50 drawing and Gary Fellhauer identifying the bulletin mistake for a dollar pay-off. John Clifton forfeited the attendance loot to the tune of $10.75.

Tickets will be distributed to members Wednesday for the Jan. 29th Cardinal Caravan in the city. The $2.50 ticket includes a fine dinner at the Inn. Included in the visiting group will be several baseball players and personnel from the front Cardinal office.

Earl Eyman's Brother Dies

He is survived by his wife, Zola; children, Karl of Syracuse, New York; Mrs. Elizabeth Smith, Bartonville and Mrs. Ethel Rains, Edwardsville. There are 6 grandchildren and 11 great grandchildren.

These brothers and sisters survive, Virgil, Litchfield; Clarence of Morrisonville; Earl of this city; Mrs. Lula Allen, Van Nuys, California.

Funeral services will be at 1:30 p.m. Wednesday at the Bivin Funeral Home in Morrisonville with interment in the cemetery there.

There are estimated to be some 600 insect species which cause farmers of North Ameri-

Bald Eagle's Death Arouses Authorities

JERSEYVILLE — The death of a bald eagle in Jersey county December 28th has aroused a storm of indignation among many conservationists in this Illinois locality, and Federal and State authorities have made an exhaustive investigation of the case.

Prior to its death at Principia College, where it had been brought from Alton, the bird had been found on a wooded hillside at Augusta and State streets in that city with a heavy steel, game trap attached to one of its legs.

Alton police were called and succeeded in covering the bird with a blanket to protect themselves from its talons, and removed the trap. The bird was then taken to the Principia College for care and ultimate release in case of recovery. Bald eagles, what few are remaining, often spend the winter in the Marquette Park and Principia College area.

The Federal Government's concern over the rapidly disappearing species, has brought about Federal and State investigation into the death of the eagle found on the Alton vicinity hillside, crippled and in a dying condition in the spring steel trap.

U.S. Game Management Agent Dean G. Tresch and Illinois Game Agent William DeSherlia conducted an intensive search during the past week of an Alton wooded locality, seeking for clues that might establish the identity of the illegal eagle trapper. The guilty person could receive a six months jail sentence and up to $500 as a fine or both fine and imprionment within the discretion of the court.

The body of the eagle was frozen and was slated to be flown to a Federal center in Maryland for an autopsy in an attempt to determine the exact cause of the bird's demise.

Flew With Trap

The wing span of the eagle measured six feet, and there is some speculation that the bird may been lured into the trap along the bluffs of the river road, and that it flew from the scene where it was caught to the Alton hillside where it was found and dragged the trap through the air until it fell exhausted in the wooded Alton locality.

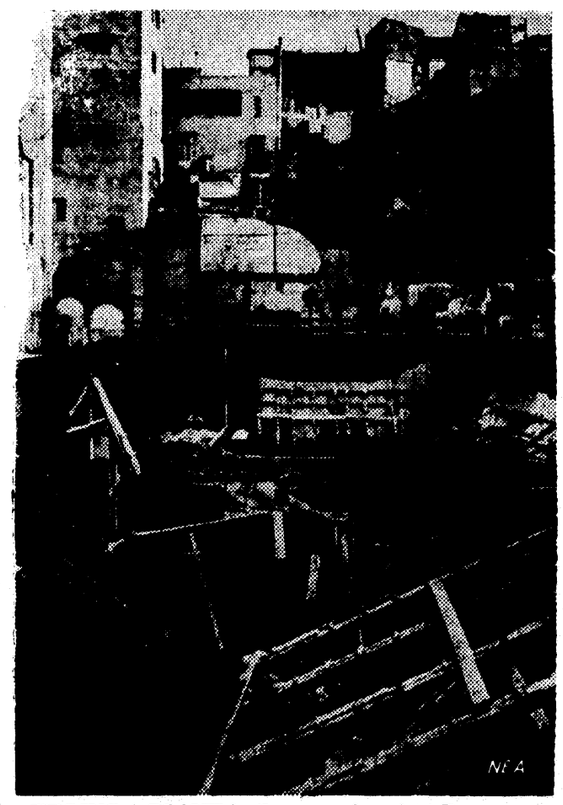

It was reported that the bird had been observed by a resident of the Highland vicinity some twenty miles from the locality where it finally alighted. The farmer-observer is said to have noticed the trap attached to the suffering creature. The bird was undoubtedly one of the number which live in the Marquette Park locality, where they feed on the dead fish among the ice floes.

Illegal hunting of the birds is not the only thing contributing to their extermination, but the indiscriminate use of DDT and pesticides constitute major factors indirectly.

Conservationists here declare that the wild pigeons could have been saved from total extinction, if the goverment had been awake to the situation. They point to the history of the wild pigeon extinction as related here years ago by several local residents.

CARL DOBSONS ATTEND NEW YEAR'S DINNER

U.S. Bombers Hit Ho Chi Minh Trail

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. Bombers gave the Ho Chi Minh trail in Laos another pounding Tuesday to try to thwart a drive that North Vietnam is reported planning in Cambodia late this month.

Intelligence reports indicate the North Vietnamese may be in position by the end of January to launch a new but relatively small TET offensive in Cambodia. The TET lunar new year starts Jan. 27.

To counter the enemy buildup, Strategic Air Command B52 bombers and smaller tactical bombers have been striking the Ho Chi Minh supply trail daily.

So far in the recent bombing campaign, U.S. planes have not struck at the Mu Gia Pass on North Vietnam's western frontier with Laos, which leads into the Ho Chi Minh trail.

President Nixon said Monday he would order air strikes against the Mu Gia Pass if North Vietnam moves troops and supplies through the mountain gateway at a time U.S. forces are pulling out of South Vietnam.

As the sustained bombing of the Ho Chi Minh Trail continued, the U.S. Command disclosed the loss of another plane taking part in that campaign.

In a delayed report, the command said an Air Force F4 Phantom fighter-bomber went down Sunday and that its two fliers are missing.

It was the 86th aircraft lost in Laos announced by U.S. officials since last March 10. The 86 include 14 helicopters. In several years prior to March 10, when the U.S. Command began announcing losses in Laos, about 400 American aircraft have gone down in that country.

Only one significant action was reported in South Vietnam. The enemy ambushed a U.S. military convoy on Highway 20 in the central highlands. U.S. headquarters said one American was killed and one wounded and that the enemy lost one killed.

In Cambodia South Vietnamese troops clashed four times Monday with North Vietnamese and Viet Cong forces in the eastern part of the country near the Vietnamese frontier.

The clashes ranged from 50 miles northeast of Phnom Penh to 50 miles southeast of the Cambodian capital.

Jewish Soviet Army Officer Goes On Trial

MOSCOW (AP) — A Jewish Soviet army officer went before a court martial Tuesday and a trial for nine other Jews will begin Wednesday, Jewish sources in Moscow reported. They said all are charged with complicity in the Leningrad airplane hijack attempt last June.

The defendants face maximum penalties of death if convicted.

The trials are the second and third for Soviet Jews arrested in connection with the planned hijack to Sweden of a small Soviet airliner last June 15 from Leningrad's Smolny Airport.

Conflicting reports about the trials circulated all day in Moscow. Earlier, informants said both trials had been postponed a day without explanation.

Leningrad court officials, reached by telephone, would not give any information. Foreign correspondents have been refused permission to travel to Leningrad to follow the trials.

Late Tuesday night, reliable sources said the court martial of Lt. Vulf Zalmanson began as scheduled and the trial of the other nine definitely would begin Wednesday.

Zalmanson, a Soviet army officer, is charged with treason and desertion. The others are charged with treason, "anti-Soviet propaganda and agitation" and "membership in anti-Soviet organizations."

Chicago College Teachers Strike

CHICAGO (AP) — Teachers struck the Chicago Junior College system Tuesday and bundled against temperatures that hovered around 10 degrees to picket the school's seven college campuses.

Officials said only about 10 per cent of the system's 1,200 teachers reported for work. Most of the 39,000 students stayed away from school in support of the Cook County Teachers Union or because there were no teachers to conduct classes.

The teachers are demanding 20 per cent pay increases, smaller classes and lighter teaching loads. Current salaries range from $8,900 for a starting teacher with a masters' degree to $18,950 for a full professor with a Ph.D. after 14 years.

Oscar Shabat, City College chancellor, said he might seek an injunction to end the strike. He said "everything possible" would be done to keep the schools open.

School officials maintained that the school system was still open and said that those teachers who reported for duty held classes.

"We're involved in a death struggle," Shabat said. "We're trying to keep the college system alive."

Union President Norman G. Swenson said the strike "academically closed" the campuses. He said the strike "is solid and we will stay out as long as is necessary to win—two months, maybe."

The vote to strike was made Monday night. The margin was 444 to 73. The contract expired Dec. 31.

Union negotiators last appeared at the bargaining table Dec. 21 when negotiations broke down. They did not show up for a session Dec. 23.

ABC Combines Opinion Poll, Election Night

NEW YORK (AP) — ABC News will combine an opinion poll with a live election-night atmosphere to see what people are thinking about national issues right at air time.

Just 36 hours before the Jan. 13 broadcast 600 pollsters will be sent out across the country for in-depth interviews with 3,000 people on four major categories, youth, the economy, law and order and war and peace.

The results will be fed into computers and reported and analyzed by pollster Louis Harris and anchorman Frank Reynolds, much as voting results would be on an election night.

Additional analysis will come from a group of prominent Americans who will answer questions and offer opinions in their fields.

Among them are Ramsy Clark, former attorney general; Walt Rostow, and Bill D. Moyers; former assistants to President Lyndon B. Johnson; Walter Heller, former chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers; and Eva Jefferson, student president of Northwestern University.

The show, "National Polling Day: What Americans Think," will be seen live on ABC at 10 p.m. EST Wednesday, Jan. 13, from the East Coast to the Rocky Mountains. On the Pacific Coast it will be seen on a delayed basis.

"Very simply, there are a lot of things we don't know about ourselves," said Lester Cooper, the producer. "We think we have all the answers. I think we will find that what we think isn't really the answer.

"We're trying to find out what we all think. And if we think differently from each other, how we can use that knowledge to come to some kind of agreement."

Jurors

Ficklin, a native of Petersburg, Ind., is a former enlisted man who received a direct commission as first lieutenant in 1961. He has since served two tours of duty in Vietnam as a helicopter pilot.

Asked what he knew about the alleged massacre, he said that he knew "something did happen but people there felt they were doing their duty."

But, he said a soldier is not bound to obey an unlawful order.

Daine, who gave Ft. Campbell as his home town, is a Medical Corps officer who said he served as executive officer of a field hospital in Vietnam.

He said that all he knew of My Lai is that it "caused the death of civilians."

"How it occurred I don't know," he said.

Laffoon, of Highland, Ind., served as a headquarters officer and as an adviser in Vietnam in 1969.

"My understanding is that the unit went on a search and destroy mission—to search and destroy anything they found," he said. He said his general understanding of the case is that the unit was "out to destroy that particular village and everything in it."

He said the My Lai action occurred following the enemy's Tet offensive, and U.S. troops in South Vietnam were tense.

Laffoon said he had reservations about the propriety of charging enlisted men who were "just following orders," but that he felt he could make a good judgment based on facts of the case.

Col. James A. Lillard, a Green Beret officer during two Vietnam tours, was among prospective jurors not seated. He declared that "vicious and brutal" crimes occurred in My Lai and constituted a "pitiful blot on our record."

"Some of the people killed there if not innocent were at least defenseless women and children."

"I have seen pictures of children too small to have planted mines and who were shot," he said. "I can find no excuse for that in my mind."

The tall, dark-haired native of Memphis, Tenn., said that the U.S. troops who occupied My Lai on March 16, 1968, found "what amounted to no resistance."

He said that "the residents were rounded up. A regrettable, vicious and brutal series of crimes took place."

"American troops were out of control—in fact, led out of control," he said.

The officer's ability to sit as an impartial juror was challenged by Edward Magill of Miami, Fla., Hutto's civilian lawyer.

The military Judge Lt. Col. Kenneth A. Howard, a native of Atlanta, Ga., and a Navy man during World War II, upheld the challenge to Lillard and the two other officers.

Also rejected were Col. Edmond O. Eggleston and Lt. Col. Warren L. Gillett, both of Ft. Campbell, Ky. Neither served in Vietnam.

Eggleston was the first to be rejected.

"In my own mind, I have reserverations about my competency to be an unbiased member of the court," he said.

New Selective Service Head For Illinois

Dean S. Sweet, 49, assumed the duties as State Director of the Illinois Selective Service System on January 1, 1971. Mr. Sweet is a native of Sangamon County Illinois and has been associated with the Selective Service System as a Lt. Colonel in the National Guard for several years. He and his wife Patricia are the parents of a son and two daughters. The son Roger is a four year veteran of the Marine Corps including a tour in Vietnam. Mr. Sweet is an Army veteran of World War II and the Korean conflict.

John H. Hammack, retiring State Director, by agreement with National Headquarters of Selective Service will remain "on call' by Mr. Sweet or the National Director, and will be on leave without pay except when needed for duty either with the State or National organization.

Any person working in the social service field in any capacity, such as public aid, public health, Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, all ministers, department of corrections, police agencies, division of vocational rehabilitation, et cetera, is invited and encouraged to become part of this group.

Meetings are held on the first Wednesday of each month. At this time, a program pertinent to the professional interests of the members is presented, with a free exchange of questions, answers, and ideas among those present.

The time of the meetings alternates each month from a noon meeting one month to an afternoon meeting the next month, in order to accommodate the attendance of more people.

Exchange Club's Ladies Night Set Jan. 11th

Members of the Jacksonville Exchange club met Monday night at Hamilton's with the president, Milton Edge, in charge. Byron Lewis gave the treasurer's report. The gratuity meal was won by Francis Robson.

Reports were heard by standing committee chairmen. Program chairmen for the month are Walter Crowe, Sid Armstrong, Charles Williamson and Walter Fife.

The Jan. 11th meeting will be the Ladies Night banquet to be in the Pump Room at the Blackhawk. Members not having made reservations are asked to do so immediately, no later than Saturday, phoning 245-4713.

Equipment For Police Radios Has Arrived

The balance of about $52,000 of base and mobile radio equipment arrived Tuesday morning at the county jail for use of Jacksonville City Police and Morgan County Sheriff's office.

The equipment was financed by a 60 per cent grant from the Illinois Law Enforcement Commission and the balance was shared by the City of Jacksonville and Morgan County.

The new base station is a 200-watt multi-channel unit which will replace a 100-watt outfit which is 24 years old.

The mobile radio equipment to be used in all police cars will be 100-watt units, replacing 60-watt units which range in age from 13 to 26 years.

Sheriff Harold E. Wright said Tuesday morning that the new console is currently being installed at the county jail and that the new base unit in the courthouse would be installed within the next few days.

He said it would be about 30 days before all other equipment could be installed and tested in the vehicles.

The radio purchase includes portable units to be used by all city police officers and two for county sheriff's deputies.

When completed, the radio network will be one of the most modern in the state.

Weather Abroad

LONDON (AP) — Unseasonable weather took its toll in lives and misery in parts of Europe and Asia on Tuesday. Floods washed over parts of Malaysia and snow and subfreezing temperatures chilled Spain and Italy.

Four inches of snow blanketed Tokyo, snarling auto and rail traffic.

During the storm a slight earthquake jolted Central Japan.

Fog shrouded West Germany and the sun appeared after three days of fog at London's Heathrow Airport where 10,000 passengers were stranded.

In contrast Sweden was bathed in bright sunshine and exceptionally mild temperatures, and the same was promised for Denmark.

Prime Minister Tun Abdul Razak declared a state of national disaster in Malaysia and mobilized military and civilian relief efforts for 100,000 victims of the worst floods in Malaysia's history.

As the sun shone there for the first time in almost a week, flood waters, at times 12-feet deep, swirled through the streets of Kuala Lumpur, the capital, and much of the low-lying Malayan Peninsula.

The official death toll was listed as 27 but with scores of persons missing officials feared the toll would climb much higher.

The heavy rains were unusual this time of the year in Maalaysia. The rainy season usually is in April-July and September-November.

Most of Spain was under snow in the coldest winter of the century. Madrid was a skating rink. Hospitals reported two deaths resulting from accidents on the icy streets and more than 200 other people were treated for arm and leg fractures during the day.

In Turin, Italy, the temperature fell to 8.6 degrees and the cold accounted for at least six heart and respiratory deaths.

Switzerland's Italian-speaking Ticino region was suffering the heaviest snowfalls in memory. Snowdrifts blocked approaches to the world's longest underpass, the Simplon Railway tunnel.

Families from the Swiss village of Bordei were making three-hour ski journeys to the nearest town to get provisions.

The sun shone in London after three days of fog, but did little to relieve the tempers of stranded travelers.

Officials warned the backlog of travelers would take days to clear.

Suit

In dismissing the action, however, Judge Austin held that the administration was well within its rights to use all facilities available to prepare itself against emergencies which might arise from civil disturbances.

The suit stemmed from disclosures by John M. O'Brien, 26, a former agent with the 113th Military Intelligence Group in north suburban Evanston.

O'Brien said that among civil rights leaders and prominent Illinois political figures spied on were Sen. Adlai E. Stevenson III, D-Ill., Rep. Abner Mikva, D-Ill., and Judge Otto Kerner of the 7th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals and former Illinois governor.

During the hearings there was testimony that Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley and Illinois Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie also were kept under Army surveillance.

Referring to O'Brien's disclosures, Judge Austin said the former agent "probably was seeking recognition as another Nathan Hale and had seen too many statues" of the Revolutionary War spy.

Among the last witnesses to testify Tuesday was Richard G. Stahl, another former agent of the 113th.

Stahl testified he was ordered to "conduct a very discreet surveillance" of the Rev. Ralph David Abernathy, head of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, while Abernathy was in Chicago at the time of the 1968 Democratic National Convention.

During the convention, Stahl said, he was assigned to follow the Georgia delegation and watch Gov. Lester Maddox.

O'Brien first made his disclosures concerning Army surveillance in letters to Sen. Sam J. Ervin, D-N.C., head of the Senate Constitutional Rights subcommittee, President Nixon, Sen. Charles Percy, R-Ill., and 10 newsmen.

Ervin has said he plans to call O'Brien as a witness at a hearing into alleged spying by the military on civilians."

LEGION AUXILIARY TO MEET WEDNESDAY

American Legion Auxiliary Unit 279 will meet at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, Jan. 6th, at the Post Home.

Angela Davis Says She Was Framed

SAN RAFAEL, Calif. (AP) — Black militant Angela Davis, accused of murder, kidnaping and conspiracy in the Marin County courthouse shootings of last August, declared her innocence Tuesday at her arraignment, asserting she was the victim of a political frameup.

Her fellow defendant, long-term black convict Ruchell Magee, 31, who was wounded in the break that took the lives of two other convicts, an accomplice and a Superior Court judge, was removed from the hearing as he shouted defiance.

Magee was shackled hand and foot and chained to a chair bolted to the floor.

Miss Davis, 26-year-old former UCLA philosophy instructor, sat unfettered in the jury box with her five attorneys, across the room from Magee.

She is charged under a California law on accomplices. Police claim she furnished the four guns used in the escape attempt. She was captured in New York Oct. 13 and extradited to San Rafael on Dec. 22.

As she was led into the heavily guarded courtroom Tuesday, she raised a clenched fist in a black power salute and smiled as some of the 60 or so spectators called out, "Right on!"

Wearing a navy blue miniskirt and blouse and with a bushy Afro-style hairdo, she told Superior Court Judge Joseph Wilson, "I want to declare publicly before the court and the people of this country that I am innocent of all charges brought against me by the state of California."

She said, "My presence in this court is unrelated to any criminal activities.

"I stand before this court as the target of a political frameup."

She demanded that she be recognized as her own cocounsel, saying, "If I am to be granted a fair trial, of which I am doubtful, it is imperative that I be given the right of cocounsel."

Judge Wilson told Miss Davis she could not enter a plea at this time. Attorneys explained later that no formal plea would be entered until a decision was made on various motions.

Her chief counsel, Allan Brotsky of San Francisco, made motions for bail and for dismissing the grand jury indictments on grounds of insufficient evidence and improper makeup of the grand jury.

Judge Wilson told him to put them in writing by Feb. 5 and gave the state until Feb. 22 to reply. Wilson said he then would set a trial date after consulting the chief justice of the State Supreme Court about appointment of an outside trial judge. All Marin County judges have disqualified themselves of friendship for Judge Harold J. Haley, who was killed in the Aug. 7 gun battle.

King Milling Co. Elects Officers

In a recent meeting, the board of directors of M. D. King Milling Company elected M. D. King, who has served for many years as president to chairman of the board, a new position in the company organization.

Clark C. King was elevated from treasurer to president. Mrs. Marjorie King will continue as secretary and Tom Hurd will assume the position of treasurer and continue as credit manager.

Also elected were three new vice presidents which are new positions in the company. Don Sloan will be vice president of sales and promotion, Dick Synold vice president of production and nutrition and Mary Tedrow will be vice president and assistant secretary. All are long time employees of the company and will continue their day to day management of their departments and in addition will assume part of the long range planning and over all supervision of the King Feed organization.

Chairman M. D. King in announcing the appointments which were effective January 1, 1971, pointed out that Clark King's father, grandfather, and great grandfather had all headed the company as president and that the company was entering its 102nd year of activity.

Under the leadership of M. D. King the Company has grown from a small feed manufacturing plant serving a local area, to three modern, fully equipped feed mills serving hundreds of livestock producers on a direct basis in Illinois and Missouri.

Fire Causes Damage Tuesday To Bowl Inn

Fire of undetermined origin caused damage to the heating system at the Bowl Inn, 224 North East street, about 1 a.m. Tuesday.

The fire was reported by the operators, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Eoff of 709 East Douglas.

Jacksonville firemen estimated damage at several hundred dollars including two walls and a part of the ceiling around the furnace room on the north side of the building.

Firemen said slight damage to the carpet in the bar and bowling alley lobby also resulted but that no damage was reported to the bowling alleys or the bowling equipment.

No Bowling

Mr. Eoff announced shortly before noon Tuesday that there would be no bowling for the "next few days," until some arrangements for heat could be made at the business house.

All leagues will be resumed as soon as arrangements can be completed for a heating system, damaged in the fire early Tuesday.

SIGHT-HEARING TESTS AT GREENFIELD

GREENFIELD — The Greenfield Lions club will conduct a free hearing and vision screening program in cooperation with the Four Rivers Special Education District Title VI Project for all pre-school children age three years and over in the Greenfield area. The screening will be held at the Baptist church annex on Fri., Jan 8 from 12:30 p.m. to 3:30 p.m.

FTC Abandoning Advertising Regulations

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Trade Commission announced Tuesday it is abandoning efforts to establish a general rule requiring makers of headache and upset stomach remedies to back up their advertising claims.

Instead, the FTC said, it will move against misleading or deceptive advertising of nonprescription systemic analgesic drugs on a case-to-case basis.

By a 4-1 vote, commissioners decided to scrap the 3½-year-old proposal that would, among other things, require drug manufacturers to prove any claims that their analgesics "are faster, stronger, or longer lasting" than those of their competitors.

Commissioner Paul Rand Dixon, a former FTC chairman, was the lone dissenter.

Even while dropping the rule proceeding, however, the commission ordered its investigative staff to go back as far as Jan. 1, 1969, to look for possible deception in analgesic advertising.

$500.00-A-MONTH TAX-FREE CASH WHENEVER YOU GO TO THE HOSPITAL

–Only 25¢ covers your entire family for the first month

★Pays you cash at the rate of $500.00 a month for each hospital stay...even for life, if necessary.

★Pays in addition to any other companies' coverage you have—including Medicare.

★Pays all cash direct to you (not to doctor or hospital).

★Guaranteed Renewable for Life. National Home guarantees never to cancel your protection no matter how old you become or how many claims you have.

No salesman will call—No medical examination required—No age limit

ACT NOW—YOUR ENROLLMENT FORM MUST BE MAILED BY MIDNIGHT, THURS., JAN. 7, OR IT CANNOT BE ACCEPTED

One out of two families will have someone in the hospital this year! It could be you—or some beloved member of your family—tomorrow...next week...next month. Sad to say, very few families have anywhere near enough coverage to meet today's soaring hospital costs. These costs have doubled in just a few short years. They are expected to double again in the few years ahead.

Stop for a moment. Think how much a long stay in the hospital will cost you or a loved one. How would you ever pay for costly, but necessary, X-rays, doctor bills, drugs and medicines? What would you do if your pay check stopped, but living expenses kept going on the same as ever? The same rent, phone, food, all the day-to-day expenses that never stop.

What is the average breadwinner to do? We believe we have the answer in our National Home plan that Pays you $500.00-a-month tax-free cash whenever you are hospitalized.

What a blessing it is when you know you have $500.00 cash coming in every month when you go to the hospital. You get your $500.00-a-month cash — tax-free — as long as you are confined in the hospital. You are covered from the very first day for accidents and from the sixth day for sickness—even for life, if necessary! Most everyone has some insurance or savings to take care of a one to five-day hospital stay. Since we provide lifetime benefits, this "deductible" feature enables us to give you broad coverage at a lower cost than would otherwise be possible.

Now, this low-cost plan from National Home enables you to enjoy this protection at once. Your introductory rate is just 25¢ for the first month's coverage for your entire family. Then, you may continue at National Home's regular low rates.

The added protection you NEED!

All benefits of this $500.00-a-month plan are paid directly to you, in tax-free cash, in addition to whatever you may receive from your insurance with any other company! Use the money as you see fit—for hospital or doctor bills, mortgage or rent payments, to replace savings—or any necessary, but costly, expenses not covered by other hospital policies.

Everything costs more these days (need we tell you?) and hospital care is certainly no exception! While 7 out of 8 Americans have some hospital insurance, most have found it does not cover all bills that pile up when sickness or accident strikes. That's why National Home developed this low-cost plan that helps you pay hospital costs or other expenses.

We can never cancel your policy!

You can count on this wonderful protection no matter how old you become or how many times you collect from us. Your policy guarantees that we can never cancel your protection for any reason whatsoever. It is Guaranteed Renewable for Life!

And that's not all. Suppose you have a growing family — this policy (NH10-669)...

PAYS $500.00-A-MONTH CASH for each accident or illness. Coverage for accidents begins the very first day in the hospital; sickness coverage begins the sixth day in the hospital.

PAYS $250.00-A-MONTH CASH for the first three months, when you're 65 or over. And a full $500.00-A-MONTH CASH thereafter—even for life. Coverage for accidents begins the very first day in the hospital; sickness coverage begins the sixth day in the hospital.

PAYS $300.00-A-MONTH CASH if a covered child is hospitalized for injury or illness. Coverage for accidents begins the very first day in the hospital; sickness coverage begins the sixth day in the hospital. And the benefits continue for as long as necessary.

PAYS $2,000.00-A-MONTH CASH when both husband and wife (under age 65) are hospitalized at the same time for accidental injury for as long as both remain in the hospital—even for life, if necessary.

PAYS $400.00-A-MONTH CASH for a registered nurse at home if your doctor has you hire one within five days following a covered hospital confinement of five days or more.

PAYS up to $2,000.00 CASH for complete accidental loss of limbs or eyesight.

65 OR OVER? YOU COLLECT IN ADDITION TO MEDICARE BENEFITS

We have designed this plan as a valuable addition to whatever is paid by Medicare – or health insurance you may have with any other companies. Remember, all checks will be sent directly to you (not to the doctor or hospital), to give you that "extra" help just when you need it most. Use the tax-free cash any way you see fit. In addition to any benefits you may receive from Medicare, this National Home plan pays you at the rate of $250.00 a month for the first 3 months, and $500.00 monthly while hospitalized thereafter... even for life if necessary!

Pays you $300.00-a-month cash whenever any dependent child is hospitalized.

When you choose Coverage for Children, all your unmarried dependent children from age one month through 18 years are covered, too! What's more, any newborn children you have in the future are covered automatically at the age of one month —at no additional cost to you. And whenever any of your children go to the hospital, this National Home plan pays you at the rate of $300.00-a-month cash, for as long as necessary. Children are covered for accidents from the first day and for sickness from the sixth day.

Pays you tax-free cash Maternity Benefits, too.

With this plan, you can also collect cash at the rate of $500.00 a month for every day you are confined to the hospital for pregnancy, childbirth, or even miscarriage. You get this cash, which is yours to use as you see fit, when Coverage for Children and Maternity Benefits have been added to the basic plan. Of course, both parents must be enrolled in this plan for the entire period of pregnancy.

Pays you up to $4,800.00 cash for a Registered Nurse at Home.

Here's a wonderful "get well" benefit of this National Home plan: You collect cash benefits at the rate of $400.00 a month when your doctor has you employ a full-time registered nurse within five days after you come home, following a stay in the hospital of five days or more for which benefits were payable. You are paid for the same number of covered days that you were in the hospital—even up to 12 full months!

Double Cash Accident Benefit.

When you and your insured spouse are hospitalized at the same time for an accidental injury, this National Home plan pays you an EXTRAORDINARY DOUBLE CASH BENEFIT. You receive not $500.00 but $1,000.00 a month. Your spouse receives not $500.00 but $1,000.00 a month. That's $2,000.00 in all, in cash payments to you every month (when under age 65) starting the day you enter the hospital for as long as you both remain there.

Pays you up to $2,000.00 cash for these accidental losses....

The accidental loss of limbs or eyesight can be terrible. But if such loss occurs any time within 90 days of the accident, you collect $1,000.00 for the complete loss of a hand or a foot or the sight of an eye—and $2,000.00 for loss of two limbs or the sight of both eyes.

Waiver of premium benefit.

Should you—the policyowner—be hospitalized for 8 consecutive weeks or more, this National Home plan will PAY ALL PREMIUMS that come due for you and all Covered Members of your family while you are confined to the hospital beyond the initial 8-week period. And your protection continues just the same as if you were paying the premiums yourself. Then, if you leave the hospital and must return for the same condition before you have resumed full normal activities for 90 days, we will again pay any premiums while you are in the hospital—for the total confinement! This means you pay no premiums, yet your full protection remains in force.

These are the ONLY exclusions!

Your National Home policy covers every kind of sickness or accident except conditions caused by: act of war; any mental disease or disorder; pregnancy, except as provided under the Maternity Benefit provision; and any sickness or injury you had before the Effective Date of your policy... during the first 2 years only.

This last item is a real help if you already have a health problem. If you are sick before you take out this policy, you will even be covered for that condition after the policy has been in effect for 2 years. Meanwhile, of course, every new condition is covered.

Nationally known and respected.

This is the kind of outstanding protection you have read about in Reader's Digest, Parents', National Geographic and other leading publications. The special plans offered by the National Liberty Corporation group of companies are today helping policyowners in all 50 states – and many foreign countries – paying benefits at the rate of more than $1,500,000.00 a month. In addition, our Company has a RECOMMENDED rating from Best's Insurance Reports, one of the foremost insurance authorities in the nation.

Fast, reliable claim service when needed most.

You never really know how good a policy is until you have to make a claim. That's why we think you'll be interested in what some of our National Home members have to say. Their comments—quoted below—are typical of the hundreds of expressions of appreciation we receive from policyowners every week.

"Received your checks totaling $585.68 for injury. I appreciated your kindness and promptness in the claim. It certainly came in handy and I had less worries knowing I had this protection. You certainly paid all the benefits stated in the policy without question." MRS. ANGELA B. HARDY, Abbeville, Louisiana

"You folks were very prompt in sending the money when my wife went to the hospital for surgery. Thank you so much." HAROLD DOVENBORG, Zanesville, Ohio

"I was more than satisfied with the way my claim was handled. One couldn't ask for better service and the 'get well soon' message was one of the nicest thoughts on your part. I thank you sincerely." MARGUERITE LINDAU, Duluth, Minnesota

Outstanding Americans like these Recommend this Coverage.

DR. E. STANLEY JONES, internationally known evangelist, author, missionary statesman: "In offering low-cost health insurance by mail, you are rendering a valuable service to thousands of people who have no other opportunity to avail themselves of such protection. It's reassuring to know that policyowners insured by the National Liberty group are receiving more than $1,500,000.00 a month in benefits."

JEROME HINES, leading bass with the Metropolitan Opera Company: "It seems to me that the concept of health insurance by mail is a very sensible one. It's quick, easy and economical. Nobody makes surprise visits to your home to ask personal questions. There's no medical examination. And costly processing charges are eliminated. This means more protection at less cost. I congratulate National Home Life Assurance Company for meeting a real need."

National Home commended in the Congressional Record of the United States Congress

National Home, a division of National Liberty Corporation, has been commended in the United States Congressional Record for bringing low-cost insurance to the general public: "National Liberty deserves recognition for providing service beyond the expected, service willingly offered to those who are not being cared for in other ways. This is the secret of success for its low-cost insurance plans. With the highest public interest at heart, the National Liberty Corporation group of companies combines reliability and quality of service with noteworthy price advantages. It is to be commended on its leadership and vision in this field of human welfare."

YOUR QUESTIONS ANSWERED ABOUT THIS NATIONAL HOME PLAN

1. How much will I be paid when I go to the hospital?

You will receive cash at the rate of $500.00 a month ($16.67 a day). When you're 65 or over, you collect (in addition to any Medicare benefits) $250.00 a month for the first 3 months, and $500.00 monthly while you remain continuously hospitalized thereafter. And you collect cash for an accident even if you're in the hospital for only one day. Coverage for illness begins the sixth day—and benefits are paid in full for as long as you're hospitalized ... even for life, if necessary.

2. Do you pay me cash when my children go to the hospital?

You collect cash at the rate of $300.00 a month whenever any of your children (age 1 month through 18 years) go to the hospital—if Coverage for Children is added to the basic plan. Coverage for accidents begins on the first day—sickness on the sixth day. And if you have a growing family—as soon as any newborn child is one month old, he, too, is covered—automatically.... at no additional cost.

3. When do I start to collect hospital benefits?

This new plan (NH10-669) covers you from the very first day for accidents, and from the sixth day for sickness—even for life, if necessary! Most everyone has some insurance or savings to take care of a one to five-day hospital stay. Since we provide lifetime benefits, this "deductible" feature enables us to give you broad coverage at a lower cost than would otherwise be possible.

4. Will you pay me cash benefits for pregnancy?

Yes, when Coverage for Children and Maternity Benefits have been added to the basic plan. You collect cash at the rate of $500.00 a month for pregnancy, childbirth or miscarriage that results in a hospital stay. (Both parents have to be enrolled in this plan for entire pregnancy period.)

5. Suppose I'm hospitalized for a long time and can't meet my premium payments?

If you—the policyowner—are hospitalized for 8 consecutive weeks or more, this plan will PAY ALL PREMIUMS that come due for you and all Covered Members of your family while you are confined to the hospital beyond the initial 8-week period. You aren't expected to pay us back, either.

6. Now tell me what's the "catch"—what doesn't my policy cover?

Get ready for a welcome surprise. Your policy covers everything except conditions caused by: act of war; any mental disease or disorder; pregnancy, except as provided under the Maternity Benefit provision; confinements within a U.S. Government hospital or a nursing or convalescent facility; and any sickness or injury you had before the Effective Date of your policy—but even this last "exclusion" is done away with after you've been a policyowner for only two years. Everything else is definitely covered.

7. What are the requirements to enroll in this National Home plan?

You must not have been refused or had cancelled any health, hospital or life insurance due to reasons of health; and to qualify during this Enrollment Period—you must enroll before midnight of the date shown on the Enrollment Form.

8. Besides saving money—are there any other advantages to joining this plan during this Enrollment Period?

Yes. A very important one is that you don't need to complete a lengthy, detailed application—just the brief Enrollment Form in the corner of this page. Also, during this Enrollment Period there are no extra requirements for eligibility, and no "waivers" or restrictive endorsements can be put on your policy!

9. How do I enroll?

Fill out the brief Enrollment Form and mail it with just 25¢ for the first month's protection for your entire family. Mail to: National Home, Valley Forge, Pa. 19481.

Why you must act before the date shown on your Enrollment Form—just a few days from today.

Why do we give you so little time to enroll in this plan? Because this is a guaranteed enrollment offer, we can open the enrollment only during a limited time period—with a firm deadline date for everyone. To provide you with this broad coverage at these rates, we must receive your Enrollment Form during the same period as all the others.

As soon as we receive your Enrollment Form we will rush your policy to you by First Class Mail. When your policy arrives, examine it in the privacy of your own home. It is a very short document and you'll be pleasantly surprised to see there is no fine print. Show it, if you wish, to your doctor, lawyer, insurance agent, or some other trusted advisor.

Here are your low rates.

The following rate chart shows how little it costs after the first month to cover yourself, your spouse and any adult dependent. Naturally, at these low rates, we can issue you only one policy of this type. Each adult, 16 or over, pays the rate shown for his or her age.

Age at Enrollment	Monthly Premium per Adult
16-44	only $2.95
45-49	only $3.40
50-54	only $3.75
55-74	only $4.35
75-79	only $5.00
80-84	only $5.55
85 and over	only $6.65

Only $1.55 more per month covers all your unmarried dependent children...from the age of one month through 18 years. Newborn children are covered automatically at the age of one month – at no additional cost. And then if you wish, just add $1.15 monthly to that, and you're covered for Maternity Benefits, too.

NOTE: The regular monthly premium shown here (for age at time of enrollment) will not automatically increase as you pass from one age bracket to the next! Once you have enrolled in this National Home plan, your rate can never be changed because of how much or how often you collect from us—or because of advanced age—but only if there is a general rate adjustment, up or down, on all policies of this type in your entire state!

Act NOW—"Later" May Be Too Late!

Just 25¢ covers you and your family for first month.

TIME IS PRECIOUS! Act quickly. (No salesman will call.) Get your Enrollment Form into the mail today—because once you suffer an accident or sickness, it's TOO LATE to buy protection at any cost. That's why we urge you to act today —before anything unexpected happens.

MONEY-BACK GUARANTEE

We will send your National Home policy by mail. Examine it carefully in the privacy of your own home. Show it, if you wish, to your own insurance agent, doctor, lawyer or other trusted adviser. If you decide, for any reason, that you don't want to continue as a member of this plan, return the policy within 10 days of the date you receive it, and we will promptly refund your money. Meanwhile, you will be fully protected while making your decision!

Calhoun Staves Off Griggsville

By BUFORD GREEN
Sports Editor

GRIGGSVILLE—Short but speedy Calhoun survived a blazing start by Griggsville with some clutch free throw shooting at the end to notch an important 61-57 Pike County Conference verdict over the Tornadoes Tuesday evening.

The victory, Calhoun's seventh in eight games to date, gives the Warriors the favorite's role in the well-balanced Pike County loop, and drops Griggsville to an 8-2 reading.

The game developed into virtually a battle between two of the finest sets of guards in the entire area—Mike Barry and Joe Clendenny of Calhoun and Bill Brawdy and Dan Bartlett of Griggsville, with the winners getting more help from the front line.

Griggsville opened the game with a brilliant display of outside shooting, hitting its first eight shots, all by Brawdy and Bartlett, and canned nine of 11 in the opening period to lead 20-13 after eight minutes.

The Calhoun man-to-man defense began to take its toll after that and Griggsville never came close to regaining its first period touch. Barry and Clendenny carried the Warriors back even at 27-27 and 29-29 at intermission, shooting 42 per cent for the half to Griggsville's 50 per cent rate.

Carl Suhling, Barry and Clendenny maintained command for Calhoun in the third stanza and the Warriors swept to a 43-37 margin entering the final eight minutes.

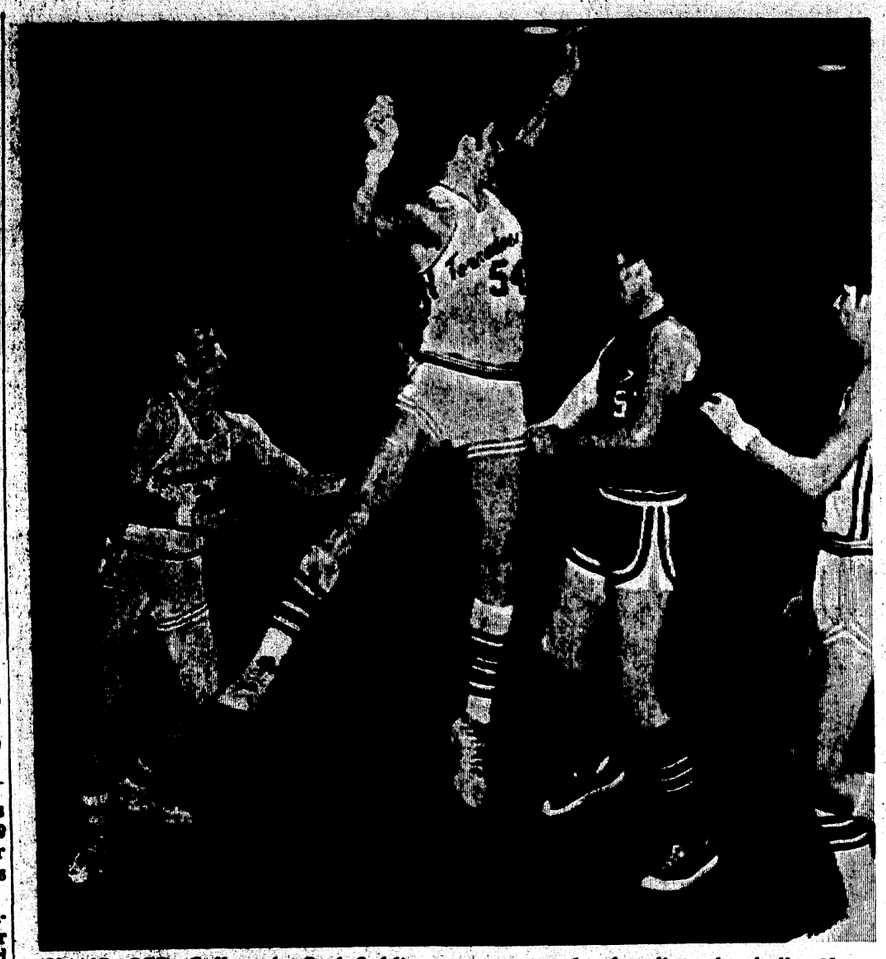

Calhoun's biggest lead in the fourth was at 52-45 with 2:30 left before Brawdy paced Griggsville to within 53-51 and 55-53 with 55 seconds showing. Barry and Clendenny took over at the charity stripe, combining to hit eight of eight from the 15-foot mark to put the game on ice.

Calhoun, led by Barry with 19, Clendenny with 17 and Jim Johnson with 15, finished shooting 44 per cent and had only ten turnovers to Griggsville's 17. The losers fired at a 46 per cent rate and held a slim 24-23 board control, with Brawdy leading all scorers with a 22-point output.

Porta Crushes Kincaid, 82-49 In MSM Contest

PETERSBURG — Porta jumped to a 22-12 first quarter lead and was never headed as the Bluejays defeated Kincaid 82-49 in a MSM Conference game Tuesday night.

The Bluejays, now 9-2 overall and 3-0 in the conference, were led by Dave Espenscheid who finished with 21 points and Casey Duncheon who added 19 more. Bob Brauer and Harry Godbey also finished in double figures with 12 and 10 points respectively.

Kincaid was paced by Dave Goodwin who pitched in 19 points and Rick Wake who had 17 as the Ponies now fall to 3-7 overall and 2-1 in MSM play.

Rushville Rolls To 69-59 Count Over Lewistown

LEWISTOWN — Rushville led after every stop and defeated Lewistown in a Spoon River Conference game, 69-59, Tuesday evening.

The visitors led 35-19 at half and 54-36 at the end of three periods before the hosts cut the lead to the final margin.

Center Gene Tillitt led the Rockets with 20 points as Rushville increases its record to 7-3 on the year, while Lewistown is still winless after six starts.

Barry Moran Sparks Wildcats Over Australia

EVANSTON, Ill. (AP) — Northwestern's Wildcats needed a scoring spurt by Barry Moran Tuesday night to move out to a 74-71 basketball victory over Australia's touring National team.

The Wildcats fought off a 28-point splurge by Australia's David Lindstrom to finally nail down the victory.

Lindstrom poured in 22 of his points to give the Aussies a 38-37 halftime lead.

Northwestern moved ahead 52-44 midway in the second half but the visitors rallied to take a 63-61 lead.

Moran put Northwestern ahead 70-69 in the late stages only to have Ian Watson score for a 71-70 Australia lead. Moran then clicked on a basket to give Northwestern the lead for good at 72-71.

Moran finished with 12 points but Ron Shoger, who hit two insurance free throws with one second to play, topped the Wildcats with 13.

Shannon, Brewer Spark Gophers To 92-87 Margin

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP)—Injured Ollie Shannon came off the bench to spark a Minnesota comeback that tied the game in regulation and then Jim Brewer's muscle led the Gophers to a 92-87 overtime basketball victory Tuesday night over the Niagara purple Eagles.

Shannon, who did not come into the game until the second half because of an ankle injury, wound up with 15 points. The 6-foot-8 Brewer scored 24 points, six in the overtime, and pulled down 15 rebounds.

Shannon sank Minnesota's first two field goals of the overtime, the second one sending his team in front for good at 79-77.

Chandlerville Tops Greenview, 69-51

GREENVIEW — The visiting Comets put four of their five starters in double figures as Chandlerville put on a strong first half effort to grab a commanding lead and take a final 69-51 New Salem Conference victory over Greenview Tuesday night.

Chandlerville, now 8-3 overall and with a perfect 4-0 record in conference play, outshot the hosts from the field, 46 per cent to a cool 27 per cent performance by Greenview, and dominated the boards by a final 39-24 count.

Leading scorers for Chandlerville were Dave Nelons with 16 points, Kim Kirchner with 15, Rod Atterberry with 13 and Chuck Barrett with 12 points.

Greenview, now 2-8 overall and 0-3 in loop play, was led by Joe Cline and Kerry Kincaid with 22 and 17 points respectively.

Kentucky St. Remains First In College Poll

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Tennessee State whipped Oral Roberts 89-55 for one of its two victories last week and moved up from No. 10 to No. 5 in The Associated Press College Division basketball poll. The Titans' loss was enough to drop them from eighth to 15th.

The top four teams held onto their berths, as did No. 6 Ashland, but there was an all-out scramble elsewhere in the poll released Tuesday.

No. 1 Kentucky State, which ran its record to 6-0 with a 106-100 victory over Wiley, was favored by sportswriters and sportscasters with eight first-place votes and 284 points.

Southwestern Louisiana, 10-0, and LSU-New Orleans, 11-0, which was idle, remained second and third. Each received three first-place votes.

No. 4 Stephen F. Austin, which boosted its record to 9-2 with three victories, drew one first place vote.

Fairmont State jumped 10 places to No. 9 to tie Eau Claire, 10-0, which moved up five notches from No. 14.

Here are the top 20 college division basketball teams with total points on a 20-18-16-14-12-10-9-8 etc. basis with first place votes in parentheses:

Kennedy Denies NBA, ABA Are Set To Merge

NEW YORK (AP) — "There is no truth whatsoever to the rumored possibility of a merger announcement between the two leagues next week," Walter Kennedy, commissioner of thee National Basketball Association, said Tuesday in connection with a published report.

The New York Post said in Tuesday's edition it has learned the NBA and the American Basketoall Association have agreed on merger principles and that there might be an announcement next week.

"There is no truth to the statement that merger talks are alive again," Kennedy said in San Diego where the NBA owners' meeting and All-Star Game will be held next Tuesday.

Say Exhibitions Won't Count In Big Ten States

CHICAGO (AP) — Mike McClure, Big Ten sports information director, said Tuesday games played by conference basketball teams against the touring Australian National team and military teams — such as Ill vs. Hawaii-Army in Rainbow Classic — will not count in Big Ten overall won-lost records and statistics.

Following the Niagara at Minnesota game Tuesday night, the AP will carry revised Big Ten standings corrected to include only records against college opponents. This corresponds with an NCAA ruling concerning official records and statistics.

Green And Rockets Top East Pike 87-60

MILTON—Routt center Jerry Green led the victors offensively and defensively as the Rockets cleared the bench in rolling to an 87-60 non-conference victory over host East Pike high school Tuesday night.

Green took high point honors for the game, putting together six field goals and 12 free throws for a 24 point tally, and grabbed off 13 of the Rockets' 36 rebounds.

Routt, now 8-2 overall, made 27 of 82 shots from the field for a 33 per cent showing, while East Pike, now 3-7, completed 19 of 46 attempts for a 41 per cent performance.

Following Green in the tenman, Routt scoring column were Jerry Johnson with 16 points, Paul Kaufmann with 12, and Tom Lockman with 10 points.

Trojans Roll By Balyki By 70-34

BATH — Shooting a remarkable 64 per cent from the field, Triopia High school won its eleventh game with no defeats Tuesday night by smothering Balyki of Bath, 70-34.

Center Bob Schnake recorded his highest scoring effort of the season as he captured scoring honors with 26 points. He hit a phenomenal 12 of 13 from the floor as he made 12 in a row after missing his first shot.

The Trojans raced to a 15-7 first quarter advantage after falling behind for the only time in the contest, 2-1. Triopia tallied seven pints straight to mount a 8-2 lead that held the rest of the way.

The second period was yet more uneven as Bath was outscored 18-7 with the Trojans hitting 67 per cent from the floor to take a 33-14 halftime lead.

In the first half, Triopia hit 61 per cent whiel the Thunderbirds managed only 26 per cent.

Roger Fricke paced the Trojans in the half with 11 points, his entire production for the game.

Triopia, behind the hot shooting of guard Chris Nergenah, quickly moved to a 41-14 advantage in the first three minutes of the third quarter and led 55-26 entering the final frame.

After the Trojans grabbed a 62-26 lead early in the fourth quarter, heavy substitutions were made by both teams, but Triopia mounted its largest lead of the game, 70-28, with three minutes left.

Balyki, 8-5, shot 27 per cent from the field the entire game. The Thunderbirds were paced by forward Sam Sisson who registered eight points, six in the second half.

The taller Triopia controlled the rebounding, 28-20, and the Trojans committed 10 turnovers to Balyki's seven. Five of Triopia's errors were made in the final period.

Triopia fouled only six times in the game while Balyki had 17. The Thunderbirds converted all four of their free throws.

Alex Webster Named To First Lombardi Award

WASHINGTON (AP) — Alex Webster of the New York Giants, will receive Saturday the first Vincent T. Lombardi Memorial Award as the National Football League Coach of the Year at the 36th annual banquet of the Touchdown Club, it was announced Tuesday.

Webster, named head coach in September 1969, moved the Giants to within a hair of capturing the NFC's Eastern title after inheriting a team that had not had a winning season since 1963 and was only 1-12-1 in 1966.

Webster was one of the people responsible for the great success enjoyed by the Giants from 1956 to 1963 when they won six Eastern Division NFL crowns and a world championship in 1956.

Last year's coaches of the year, when the trophy was the Touchdown Club award, were Bud Grant of the Minnesota Vikings in the NFL and Hank Stram of the Kansas City Chiefs, representing the AFL.

Marquette Nets 22nd Straight

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Third ranked Marquette ran its winning streak to 22 straight-the nation's longest-by crushing Chicago Loyola 78-63 in college basketball Tuesday night.

Sophomore Jim Chones, a 6-foot-11 center, whipped in 27 points to pace the Marquette attack as the Warriors tied the school record for consecutive victories set in the 1954-55 season.

It was Marquette's 48th straight homecourt victory, a string that began in January, 1968.

With Loyola ahead 6-4, Marquette ran off 10 straight points and eventually led 44-24 at the half.

Athens Sneaks By New Berlin On Free Throws

ATHENS — New Berlin High school came within one point with ten seconds left but was unable to shoot as it fell to Athens in the Sangamo Conference Tuesday night, 73-71.

Athens, 12-2, led 72-71 with ten seconds on the clock when Bob Riech made the first shot of a one-and-one free throw situation making it 73-71. The Pretzels got the rebound but were unable to get a shot off before the buzzer.

New Berlin, which committed 20 fouls to Athens' 14, was defeated statistically at the free throw line, 23-9.

Nebraska Grid King By Plenty Over ND

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Nebraska is king of major college football for the first time, but the wild happenings that led to the title followed a script that is not new to the Cornhuskers.

Nebraska was voted No. 1 in the final Associated Press poll Tuesday after its 17-12 Orange Bowl victory which followed Notre Dame's 24-11 upset of previously top-ranked Texas in the Cotton Bowl and Stanford's 20-17 upset of No. 2 Ohio State in the Rose Bowl.

Notre Dame finished second with Texas third and Ohio State fifth behind Tennessee, the Sugar Bowl winner.

The 1965 national championship was determined the same way. Alabama came out on top in the final AP poll by winning the Orange Bowl and previously No. 1 Michigan State was upset in the Rose Bowl and Arkansas was surprised in the Cotton Bowl.

Alabama's victim in the 1965 Orange Bowl was Nebraska which had gone into the game with a 10-0 record and could have ended up No. 1. The Cornhuskers had to settle for No. 5.

"It's probably the greatest thing ever to happen to University of Nebraska athletics. You could say the same thing goes for me as a coach," said Bob Devaney Tuesday after Nebraska, which finished with an 11-0-1 record, received 39 first-place votes and 964 points.

Notre Dame received eight first-place votes and 814 points, while Texas notched three firsts and 721 points.

"I'm pleased we moved up in the final ratings," said Notre Dame coach Ara Parseghian whose Fighting Irish went into the Cotton Bowl ranked sixth after losing their final regular-season game to Southern California. The Trojans also tied Nebraska and finished with a No. 15 ranking despite a 6-4-1 mark.

Following No. 5 Ohio State was Arizona State, with an 11-0 record the only other unbeaten team in the Top Ten, which received the other two first-place ballots and 472 points.

Rounding out the Top Ten were Louisiana State, Stanford, Michigan and Auburn.

Arkansas headed the Second Ten, followed by unbeaten Toledo, Georgia Tech, undefeated Dartmouth, Southern Cal., Air Force, Tulane, Penn State, Houston, and Oklahoma and Mississippi, tied for 20th.

The final Top Twenty College football teams, with first-place votes, in parenthese and total points, tabulated on basis of 20-18-16-14-12-10-9-8, etc.:

President Bowl Being Suggested At NCAA Meet

NEW YORK (AP) — A President's Bowl football game will be proposed to the Extra Events Committee of the National Collegiate Athletic Association when it meets Saturday in Houston prior to next week's annual NCAA convention, The Associated Press learned Tuesday.

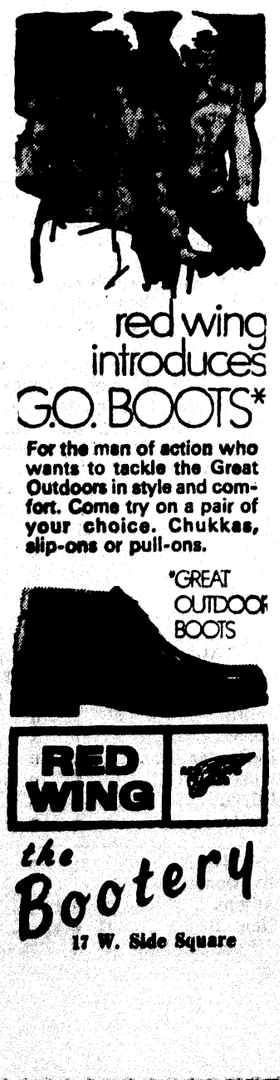

The plan will suggest that the best team of the three major service academies—Army, Navy and Air Force—act as host team. The game, pitting one of the service academy teams against the best available college team, would be played two weeks after the annual Army-Navy game in Philadelphia. The site of the game would be Robert F. Kennedy Memorial Stadium in Washington which has a football seating capacity of 51,000.

It is understood The National Football Foundation and Hall of Fame is interested in sponsoring the game on an annual basis.

The first game would be scheduled for Dec. 11, 1971 following approval of the NCAA and the Army, Navy and Air Force secretaries.

However, the first game might have to be planned for 1972 because an Extra Events Committee rule states that an application received in 1971 would be considered for approval at a 1972 spring meeting.

Army, Navy and Air Force will start playing a round robin on an annual basis starting in 1972.

Pick Shaw NFL Top Rookie

NEW YORK (AP) — Quarterback Dennis Shaw of the Buffalo Bills, shunned before the season started by the more widely-publicized Terry Bradshaw and Mike Phipps, was named Offensive Rookie of the Year in the National Football League Tuesday by The Associated Press.

Shaw, who completed 55.5 per cent of his passes for 2,507 yards in a rookie performance that surpassed Joe Namath's, edged Dallas' Super Bowl-bound running back, Duane Thomas, in the balloting encompassing both the American and National onferences.

In previous years, The AP conducted separate balloting for the American and National football leagues.

Shaw received 21 votes to 15 for Thomas, the leading NFC vote-getter in the over-all balloting. Third was Oakland tight end Ray Chester with 13 votes from a special panel of sports writers and broadcasters.

Also receiving votes were Bradshaw, Pittsburgh's quarterback; tight end Bob Tucker of the New York Giants, and running backs Norm Bulaich of Baltimore and Joe Dawkins of Houston.

Shaw, a San Diego State product who held out for a contract in the $100,000 neighborhood before signing with the Bills, was shunned by both Bradshaw and Phipps when they were teammates in August on the College All-Star squad.

And he left little doubt it bothered him.

"I was like excluded," he explained. "People wanted to see Bradshaw and Phipps. That's all they had heard about. They were going to all the banquets and getting all the attention. I was never among the elite.

"That was what was so disheartening about the draft. I thought I was good enough to be a No. 1."

Shaw, however, was Buffalo's second pick. But he proved so capable in his first year that he overshadowed the achievements of both Bradshaw and Phipps who saw little action at Cleveland, before the season ended.

In doing so, Shaw also bettered the rookie statistics put together by Namath with the New York Jets in 1965. Namath completed only 48.2 per cent of his passes for 2,220 yards his rookie season, although exceeding Shaw's touchdown total with 18.

Mack Calvin Still Leader In ABA Stats

NEW YORK (AP) — Florida's Mack Calvin continues to lead American Basketball Association scorers but it's getting a little crowded at the top.

Calvin is averaging 28.87 points per game according to figures released by the league Tuesday. That's just a fraction more than Kentucky rookie Dan Issel, who bunched 150 points in four games last week to take over second place with a 28.59 average.

Pittsburgh's John Brisker holds down the No. 3 slot with a 27.80 average and Charlie Scott of Virginia is No. 4 with 27.33.

Indiana's Mel Daniels paces the rebounders with 621 recoveries, an average of 17.25 per game. Bill Melchionni of New York is the assists leader with 318, an average of more than eight per game.

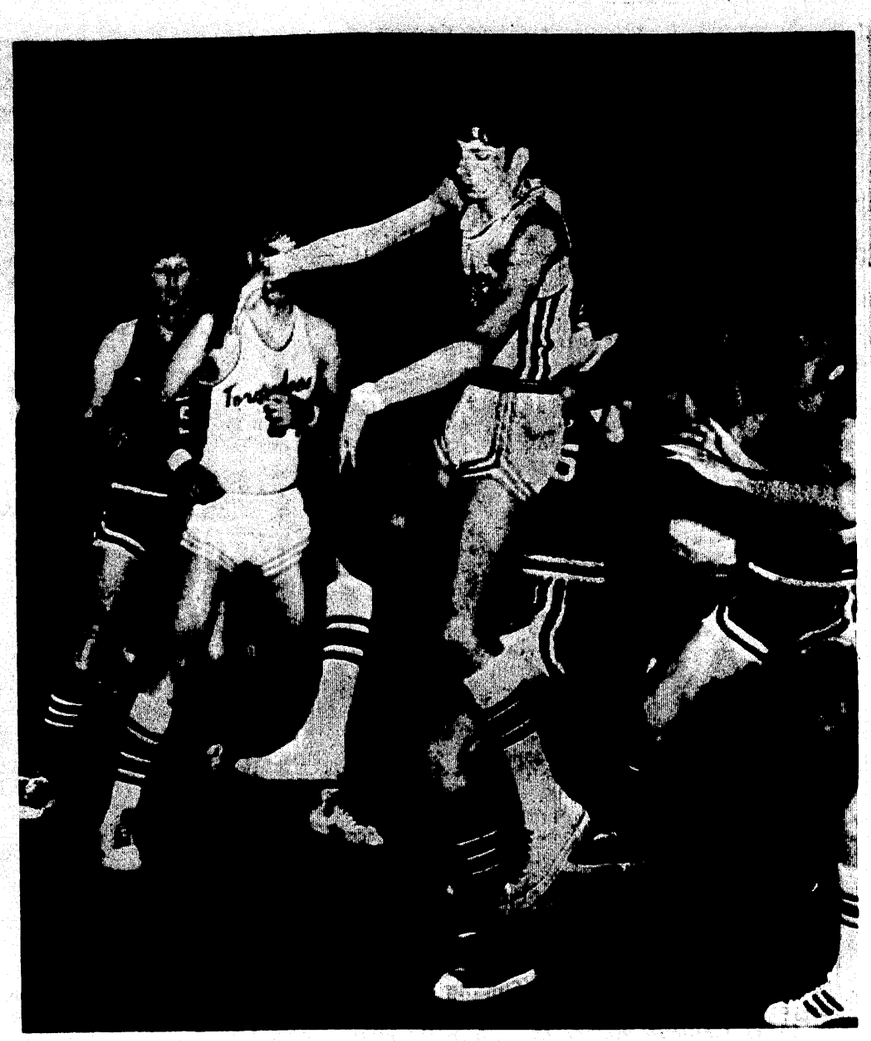

RIGHT GAL, WRONG DATE

FORT COLLINS, Colo. (AP) — The wedding anniversary of John Jermier, assistant football coach at Colorado State University, and his wife, JoAnn, falls during the season when Jermier is pretty busy. Last fall he sent his wife a dozen red roses. When Mrs. Jermier opened the box the attached card read, "Happy Birthday!"

Indy Takes Drama Out Of Qualifying

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — The Indianapolis Motor Speedway eliminated some of the drama Tuesday from qualifications for the 500-mile Memorial Day race but made a lot of drivers and car owners happy.

Speedway owner Anton "Tony" Hulman announced that the United States Auto Club had approved a regulation change which will assure all certified cars a shot at the No. 1 starting position.

In the modern history of the race, which paid the sport's first million-dollar purse last year, the pole position has gone to the fastest car on the first of four qualifying days.

That was true, even when bad weather delayed the 10-mile runs and only one car got out on opening day.

The new regulation provides that a list be made of all cars declared ready to go at the time of drawings for the order of qualifying runs. If any of them are still ready on opening day and have not been given a chance, the list will carry over to subsequent days.

No matter how long it takes, the starting order for the first list of qualifiers will not be determined until all have had an opportunity to run. Cars qualified after that will line up, day by day in order of speeds, behind the original group.

Drivers often have made the 10-mile trial runs on opening day in spite of dangerous crosswinds. They are not permitted to run in rain or on a wet track.

The drivers tried to make a "gentleman's agreement" not to run on the opening day of the 1955 qualifications.

The wind was fierce but Jerry Hoyt, who said he had entered no agreement, went out in the closing minutes and won the pole position. He lasted only 100 miles in the race and had retired when Bill Vukovich, gunning for a third straight 500 victory, was killed a few laps later.

Hoyt himself died while racing less than six weeks later, at Oklahoma City.

Trials this year will be May 15, 16, 22 and 23, with the race itself May 29.

The speedway mailed entry blanks Tuesday. The fee is $1,000 per car. Hulman expects about 70 to compete for the 33 starting spots.

Ogilvie Asks For National Con Con Draft

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie praised Tuesday President Nixon's proposal for federal revenue sharing and urged a call for a national constitutional convention to pressure congress into approving the plan.

Speaking before a meeting of the Illinois State Chamber of Commerce, Ogilvie referred to the president's televised interview Monday night in which he proposed a greatly expanded system of sharing federal funds with state and local government units.

A more modest revenue sharing plan was blocked in the recently-ended 91st Congress.

The governor said he will ask the new legislature, which convenes Wednesday to pass a resolution asking for a federal constitutional convention to provide revenue sharing.

He said mayors and other governors — both Republicans and Democrats — are also pushing the con-con call.

The constitutional move was presented more as a goad to congressional action than as an actual attempt to draw up a new constitution.

Plane Industry Calls For Sharp Fare Increases

WASHINGTON (AP) — The airline industry called for a sharp increase in fares Tuesday and suggested that the federal government please step out of the way to the higher rates.

Stuart G. Tipton, president of the Air Transport Association, told a news conference it would take a 20 per cent increase in fares to provide the additional $1 billion in annual revenues required to enable the airlines to attain a recognized fair rate of return on investment—10.5 per cent, compared with the 1970 return of 2.3 per cent.

But Tiption emphasized that only in one year have the airlines achieved the 10.5 per cent level.

He said that although a 20 per cent fare hike would raise earnings to that point, he was not necessarily saying that such an increase should actually be demanded now, or that the public or the individual airlines would go along with it.

"To get to the fair rate of return, a 20 per cent fare increase is justified," Tipton said.

Declaring that the airlines have been criticized unjustly for turning to the government for help, Tipton said:

"In seeking permission to increase fares we are not asking the government to help. We are asking the government to step out of the way so we can charge prices that are in accord with the law. . ."

SETS CENTENNIAL MARK

DENVER (AP) — Trainer Don Von Hemel set a record at Centennial in 1970 by saddling 36 winners, four more than the old mark. Ironically, Von Hemel's 33rd winner for a new high came in a race named in honor of Lyman Rollins, Utah trainer who set the old record.

Education Board Approves Budget Of State Schools

CHICAGO (AP) — The Illinois Board of Higher Education approved Wednesday an operating budget of $509,954,135 for state colleges and universities in fiscal 1972.

The budget, which to become official must get approval from the legislature and the governor, included relatively small increases for the two biggest institutions over the figures recommended by the staff of the board.

But it still fell almost $50 million below the total of the money requested by the various schools around the state. It did however represent an increase of 16 per cent, or $70 million, over funds voted for operations in fiscal 1971.

Including funds for administrative groups and money for nonpublic health-related educational purposes, the board approved a total budget of $528,113,112.

State institutions of higher education had sought a total of $559,307,166 for operating funds in fiscal 1972, an increase of 27.4 per cent, or $120 million over the previous year's appropriations.

The two schools whose tentative budgets were boosted above the amount recommended by the staff of the board were the University of Illinois and Southern Illinois University.

Illinois was budgeted at $199,730,141 which was $41,000 more than the figure presented by the staff but far below the $213,311,799 requested.

Southern was set down for $88,828,379, a figure $109,000 above that of the staff but still less than the $104,360,478 requested.

Schools under the Board of Governors and their tentative operating budgets were: Chicago State $10,934,743, Eastern Illinois $18,397,674, Governors State $4,787,673, Northeastern Illinois $11,478,648 and Western $24,325,053.

Institutions under the Board of Regents and their tentative operating appropriations are Illinois State $32,480,600, Northern Illinois $43,273,854 and Sangamon State $5,763,566.

ANNOUNCE WORST DRESSED WOMEN

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Fashion designer Mr. Blackwell issued his annual "worst-dressed" list Tuesday, blasting not only some top celebrities, but the whole world of fashion as well.

Sophia Loren was first on the list. Blackwell said her clothes look like costumes from a 1950 B movie.

Blackwell, who doesn't use a first name, issues his picks annually as a blast at what he calls "phony, contrived best-dressed women" lists.

Following Miss Loren on the worst-dressed list were Angie Dickinson, socialite Gloria Vanderbilt Cooper, Shelly Winters, author Jacqueline Susann, Carrie Snodgress, Jane Fonda, Goldie Hawn, Marlo Thomas and Faye Dunaway.

New head football coach at San Jose State is Dewey King, one-time graduate assistant coach at Michigan State under Biggie Munn.

A LOSING EFFORT

DENVER (AP) — Jockey Bill Hartack came out to ride at Centennial for the final two days of the 1970 meeting and got a bruised forehead for his efforts. He was thrown from a rearing horse at the starting gate.

Hartack rode nine horses in two days, but the best he could do was one third.

American League batting champion Alex Johnson of the California Angels proved consistent in both halves of the 1970 season. The righthanded-hitting outfielder won the AL title with a .329 average, hitting .327 at home and .331 on the road.

Illini Still Looking For Set Lineup

CHAMPAIGN — The Big Ten season opens Saturday for the University of Illinois basketball team, but Coach Harv Schmidt is still looking for a starting lineup to throw at the surprising Michigan State Spartans.

The Illini (5-2) host the Spartans (6-3) Saturday, 3 p.m. in the Assembly Hall with another sellout crowd of 16,128 assured.

In nine games during December (including games against a touring Australian team and an armed service team that will not count in official NCAA statistics), Schmidt has tried seven different starting lineups.

The Fighting Illini continued the shuffle at the Rainbow Classic in Hawaii last week with three different starting fives winning two of three games.

Part of the problem hinges on the ailing ankle of senior co-captain Fred Miller of Pekin, who has missed a sizeable portion of the preseason schedule with an ankle injury. Miller sprained the ankle against Oklahoma in the second game and has not been able to start consistently. He reinjured the ankle against Villanova in the first round of the Rainbow Classic and is questionable for Saturday.

"I've never been in this position this late," Schmidt says about his inability to name his starters. "However, I can promise that this week in practice I will attempt to select five and limit the substitution. We must find our lineup and select our game plan for the next three games (Michigan State, Wisconsin and Michigan State again).

"I would say our biggest problem has been finding the consistency that winning in league play will demand. The team that gets organized the quickest will win it. We played some of our finest basketball of the season in Hawaii, but once again we had stretches of mediocre play," says Schmidt.

Senior guard and co-captain Rich Howat returned with statistics that support Schmidt's preseason claim that "he (Howat) is one of the outstanding shooters in the collegiate game".

The 6-2, 158-pound Downers Grove product connected on 30 of 43 attempts from the field for a .698 percentage and a new tournament record for field goal percentage. Howat's 72 points in three games left him one shy of tournament scoring leader Howard Porter, the all-American from Villanova, and earned him first-team honors on the all-tournament team.

On the season, Howat is drilling 54 per cent of his field goal attempts, 89 per cent of his foul shots (26 of 29) and leads the team in scoring with an average of 23.1 points per game.

The sporadic play of 6-8, 265-pound center Greg Jackson, of Chicago has concerned Schmidt. Jackson was off to a great start before Hawaii but dipped to a 17 point per game average with 29 points in three games.

Sophomores Jed Foster, Jim DeDecker, Larry Cohen and Nick Conner remain in contention for a starting assignment. Foster showed promise at guard although he stands 6-6. DeDecker is pushing Jackson and Conner's rebounding talents (55 for fourth on the team) keep him in consideration. Cohen leads the team in assists and remains a first-string possibility.

Michigan State appears much better than its preseason press clippings. The Spartans stood 6-1 going into the Trojan Classic at the University of Southern California where they lost to ranking USC and Tennessee.

Senior guard Rudy Benjamin, very much in the background last year because of the shadow cast by all-American Ralph Simpson, has emerged as one of the Big Ten's outstanding performers. The 6-2 Dayton, O. native is averaging 24.5 points per game.

Sophomore center Bill Kilgore, a 6-7, 196-pounder from River Rouge, Mich., also has been a big factor in the Spartan's pre-conference success with 13.2 points and 12 rebounds per game.

This is the 32nd meeting between the schools with Illinois holding an 18-13 lead in the series. MSU upset the Illini at home in the last game of 1970 by an 85-76 count.

The Illini host Wisconsin at home next Tuesday (Jan. 12) at 8 p.m. and meet the same Spartans in East Lansing, Jan. 16.

Boil unpeeled yams until tender; peel and cube; keep warm in a shallow baking dish in the oven. In a large skillet gently cook onion in butter until tender but not brown; stir in sour cream, milk, salt and herbs; stir over low heat until warm. Pour sauce over yams. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Boyle's Conclusions

Opening lead—♣5

The silliest hand for 1970 was played by a nameless expert in the blue ribbon pairs at the Fall Nationals in Houston, Texas.

Four spades was the final contract at practically every table with South usually winding up with 11 tricks. Our nameless expert arrived at the normal contract whereupon East led the four of diamonds out of turn. South had a choice of penalties and required that the four of diamonds remain as an exposed card.

West opened the five of clubs and for some reason East decided to play the queen rather than the ace. South won with the king and saw what appeared to be a real opportunity to take advantage of the exposed card.

He led a heart to dummy's queen. East took his king and had to lead the four of diamonds. South played low. He planned to discard his jack of clubs on dummy's ace of hearts, but West ruffed that diamond lead. He led another club to his partner's ace, back came a second diamond to be ruffed and South had gone down one.

This may have constituted a record for tricks chucked. If South had started on trumps after the first trick, he would have picked up the suit. East would have had to discard that four of diamonds on the third trump lead. South could then go after diamonds by leading toward dummy's king. West would show out, whereupon South would finesse against East's queen and eventually discard his jack of clubs on dummy's fifth diamond to wind up with all 13 tricks.

Their 'Lunch Exchange' Gives Wives 'Vacation'

By POLLY CRAMER

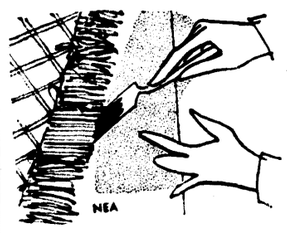

DEAR POLLY—My husband carries his lunch to work and always wants a big one. His colleague's wife became as weary as I of this everyday lunch packing until we started a "lunch exchange." The men eat similar types of food and about the same quantity so I pack lunches for both of them for one week and she prepares them on alternate weeks. We find it little extra work to make two instead of one and love the luxury of the "vacation weeks" and the men enjoy the variations.—B.R.

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY—Today I stuffed a pillow with shredded foam and what a mess it made. It stuck to my hand, the floor and the furniture. How can one avoid such a situation?

Also, I would like to know how to make a hanging lamp with egg cartons. I used your Pointer for making a footstool with juice cans. It was a great success.—MRS. J.D.C.

DEAR POLLY—My husband, who has had 40 years' experience in auto refinishing, has a solution for Marge who wanted to remove a dealer's label from the lid of her car trunk. He simply would apply direct heat (Polly's note—Be careful not to blister the paint), such as from a heat lamp, until the glue softened and then the label peeled right off. He washed away any access glue with a solvent.—MRS. R.C.S.

DEAR POLLY—When washing my daughter's fringed poncho, the fringe crinkles and tangles so it looks very messy. Now I place the fringe flat on the ironing board, steam lightly with the iron and then draw a kitchen fork, tines down, through the fringe to smooth it. Press lightly again and the tangles are gone without too much trouble.—MARJORIE

DEAR POLLY—When I must travel alone with my small baby— I carry her in her bathtub and then there is no chance of her falling or rolling off the seat.—RUTH

Business — Market Wrapup

Business Mirror

By JOHN CUNNIFF
Ap Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Nowhere else in the executive suite are responsibilities broadening as they are for the chief financial officer. No longer just a scorekeeper, the CFO is now a cog in advance planning and policy formulation.

The change hasn't been abrupt, although the alarming drought in liquidity that occurred during the past year, highlighted by the inability of the Penn Ceentral to raise enough money to remain solvent, accelerated the change.

Companies that once worried primarily about production or merchandising suddenly realized during the past summer that they could not routinely depend upon their usual sources of financing, and so the CFO's duties assumed greater importance.

But financing is only one of the factors in the transition of the corporate money man. Complex taxes, new accounting procedures, mergers, computerization, insurance, pension plans and profit sharing also are forcing the CFO to be more broadly involved.

Reflecting his growing importance, salaries for CFOs now generally range between $50,000 and $75,000, according to a survey by the management consulting firms of Heidrick & Struggles, scheduled to be released Feb. 1.

The firm received a 59 per cent response to a questionnaire sent to the chief financial executives of the 500 largest industrial companies and 247 other companies, including utilities and insurers.

From the replies, it drew this profile of the CFO:

He is 51, compared with 53 years of age five years ago. Most likely his undergraduate degree is from Wisconsin, Illinois, New York, Northwestern or Pennsylvania universities. There is a 40 per cent chance he has an advanced degree, most likely from Harvard or NYU, and a 33 per cent chance he is a certified public accountant.

He is relatively stationary in what is becoming an increasingly mobile business world, having worked for only one or two other employers. In fact, ifhe works for an insurance or utility concern, there is a 50 percent chance that he had only one other employer or none at all.

While his compensation is likely to be between $50,000 and $75,000, he may in some companies earn more than $100,000 in salary, bonus and deferred pay. Increasingly he is the beneficiary of stock options and other benefits.

The survey demonstrated, in fact, that salary today is really the base for compensation rather than the total amount. Some 69 per cent reported they receive cash bonuses, more than 50 per cent receive club memberships, 91 per cent are given stock options and 74 per cent receive insurance.

MEDICAL MEMENTO adorns hood of the Marquess of Exeter's car in London. It is the artificial hip joint which kept the marquess, a 1928 Olympics star, mobile for the last 10 years until he had it replaced recently. The joint is made of vitallium, a noncorroding alloy, and enabled the marquess, an arthritic sufferer, to keep on the move instead of confined to a wheelchair.

New York Stock Market

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market, after getting off to a slow start, moved Tuesday to a good gain in what some Wall Street analysts called a favorable response to President Nixon's statement Monday night on the economic outlook.

Nixon, in a televised interview, said he expected business to improve this year and to make an even better showing next year.

He disavowed plans for any new taxes or wage and price guidelines or controls, and pledged to follow an expansionary fiscal policy.

An investment analyst said that while Nixon did not add much new to the administration's economic policy, what he said certainly was not discouraging to investors.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, which tumbled more than 8 points Monday after having reached a 1970 high of 842.00 the previous week, rose .20 to 835.77, closing at its best level of the session.

The Associated Press 60-stock average gained 1.6 to 289.7, with industrials up 2.4, rails up 1.3, and utilities up 3.3. The New York Stock Exchange index of some 1,200 common stocks added 8.40 at 5.13. Standard & Poor's 50-stock index was up .65 to 91.80.

The advance ranged widely through the list, with gainers overwhelming losers by 1,043 to 401 among 1,645 issues traded on the New York Stock Exchange. There were 70 new 1970-71 highs and only 1 new low.

Brokers said they found encouragement in the swelling of Big Board volume to 12.6 million shares from 10.01 million shares on Monday. Among the 20 most-active issues on the New York exchange, 15 gained, and 5 lost. Tenneco, up 1 to 24⅞ on 239,100 shares, topped the list. The company said the activity in its stock probably could be attributed to a brokerage firm's recommendation.

Prices edged ahead on the American Stock Exchange. The price change index went up .1 to 22.89. Of 1,075 issues traded, 623 rose and 247 fell. Volume expanded to 3.27 million shares from 2.15 million on Monday.

LAST YEAR IN HISTORY

Baby Fulfills Paraplegic's Life

By VIRGINIA THROWER
Post-Tribune Staff Writer

GARY, Ind. (AP) — "Having the baby has fulfilled my life," says Irene Davis. "Now that I have the baby and my family I wouldn't change my life.

"I don't think I'll ever get used to the fact that I can't walk, but now I can live with it."

There was a time she never thought she'd say this. It was ten years ago that Irene, an active 16-year-old who loved the out-of-doors, was hit by a panel truck and suffered a broken back. She lay in bed for eight months, and then found she was permanently paralyzed from the waist down.

For a couple of months a therapist worked with her twice a week to help her strengthen muscles so that she could sit herself up and move into and out of a wheelchair. He also taught her to use braces and crutches, but Irene found that she could maneuver better from the wheelchair.

"I don't have the muscle control to use braces and crutches," she explained. "I need the wheelchair to be independent. It's more important for me to be independent than to walk."

Irene's mother helped her develop a drive for independence.

"She didn't pamper me," Irene recalled. "If I'd whine and say I couldn't do something, she'd say 'Oh yes you can,' and leave the room forcing me to do it on my own."

Irene was tutored at home during her junior year, and amassed enough credits for a high school diploma. But she decided to return to school for her senior year to graduate with her class.

"I was at an age that is the best time a kid has at school and I didn't want to miss it," she said.

With the help of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Everett, she bought a hand-controlled car and drove to school. After graduation, her mother went to work, leaving Irene in charge of the house and her four brothers, aged 14, 10, 8, and 8 months.

Her mother worked for a year, and then Irene entered Indiana University Northwest. She completed two years of college, one full time the other going to school and working. She hopes someday to get a degree in social work.

She has done clerical work, has worked in a hospital clinic, and for 18 months before her baby was born last May, she was an assistant social worker at a local hospital.

Today, if she is bitter, it is only about one thing: the heartbreaking difficulty a young handicapped person faces in trying to find work.

"I spent two years trying to find a job at first," she recalled. "I went to every state and private agency. Employers don't think about anything but the possible inconvenience caused by a handicap. But given a chance a handicapped person is liable to do a better job than someone else because he knows he has to keep the job.

"A handicapped person should be looked at as anyone else—as having certain abilities and certain limitations."

Irene credits her great love of the outdoors with giving her incentive to continue many activities. She and her husband, Lance, go horseback riding, camping and boating.

"You should see her play badminton," Lance exclaimed. "She can move that chair faster than I can move. She's also bugging me to get a motorcycle so she can ride behind. I don't know about that."

"When I want to go out I get in my car and go," says Irene. "I'm a little more limited now when I'm by myself with the baby. But when he gets a little older it should work out. When I was still working, though, Lance got in his car and I got in mine and went to work.

"I never think about anything I do as being dangerous for me. If I did I might not do it. I just do what I want and can enjoy."

Irene credits her husband with being her guiding force. She met him four years ago, when they were introduced by a mutual friend. Before that however, she did have dating problems.

"I ran around with a group of friends, both boys and girls," she said. "But when I actually had a date we always went to a drive-in movie and then a drive-in restaurant—never anywhere in public.

"Finally, one time a guy I'd dated several times told me we were going to a drive-in instead of to a party the gang was going to. I asked why and forced an answer. He admitted he couldn't cope with my handicap in public.

"I told him if he couldn't cope with it in public, he couldn't cope with it anytime. And that was that."

Lance was different, however, she said. From the beginning he'd take her wherever she wanted to go.

"When it came to marriage I must admit it was I who had to convince him," she said, "although I insisted the decision had to be his. I did go to a specialist to see if I could have children. He told me he really couldn't tell, but if I became pregnant I probably could have the baby. I didn't want Lance to marry me without knowing the possibilities of having or not having a family."

Irene says her husband never treats her like a cripple, but like a housewife who's expected to keep the house.

"I carry the food from the kitchen to the table for dinner," Lance admitted. "But only to save time so it stays hot. And if the walls have to be washed obviously I have to do the job. But basically, she runs the house the way any woman would."

There is no special equipment in the Davis home. Irene does, however, organize her kitchen cabinets and closets for easy access. Either Irene, or Irene and Lance do the shopping together.

"And as for the baby," said Irene, "I got up and gave him all his night feedings, and Lance has changed him only once."

"That was only to prove that I could do it," joked the proud father."

Some day when they can afford it, the Davises say, they hope to have another child. In the meantime they are a happy family and Irene is a radiant wife and mother.

GANG TERRORIZES STORE EMPLOYES, CUSTOMERS

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Eight men posing as customers held up a South Philadelphia furniture store and terrorized employes and customers Monday, killing one man, wounding two others and attempting to set the store on fire.

Ten persons, most of them employes of the Dubrow Furniture Co., were injured from being kicked or pistol-whipped while lying on the floor, bound hand and foot.

Police and witnesses said the gang entered the store in pairs about 3 p.m. After talking with salespeople they drew hand guns and herded about 25 customers and employes into various parts of the large store.

After binding their captives, gang members emptied cash registers and took money from employes and customers. They sprayed gasoline from a five-gallon can onto furniture and around the bound captives and set it ablaze, but the fires caused no substantial damage.

Police said the store would have to audit its accounts before an estimate could be made of how much money was taken.

NAMED STATE SAVINGS, LOAN COMMISSIONER

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie Monday appointed retiring Sen. John J. Lanigan, R-Chicago, as commissioner of the State Savings and Loan Commission.

The post pays $22,200 a year.

Stamps In The News

By SYD KRONISH
AP Newsfeatures

Dominica is a small British-governed island in the Caribbean discovered by Columbus on a Sunday. Sometimes called "Sunday Island," the colony annually celebrates its National Day to commemorate the occasion and usually issues a postage stamp set as well.

This year's National Day set consists of three stamps. The designs are the result of a local contest conducted for the first time. Local artists based their designs on local themes and the new stamps illustrate their best efforts.

The 5 cents depicts two Dominica girls in national dress of the 18th century. The 8 cents shows local historic objects including an 18th century mace and basketry. The $1 bears the national flag and map. Each stamp carries the vignette portrait of Queen Elizabeth II. A perforated souvenir sheet with the three stamps, flanked by local scenes and the national coat of arms, also was issued.

DID YOU KNOW THAT ... Harvard University began offering courses in philately in 1937? Many other schools now have courses in the serious study of this hobby? When postage stamps were first introduced in China the taste of the adhesives did not appeal to the people and thus in order to appease them, postal clerks licked the stamps and applied them to the envelopes? From 1840 to 1900, Queen Victoria's portrait was the only object allowed on British stamps?

TIME ON THEIR HANDS. Looks like Phelan Marshall, left, and Mimi Cutt are saving time, but actually they're getting set to wish the first Happy New Year to approximately 3.5 million of their peers who also were born in the United States since last New Year's Day. Both youngsters live in the Chicago area.

NEW YORK GOVERNOR Nelson Rockefeller said there will be "major breakdowns" in American cities this year unless the Federal Government agrees to share its tax revenue with the states. Rockefeller, appearing Sunday on a television interview, said that his own state needs at least $10 billion in Federal funds, restating the call for revenue-sharing he has made several times before. Rap Proposed FDA Food Labeling Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — Consumer groups have lashed out at a Food and Drug Administration plan to rely in part on industry-supported research in drawing new regulations for disclosing nutritional values of food.

"Pure and unadulterated fraud," said Robert Choate, self-taught nutrition specialist and breakfast cereal critic. "This is a classic example of going to the fox to ask what the chickens are doing."

The fox, so to speak, is the Consumer Research Institute (CRI), Washington, D.C., which acknowledges grocery manufacturers and allied businesses provide its main financial support.

The Food and Drug Administration confirmed Monday it wants CRI to conduct free field tests to help the government determine what labeling regulation would best disclose the nutritional soundness of all processed foods.

The consumer survey could cost as much as $100,000 but would be donated to the FDA if approved by the institute's board, said Dr. Raymond C. Stokes, director of CRI.

"Our objective is policy based on fact rather than heat and emotion," Stokes said in an interview. "Our study would allow consumers to have the major voice in the government's decision."

Dr. James D. Grant, deputy FDA commissioner and prime mover in the project, said the CRI findings and recommendations would be only one of a number of consumer and industry responses to the government's alternative labeling proposals.

"I think there would be dissatisfaction even if something logical emerged from this," said Erma Angevine, executive director of the Consumer Federation of America. "People would wonder what kind of pressure was exerted when industry paid the bill."

Morris Kaplan, technical director of Consumers Union, questioned whether the FDA should accept free research from an organization whose backers will be affected directly by the results.

The White House Consumer Affairs Office is also concerned about the appearance of impropriety, Nixon administration sources said.

The FDA wants to require the industry to label processed foods—ranging from jelly and peanut butter to orange juice and noodles—with statements indicating nutritional quality.

Only the type of ingredients need now be listed, and breakfast cereals are the only major class where nutritional values are emphasized voluntarily, FDA experts said.

Wallace, New Bride Honeymoon

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — Gov.-elect George C. Wallace has taken as his bride the niece of one of his predecessors in office.

The 51-year-old widower married Mrs. Cornelia Ellis Snively, an attractive 32-year-old brunette divorcee, in a quiet ceremony Monday night at the Trinity Presbyterian Church.

They are honeymooning at the Grand Hotel in Point Clear.

The Wallaces delayed the start of their honeymoon to appear at a postwedding dinner at the home of Mrs. Ruby Austin, Mrs. Wallace's mother.

They presented gold mementos of the ceremony to their children. Together they have six.

Wallace's first wife, the late Lurleen Wallace, succeeded him when his first term ran out in 1967. She died in office 18 months later after a two-year battle with cancer.

Wallace met the former Cornelia Ellis when he was a freshman state legislator and she was living in the governor's mansion during her uncle James E. "Big Jim" Folsom's first term as governor in the late 1940s.

She became a country music singer and then a professional water skier after attending Huntingdon College here and Rollins College in Winter Park, Fla.

Her first marriage to John Snively III, whose family owned a citrus products firm, ended in divorce after seven years.

SIGN OF THE TIMES, at least in Chicago Sunday afternoon, as a young miss has yet to take the advice of "Don't Walk" during the midwest's first blizzard of 1971. Throughout the area motorists were stranded or delayed while returning home from their New Year holidays. UPI Telephoto

Rule Federal Housing Programs Must Work To Ease Segregation

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The U.S. 3rd Circuit Court of Appeals has ruled that federal housing programs must work to alleviate racial segregation.

Judge John J. Gibbons, who wrote the opinion, said the Civil Rights Acts of 1964 and 1968 required federal housing agencies to study the impact of every new project on racial integration.

"Increase or maintenance of racial concentration is likely to lead to urban blight and is thus at variance with the national housing policy," h ewrote in the opinion made public Monday.

He said the court was not suggesting that desegregation of housing "is the only goal of the national housing policy."

"There will be instances where a pressing case can be made for the rebuilding of a racial ghetto," he said.

"We hold only that the agency's judgement must be an informed one, which weighs the alternatives and finds that the need for physical rehabilitation or additional minority housing at the site in question clearly outweighs the disadvantage of increasing or perpetuating racial concentration."

A lawyer who argued the case for residents who fought a low income apartment project in their neighborhood said he thought the decision would be as far-reaching as the Supreme Court's order in 1954 to end school segregation.

"We think it is terribly important that the court has declared for the first time that the federal government has an obligation to end housing segregation," said Edwin W. Wolf of the Lawyers Committee for Civil Rights.

The appeals court reversed a U.S. District Court ruling that had permitted federal financing of a 110-unit project. It had been challenged by 15 white and black residents of the East Popular Urban Renewal Area, where the project was located.

They said the project would increase "the already high concentration of low income black residents" and that this would adversely affect their investments in homes and businesses and the quality of their daily lives.

The housing project was completed while the case was in the courts. It is now occupied by low income tenants.

Anti-Gun Crime Act Becomes Effective

WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal government has put a double-barreled penalty into effect for gun-toting bank robbers: Now they can get one prison term for robbing the bank and another for carrying a gun.

In fact, any federal crime committed with a firearm now will be considered two crimes.

The new penalties are included in a $3.5-billion anticrime bill signed by President Nixon last weekend. The measure continues for three years and greatly expands the 1968 Safe Streets Act, providing law enforcement grants to state and local governments.

It also expands presidential protection and makes it a federal crime to kill, assault or kidnap a member of Congress or a congressman-elect.

"All criminals should be on notice," said Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana, who cosponsored the anti-gun crime legislation with Republican Leader Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania.

The legislation provides that first offenders who carry a gun while committing a federal crime are subject to a mandatory one-to-10-year prison sentence.

Subsequent convictions bring two to 25 years with no chance of suspension or parole. The prison term for carrying a gun is extra and is piled on top the sentence for committing the crime.

Mansfield predicted the anti-gun legislation will prove one of the most effective steps taken against crime by Congress "in many a year, if not in many a decade."

1st Convention Of Independent Farm Alliance

The first convention of the Independent Farmers Alliance will be held at Holiday Inn East at Springfield Jan. 7 through 9. Merle Willard of Pittsfield will serve as the presiding chairman and Secretary of State John W. Lewis, former Illinois Director of Agriculture, will give the keynote address.

The group will enact bylaws to form an effective organization for the marketing of grain and livestock and any grain and livestock producer will be welcomed at the convention.

The Alliance was organized and temporary officers appointed last September, but permanent officers will be elected at the convention.

FILES KEEP TOOLS IN WORKING ORDER

A file is the tool you use to keep all your other tools in shape. As such, it could easily be the most important item in your tool box.

In practice, it probably is the most neglected.

Use files to keep saws and drill bits sharp, garden tools in shape. Remember that it is a maintenance tool for other tools.

Most tool boxes contain one or two files and almost invariably these are rusted, broken or caked with dirt.

Even then they may not be the right types for the jobs at hand. There are special files with different teeth designed for softer metals and there are special shapes for different jobs. Filing an auger bit, for example, requires a special sort of file. Tell your hardware dealer what you intend to do with the file and allow him to steer you the right way.

Files are available in all shapes, lengths, cuts and degrees of coarseness. Basic shapes are flat, round, half round, triangular and square.

If the file is designated as a single cut it has single, parallel rows of teeth. A double cut file has rows of teeth crossing each other. The single cut is generally used for finer work.

A rasp has sharp, individual teeth in a checker board pattern. Use this file for extremely rough work. Another file used for rough work has curved, parallel cutting edges.

The file length is the size of the part of the file that has teeth. The pointed end, called a tang, is the part that is inserted in a handle.

Do not use a file without a handle. The tang can easily injure your hand.

You should have an assortment of handles as well as files. The handle should fit easily without being too loose. It should line up squarely with the file. Tap—but do not pound—the handle lightly on the workbench to make it fit.

When you use the file keep the pressure light and even. Cutting is done on the forward stroke, never on the back stroke. Move the file across the work the full length of the file for even wearing.

A file card is a brush with short wire bristles. Get one and keep it handy. Use it to clean the files.

Material to be filed should be held rigidly, preferably in a vise. If you are filing something to remove excess material start with a coarse file, end with a finer one.

Cliff Cox Of White Hall Dies Tuesday

Otis Clifford (Cliff) Cox, 79 year old retired carpenter of White Hall, died en route to Passavant hospital early Tuesday morning and was pronounced dead on arrival there at 6:22 a.m.

He was born in Bluffdale township Sept. 21, 1891, son of Joseph Newton and Mary Lawson Cox. He was married Oct. 12, 1910 to Anna Shackelford and she died July 14, 1952.

Two daughters survive, Mrs. Isabella Batemen and Mrs. Annadell Williams, both of White Hall. There are four grandchildren and nine great grandchildren.

Two sisters are deceased. There is one step brother surviving, William Sittory of Fancy Prairie, Ill.

The deceased was a member of the White Hall Baptist church where funeral services will be held at 2 p.m. Thursday. Interment will be in White Hall cemetery.

Friends may call at the Dawdy-Wolfe Funeral Home in White Hall after 3 p.m. Wednesday.

HORSE LOVER

ELGIN, Ill. (AP) — Barbara Asp loves appaloosa horses and wins championships with them.

Her collection of trophies includes those for Chief Luscious Pokey who won the Chicago International last year along with the state title as a yearling and came right back this year to win as a two-year-old.

She won the Illinois Appaloosa Yearling Championship this year with Chief Powders Dawn.

She has trailered the two horses more than 10,000 miles for shows at the Houston Astrodome, Huron, S.D., and will travel to the Dixie National in Louisiana early in 1971.

And, Miss Asp said, it becomes an expensive hobby. In addition to the cost of traveling, caring for and feeding the horses, it costs from $3 to $12 to enter the horses in each event. The International's entry fee is $57 for three classes.

Old British Documents Reveal WW II Motives

LONDON (AP) — Newly disclosed British records show that Joseph P. Kennedy was described 30 years ago as "a very foul specimen of double-crosser" and that war leaders here feared a dirty trick by President Franklin D. Roosevelt in 1940 dealings with the Axis.

Sumner Welles, U.S. undersecretary of state in that period, came in for Foreign Office criticism as "an international danger."

These are parts of the picture of British distrust of the United States that emerges from government papers made public Thursday night after 30 years of secrecy imposed by law. Kennedy in 1940 was Roosevelt's ambassador to London.

Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain told his Cabinet he feared Roosevelt was seeking a deal with Adolf Hitler and Benito Mussolini in an effort to get a Democrat elected president in the 1940 elections—which Roosevelt won.

The chief diplomatic adviser to the British government, Sir Robert Vansittart, called this a dirty trick and accused the Americans of Criminal maneuvers.

Vansittart accused Roosevelt of "selling the world for his own particular mess of pottage."

The behind-the-scenes storm arose over a tour of Axis capitals by Welles in 1940 to sound out for Roosevelt the possibilities of halting World War II. Britain was in it then, but the United States was not until December 1941.

Chamberlain, according to minutes of a meeting of the Cabinet, said he believed Roosevelt "would make some attempt to bring the war to an end even if that attempt should be embarrassing to us."

Vansittart put it even stronger in a memo to the Foreign Office:

"It is now pretty clear...that President Roosevelt is ready to play a dirty trick on the world and risk the ultimate destruction of the Western democracies in order to secure the re-election of a Democratic candidate in the United States."

Welles also visited Pope Pius XII and Western Allied leaders. Prior to Welles' visit to London, Kennedy told the British government the purpose was to enable Roosevelt to decide whether peace was possible. The British records quote Kennedy as saying Roosevelt might not run for a third term.

Vansittart said Welles because of his soundings "emerges more and more clearly as an international danger."

"His chief crime towards common sense and humanity is that he has now gone so far as to want us to make peace with Hitler," he added. "that surely is lunacy for which both he and his chief, President Roosevelt, deserve the highest condemnation...

"It may well be that these criiminal maneuvers may be set in train before we have a chance of getting it stopped, but I feel strongly that we should exert the greatest and most immediate pressure on President Roosevelt to prevent him from selling the world for his own particular mess of pottage."

Welles died in 1961.

Other documents showed the British government was incensed by Ambassador Kennedy's predictions that Britain could not win the war against Germany.

According to the British documents, the ambassador favored appeasing Hitler even after World War II broke out in September 1939.

The papers document an unhappy chapter in the long and successful career of the Boston financier, the father of President John F. Kennedy, Sen. Robert F. Kennedy and Sen. Edward M. Kennedy.

The Foreign Office records show the British considered the appointment of Kennedy to be a Roosevelt bid to court the vote of Americans of Irish background, and that Britain wanted the President to appoint a new ambassador. The head of the Kennedy family resigned several months later; he died Nov. 18, 1969.

In February 1940 Vansittart wrote in an interoffice memorandum while Kennedy was on home leave:

"Mr. Kennedy is a very foul specimen of double-crosser and defeatist. He thinks of nothing but lining his own pockets. I hope the war will at least see the elimination of this type. I suppose we will have to have him back again, but if he does come back he will be estimated at his true value—which is heavily minus...."

Vansittart said this appraisal held true also at No. 10 Downing St., residence of Prime Minister Winston Churchill.

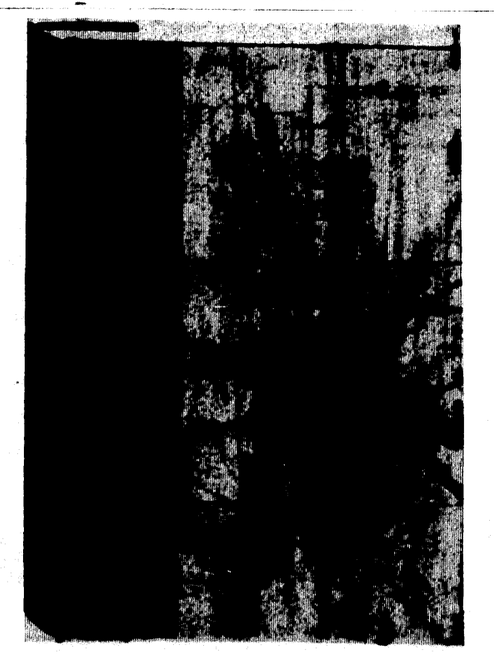

Vansittart, a Churchill confidant, was the top civil servant at the Foreign Office in the '30s and '40s. He attained a lordship and died in 1957.

Kennedy took up his post here in 1938 under happier circumstances. Chamberlain sought to appease Hitler. According to the British, Kennedy held to such views even after war broke out and Churchill succeeded Chamberlain.

The records show the diplomatic friction over Kennedy continued throughout 1940 with these developments:

—The French Embassy here complained Kennedy was spreading "alarmist rumors" in London's diplomatic community, exaggerating German air power. The French wanted Britain to join them in asking Roosevelt to keep Kennedy quiet. Britain refused but told the French they could go ahead. It is not clear from British records whether the French followed through.

—Senior British officials warned their subordinates that Kennedy was not "an honorary member of the British Cabinet." The warning said care should be taken lest talks with the American Embassy leak information that could be used against British interests.

BARKING PROBLEM

JACKSONVILLE, Ill. (AP) — Charles Goodwin, who had been plagued by the constant barking of a dog when trying to sleep, called police one night.

Goodwin soon was assisting the police in removing the dog from the ledge of a bluff. The black dog had miraculously escaped death by breaking its fall from a bluff when it landed on the ledge.

Goodwin was on the ledge with the dog when firemen arrived. He put a rope around the dog and lowered it to a fireman on an extension ladder.

Goodwin descended the ladder and firemen turned the dog loose. It left the scene with a few short yips of joy and Goodwin returned to his home, hopefully for a night's rest.

THE DOCTOR SAYS

Healthy Living Patterns Help Control Cholesterol

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb—Several weeks ago I had some tests, recommended because I am an "aspiring executive" 46 years old. My doctor said my cholesterol was all right but my "blood fat" was too high. He prescribed some medicine and said I'd have to take it the rest of my life. He said my blood fat might be just as important as my cholesterol and suggested that I write you about it. Naturally, I am interested, and I'd also like to know how to lower my blood fat without taking medicine the rest of my life.

Dear Reader—There are a number of different "blood fat" measurements. Your doctor is probably talking about "triglycerides." This is the term used for the fat particles joined chemically to be transported in the blood. The tri-fat particle is tied to varying amounts of cholesterol. Some tests are only for cholesterol and others measure these and other fat products.

It is true that triglycerides are important. They are also more difficult to measure than cholesterol. All of these tests, including cholesterol vary on different examinations and one test alone does not tell the whole story. Under stress, the level may be up and the next day it may be down. Repeated determination are needed to really know how much trouble a person has, if any.

Medical students taking a final exam have had very high cholesterol levels at exam time. There are different methods, too, which causes different values.

Now what to do about it? I don't blame you for not wanting to take medicine the rest of your life. Sometimes medicine is indicated but very often you can do as much or more for yourself with a good diet and exercise program. The goal is to eliminate, in so far as possible, any excess fat stores. Both the diet and exercise program should be gradual and persistent. Persistent means every day. I have had great success in keeping blood fats and cholesterol levels within normal limits in people who have really followed such a program.

Many people are not successful in such programs because they lose five or ten pounds of fat when they need to lose 30 or more.

I can't stress too strongly the necessity for a good preventive program for an "aspiring executive" in your age group. One-half of the people with heart attacks die before they can reach a special heart unit for treatment and many others are disabled. Clearly, the sensible program is to prevent such a disaster by proper living habits. That means no cigarettes, a proper diet and exercise program combined with other sensible living patterns.

I prefer to have people adjust their living patterns first and then see if medicine is really needed.

Please send your questions and comments to Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D., in care of this paper. While Dr. Lamb cannot answer individual letters, he will answer letters of general interest in future columns.

LEE MUELLER

Norman Rockwell: Color Him 'Blase'

By LEE MUELLER

NEW YORK (NEA) — It would not surprise anyone to find Norman Rockwell living in rural Massachusetts in a 150-year-old white frame house that once belonged to Aaron Burr. Neither should it surprise anyone that Rockwell's studio in the back yard appears to be a converted red New England barn—which it is.

"It looks like him," says his secretary, Dorothy McGregor. "Mr. Rockwell is a part of the America that a lot of people loved."

The America that Rockwell touched upon for 50 years as cover illustrator for the late Saturday Evening Post was rich in smiles, flags, mother love and red barns. He painted 317 covers and only Santa Claus received more adoring fan mail.

"A great many people identify with Mr. Rockwell these days," said his secretary. "The demand for his work—and his mail—has increased tremendously, particularly in the last few years."

The last few years have been tough on smiles, flags, mother love and red barns. They also have been tough on Norman Rockwell—but not as tough as you might think.

"Something funny has happened," he said in a recent interview. "I'm 76 years old and all of a sudden everything that they've brushed under the rug all my life has come out, and they can't brush it under again."

Things have changed. Rockwell's "Four Freedoms" series of World War II was his patriotic monument and, he says, it is likely to remain so. "You couldn't paint them now," he said. "All those subjects are out."

It might surprise a few people to learn that during his long career at the easel, Norman Rockwell has been depicting life as his readers and editors wished to see it—not necessarily as Norman Rockwell wished to see it.

"I think I was trying to express a sense of security that I didn't feel—that everybody loves each other," he said. "In a way, I regret it.

"If I could only be an activist and have a definite feeling for something and be willing to die for it . . . instead I'm—not sophisticated, that's not the word—but blase. If I get an idea and a magazine wants it, I do it."

If the magazine didn't want it, Norman Rockwell didn't do it. There were no blacks in his portraits of ordinary Americans for the Post, he said, "because George Horace Lorimer, who was a very liberal man, told me never to show colored people except as servants."

Look magazine has published Rockwell regularly since the Post folded and permits him more latitude. "I've done several racial pictures—little girls being taken to school by marshals, colored kids moving into white neighborhoods, that sort of thing," he said.

Rockwell was born Norman Percevel in New York on Feb. 3, 1894. His parents were amateur painters, so he and his younger brother, Jarvis, were encouraged to draw.

At 13, he began studying art. At 16, his art teacher was getting him magazine assignments. Soon, Rockwell was earning $50 a month as art editor of Boy's Life, a position that required him to drop out of high school.

Rockwell married when he was 22, just after selling his first cover to the Post. It showed a disgusted boy pushing a baby carriage while his friends were trotting off to play baseball.

"A lot of things have happened to this country since that cover," he said, not smiling.

Meaning Of Mishima

Japan Reflects On Novelist's Suicide

By JOHN RODERICK
Associated Press Writer

TOKYO (AP) — One cold but sunny day late in November the bizarre act of a single individual shocked Japan into a mood of startled, sober self-reflection on the direction it is taking.

The individual was Yukio Mishima, 45, a novelist of Nobel Prize stature, playwright, actor, physical cultist, karate devotee and "general" of a private "army" of ultrapatriotic youths.

On Nov. 25 Mishima—Japan's most popular and perhaps its most gifted writer—delivered the last pages of his tetralogy, "The Sea of Fertility," to his publishers. A few hours later he committed ritual hara kira suicide after unsuccessfully haranguing 2,000 soldiers of the Eastern Army Command—they replied with cries of derision—to rise up and revise Japan's "no war" constitution.

The suicide, ripping open his stomach, took place before the horrified eyes of the commanding general of the Eastern Command whom Mishima and four of his "Tate No Kai" (Shield Society) followers had earlier tied up in his office.

The first startled Japanese reaction was that Mishima hoped to stage a coup d'etat.

But the more police and Mishima's admirers delved into it, the more they became convinced the brilliant young novelist's act had been the individual fulfilment of a death wish. Throughout his novels — "Confessions of a Mask," "The Temple of the Golden Pavilion," "Yukoku"—ran the red stain of suicide, worship for the purity of steel and the hara kiri ritual.

Yasuhiro Nakasone, director-general of the Defense Agency, said the on-the-spot rejection by the soldiers of Mishima's "provocative appeal" proved that Japan's forces are "entirely different from the prewar Japanese military," that they are "democratic citizens in uniform."

It was this democratization—if that is the word—of the armed forces which Mishima deplored. In a lengthy statement, he lamented that Japan's unprecedented prosperity had led "to the neglect of the very foundation of the state and the people have lost their spirit, being concerned more and more with trifling matters."

Mishima saw the 245,000-man self-defense forces as the last custodian of the simpler virtues of Japan's feudal past: honor, loyalty, unquestioning obedience, in short, "the true samurai spirit."

The Japan Mishima found so imperfect has never seemed so healthy.

First in ship-building, second in automobile production, one of the leading electronics makers, Japan is borne along by a gross national product which is second in the non-Communist world.

It has had ts share of extreme left-wing violence as well as occasional acts of right-wing terror. But a trained, well-disciplined police force has been able to cope with disorder—as Mishima sadly noted—without calling in the armed forces.

But, there has been some disillusion over Japan's purely commercial role in recent months. The noxious byproducts of industrialism—dirty air, polluted bays and rivers, contaminated food, excessive noise and overcrowding—have given the ordinary Japanese pause.

Many are beginning to wonder—as did Mishima—whether material progress is worth the candle. The label "economic animals" applied by some nations to the Japanese, is beginning to hurt.

Today's period of reflection is nothing new. The Japanese have always been conscious of their place in life, in society, in the world. Responsibility is shouldered not by the individual but by the group. Thus, after Mishima's act, it was only natural that his father should apologize to the nation on behalf of the family.

In such a group society, duty, loyalty and obedience are more valued than individual happiness. In all ages, the individual has not hesitated to sacrifice himself for what he regarded as the general good. It is in this contect that Mishima's self-immolation makes sense.

For years, Japan has lived in a kind of never-never land of illusion. Under the shadow of a Communist China armed with the hydrogen bomb, it has spent less for its own defense than any other nation of comparable economic size.

Mishima's course—changing the constitution to make the armed forces "a true national military force" independent of the nited States—confronts the Japanese with the terrors of the known. Few would want to return to the days of military rule.

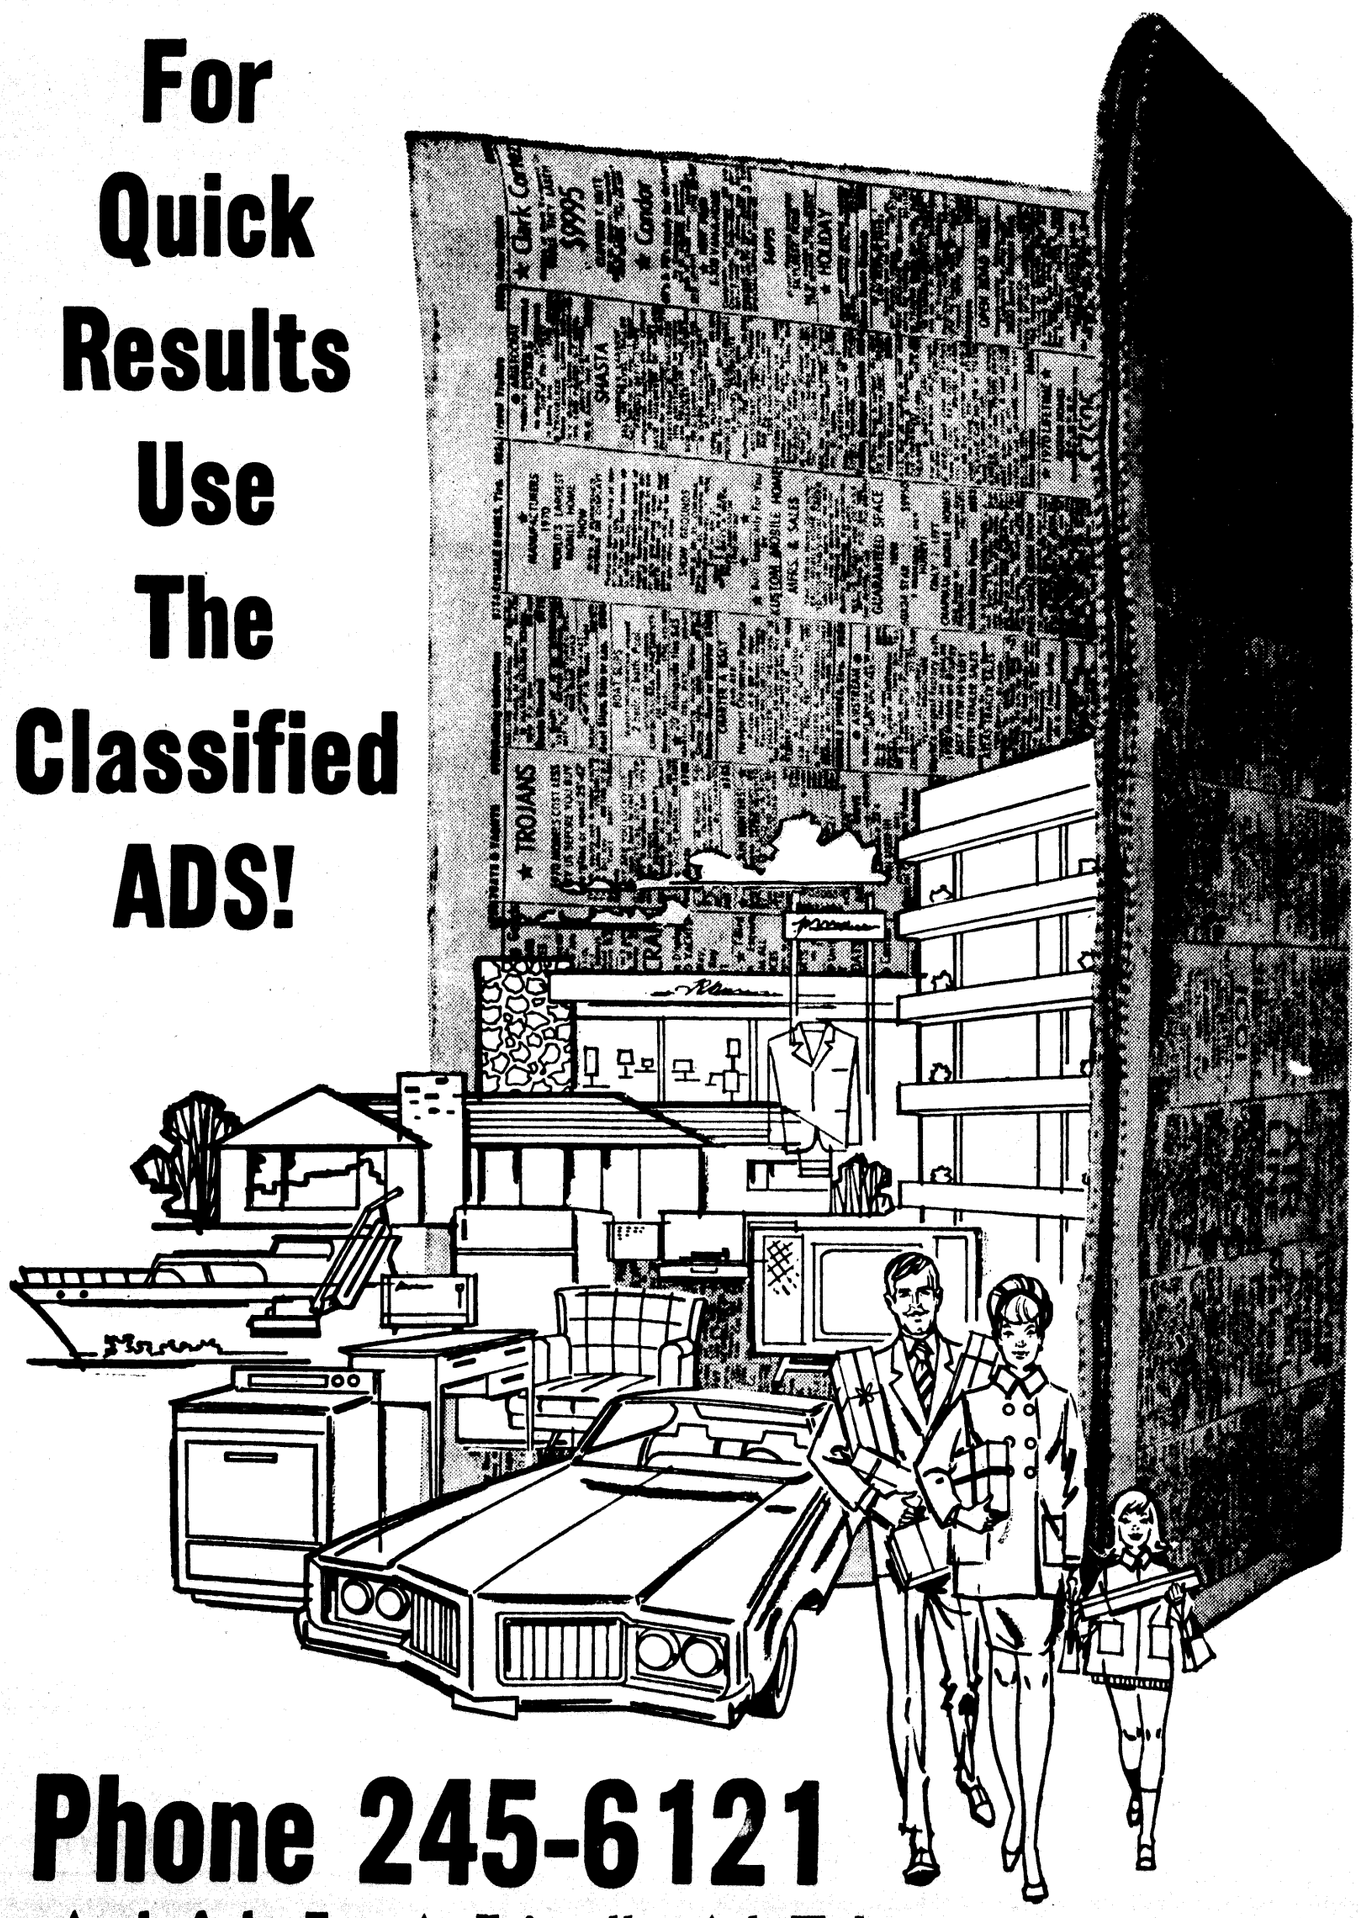

Yet, many ask, "Can the nited States afford us the protection we need? In withdrawing from Asia, will it insist that Japan take a military leadership it now finds repugnant?"

It is in this mood, and in the wake of the sudden jolt to their consciousness supplied by Mishima's act, that the Japanese once again are indulging in self-reflection.

A TALKING COMPUTER has joined the sales force of a Midwest truck company. It's part of a computerized system that helps salesmen and dealers across the country locate new trucks in a hurry. Using a battery-powered terminal (above), a salesman can dial a central IBM computer and get over-the-phone voice response on availability of trucks with customer-prescribed accessories. By locating vehicles already in inventory, the company eliminates delay of scheduling new units into production.

Veil Of Secrecy Lifted By Board; Consider Carpets

The traditional veil of secrecy surrounding negotiations between members of the faculty and board of education of School District 117 was lifted by unanimous vote of the board Tuesday evening.

There is no assurance that the recommendation will be accepted by the Jacksonville Education Association, however, JEA President Tom Smith said after the regular board meeting Tuesday that he would submit the proposal by the board to the organization as a whole for a vote of all members.

Both sides must agree to the proposal before it becomes binding. Traditionally, however, the negotiations between the school board and the faculty representatives have been closed to the public. The final agreement, reached after considerable negotiations, is presented in open meeting and voted according to state law.

Salary negotiations, land acquisitions and a few other isolated instances are still exempt from the open meeting law unless the parties to the negotiations choose otherwise.

Three-Part Proposal

The board's proposal was a three-part package: 1—That all meetings of the negotiation sessions be public and open to representatives of the news media.

2—That the committment to the welfare of the student be reaffirmed; that school sessions will be commenced and maintained on schedule regardless of the state of negotiations be guaranteed.

3—That general increases in faculty salary scheduled or related benefits be predicated upon general increase of service.

That package passed by vote of the board. President J. Ivan Heaton said, "The schools belong to the public."

Consider Carpets

School District 117 will purchase about 9,000 square yards of carpeting for use in Eisenhower and Armstrong schools during the next month or so at an estimated cost of $75,000.

The District thus far has considerable experience in carpeting gained at Jonathan Turner and the high school . . . most of it bad experience according to Robert Gill, building and grounds superintendent. The school purchased carpeting from a manufacturer too small to meet delivery dates. Some of the carpeting was either delayed in delivery from the mill or delayed in installation, or both.

Harry Emrick and Bill Gussner, principals for the two new schools, along with Mr. Gill, undertook an extensive investigation of the carpeting situation and presented their findings for the board.

For reasons of wear, maintenance, and fire resistance, the three determined that an acrylic or nylon fiber with a jute backing would be the best buy for the new schools. They also recommended purchase from one of four major mills who could guarantee delivery within 90 days.

With the apparent blessings of the board, the two principals will compile detailed specifications for approval at the next board meeting. The specs will include colors, quantity, delivery date, number of threads per square inch, weight per square yard, sewed through the backing material, static wire woven within, method of laying, type of adhesive and how seams will be glued.

Both Gussner and Emrick said several firms in Jacksonville and central Illinois would be capable of submitting bids. They indicated that carpeting in the quantity needed would be supplied by most major mills. Bids are expected to be sought by board action following the January 19th meeting. The bid date is expected to be sometime in early February for delivery in May or June.

Farm Bids

The board met as a committee of the whole prior to the regular board session to discuss methods of farming about 103 acres at the Red Farm location, site of the administrative offices.

The board determined that bids would be sought for five crop years starting in March of 1972 on a lease basis. Specifications will be available at the superintendent's office.

No City Power

An adequate power supply at Armstrong junior high school has not been installed as yet by the Municipal Power Company. Grounds Superintendent Bob Gill said the decision to use city power at the school was made in April or May and inquiries on a regular basis during the past several months have produced little more than a series of promises.

Mr. Gill said a few new poles have been installed but no wire has been installed on the poles.

Currently, a delay in shipment of tempered glass has resulted in lack of heat for the building. Several board members indicated that when the building could be closed in and the heaters used, the board may seek other sources of power for the new school.

The board approved a payment of $37,826.27 to Jones-Blythe Construction Co. for work at Jonathan Turner junior high school. Several locks and other hardware have not been received for that project, although the board reserved about $2,300 as a balance on the original contract.

New appointments to the faculty include Craig Collver of Pittsfield for the high school business teaching position, and Mrs. Monica Masten of Jacksonville for special education at Turner junior high.

Boundaries Later

Dr. Clifford Crone, superintendent of District 117, said he would have the recommendations for selecting boundaries for elementary and junior high schools ready for school board approval next month.

The board approved thirty requests by faculty members for additional training expense grants ranging from $30 to $60 each. Most of the training grants resulted from an in-service program in cooperation with Western Illinois University.

C. F. Brewster, FormerResident, Dies In Kansas

KANSAS CITY, Kans. — C. F. Brewster, 57, executive manager of Richard Muther and Assoc. of Kansas City and former president of the Ideal Baking Co., Jacksonville, Ill., died here Monday of a heart attack while driving his car.

The Brewster family resided in Jacksonville from 1965-1969.

He was born in Mt. Sterling, Iowa the son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard W. Brewster. He married Dorothy Conover of Jacksonville, who survives in Shawnee Mission, Kansas, with a son, Dr. Robert C. Brewster of Grand Forks, N.D. and two daughters, Mrs. Carloyn King of Selina, Kansas and Miss Elizabeth (Libby) Brewster at home.

There is one grandson. A sister, Mrs. Margaret Donaldson of Portland, Ore. also survives.

Mr. Brewster was a retired Chief Industrial Engineer for the Butler Manufacturing Co. in Kansas City; a graduate of the University of Colo, at Boulder with a degree in mechanical engineering; past chairman of the official board of the Country Club United Methodist Church of Kansas City; on the district board of trustees of the Kansas City Southern District Methodist Churches; and past president of the western chapter of the Missouri Society of Professional Engineers. He was also a member of the Kiwanis Club of Jacksonville; a member of the Society for the Advancement of Management; a member of the Jacksonville Elks Club and the Grace Methodist Church of Jacksonville.

Funeral services will be held at 11 a.m. Thursday at the Country Club United Methodist Church. A memorial fund has been set up at the church for those wishing to make donations.

Interment will be in Kansas City.

Firemen Called Twice Tuesday

City firemen early Tuesday evening answered two alarms, one which turned out to be a false alarm.

That call came at 5:35 from a woman who reported seeing an unoccupied house at the south end of Kosciusko on fire. Firemen at the scene, however, discovered that fire in a nearby trash burner reflected in a window of the house only made it appear on fire.

A second call came at 5:55 p.m. and firemen rushed to the residence of Ernest Slater, of 8 N. Clay Ct.

The crew found the electric kitchen stove on fire, apparently caused by a short in the wiring. The stove was declared a loss and smoke caused some damage to apartment walls. The housing unit is owned by the Morgan County Housing authority.

RITES THURSDAY

Robt. R. Jess

Funeral services for Robert R. Jess of this city, who died suddenly Monday at the age of 35, will be at 2 p.m. Thursday at Cody and Son Memorial Home. Rev. Dale Robb of First United Presbyterian church will officiate. The family will receive friends at the funeral home 7 to 9 p.m. Wednesday.

John E. DeShara, Of Springfield, Dies Tuesday

SPRINGFIELD — John E. DeShara, 87, of the Ramshaw Nursing Home died at 12:10 p.m. Tuesday.

He was born Sept. 5, 1883 in Springfield, the son of John E. and Lydia Nunes DeShara.

He is survived by a sister, Mrs. Stella Oliver, who resides at the Masonic Home in Sullivan, Ill. and a nephew, Walter E. DeShara jr. of Jacksonville. There are two grandnieces.

He was preceded in death by a brother, Walter H. DeShara, former wire editor of the Jacksonville Journal-Courier.

Mr. DeShara was a retired accountant for the Illinois Central Railroad. He retired in 1953.

Funeral services will be held at 3 p.m. today at the Gillham-Buchanan Funeral Home with Rev. C. Frank Janssen officiating. Interment will be in the Jacksonville East cemetery.

Defendant Fined On Check Count

A Jacksonville student, Kerry W. Fisher, 22, of 138 Prospect was fined $50 and $22.40 court costs on his plea of guilty to deceptive practice before Judge John B. Wright Tuesday afternoon.

Fisher made restitution of a worthless check written in July of 1970 at The Drexel.

Fisher also entered pleas of guilty to parking violations filed by city authorities and was assessed a fine of $17 and $15 court costs on Monday.

Fisher was given 30 days to pay fines and court costs or lay out the total amount at the rate of five dollars a day in the county jail.

Tell Powell Assets, Mistake In Inventory

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — A newspaper reported Tuesday an inventory of the paper assets of the late Paul Powell showed the downstate political power had more than $300,000 in savings deposits and U.S. Treasury notes.

The Alton Telegraph reported that it obtained the information on the inventory from a Springfield lawyer, Robert Oxtoby, one of three persons holding a copy of the document.

Powell died in October during his second term as Illinois secretary of state.

The newspaper said that while its reporter was obtaining the information, he was informed that John S. Rendleman, chancellor of Southern Illinois University campus at Edwardsville, and executor of the Powell estate, telephoned the lawyer and ordered that the inventory copy be released.

The newspaper said that Powell had savings deposits totaling $215,000 in the Drovers State Bank of Vienna, his home town; the Bank of Egypt in Marion, the First State Bank of Springfield, City National Bank of Metropolis, Illinois National Bank of Springfield.

The inventory, which presumably lists the $700,000 in assets that Rendleman said he placed in an Edwardsville bank after receiving them from Powell's secretary, also showed $112,000 worth of Treasury bills made out to Paul Powell Campaign Fund. Powell was elected to 15 terms in the Illinois House and two terms in 1964 and 1968, as secretary of state.

The inventory listed 10 shares of stock in the First National Bank of Cobden, endorsed over to Powell by Rendleman in 1961, and 125 shares of University Bank of Carbondale [illegible] dorsed to Powell by Rendleman in 1962.

Powell's will, filed in Marion County Nov. 10, left stock in the Carbondale and Cobden banks to Rendleman.

The inventory, the Alton Telegraph said, showed that Powell owned 3,000 shares of stock in the Bank of Egypt in Marion, 125 shares of People's National Bank of Springfield stock and 10 shares in the First State Bank of Springfield.

Powell's stock in various race tracks included: Mayfield Park Trotting Association, 264 shares; Mississippi Valley Trotting, Inc., 750 shares; Egyptian Trotting Association, Inc., with John A. Stelle of McLeansboro — who served a short time as governor after the death of Henry Horner in 1940 — 6,750 shares and Chicago Downs Association, 15,800 shares.

The inventory also showed stock certificates in Chicago Harness Racing, Inc., amounting 7,500 shares but listed in the name of Patrick O'Neill, and stock certificates in the Fox Valley Trotting Club Inc., totaling 6,832 shares under the name John A. Stelle.

Stelle died in 1962 in a St. Louis hospital.

The value of stock in the various racing associations cannot be estimated since they are not traded on the open market.

Atty. Gen. William J. Scott announced Monday he will undertake an investigation of the Powell estate to learn the source of the funds which included $800,000 in cash found in Powell's hotel room in Springfield shortly after his death Oct. 10 at age 68.

The secretary of state has a salary of $30,000 a year.

Meanwhile, Scott said that a sum of $700,000 in cash and securities belonging to the estate which he had described Wednesday as "in addition to" the [illegible]

Fear Terrorist Attack

London Airport Guarded

LONDON (AP) — Armored cars and light tanks ringed Heathrow Airport on Saturday in an apparent attempt to guard against terrorists reported planning a missile attack on an American or Israeli plane.

The troops and tanks withdrew soon after nightfall, but a police spokesman said they would be back at dawn. Police remained on full alert overnight, when airport traffic is light and only a few planes arrive or depart.

While soldiers patrolled the airport, bombs believed planted by Irish guerrillas blasted the annual London Boat Show and Madame Tussaud's waxworks. Damage was heavy, but both were cleared of thousands of visitors just minutes before the explosions, and no casualties were reported.

A third bomb exploded late Saturday in Cadogan Gardens, a residential street in Chelsea, the police said. A house was damaged. No casualties were reported.

Police received a telephoned warning and found another bomb outside the Burns International Security Service building in West London. Bomb experts defused it.

Police said there was no connection between the bombs and the big alert at Heathrow, unprecedented in peacetime Britain.

The British Broadcasting Corp. said the alert was ordered after tips from other European police that a group of Arab guerrillas had been seen at undisclosed points armed with Soviet-made missiles.

Troops in tanks surrounded Heathrow early in the day amid reports that Arab terrorists were planning to attack, possibly with Soviet-made ground-to-air missiles.

Soldiers toting submachine guns patrolled the perimeter of the airfield. Troops erected road blocks and searched motorists entering the area. Police with tracker dogs patrolled outside the airport along the flight paths of arriving and departing planes.

Passenger areas at Heathrow were kept free of troops to avoid creating panic, police said, and many passengers appeared unaware of the wall of steel protecting them.

The alert came as an American girl, a Pakistani and a Moroccan appeared in magistrates court on charges of conspiracy relating to the possession of firearms. Authorities said they suspected the three of belonging to one of the four or five terrorist groups

Nixon Criticized For Tapes Action

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Members of the Senate Watergate Committee Saturday sharply criticized President Nixon's refusal to comply with their subpoenas. One of them, Sen. Herman E. Talmadge, DGa., said it indicated "he has something to hide."

Sen. Lowell P. Weicker Jr., R-Conn., and counsel Sam Dash defended the committee against administration charges that the sweeping subpoenas were excessive, "a blatant act of irresponsibility" and "a fishing expedition."

Weicker said in Greenwich, Conn., that the committee's long-standing request for an informal meeting with Nixon had gone unanswered. "We haven't even had a yes or no to that very simple, direct, forthright request," he said.

Dash told reporters Friday the committee had gotten even less cooperation from the White House during Nixon's "Operation Candor." He said each one of the several hundred tapes and documents were relevant to the committee's investigation.

Talmadge told a reporter in Georgia that Nixon "is making a great mistake in refusing to comply with the subpoenas. "It indicates to the public he has something to hide and affects his credibility," he said.

"It doesn't come as any surprise," Weicker said. "The President and-or his aides continue to duck the hard one. Candor has been a word, it has not been a deed, in the White House for a considerable period of time."

The three subpoenas asked for 500 tapes and several hundred documents covering roughly three issues: the breakin at the Democratic offices in the Watergate complex June 17, 1972; allegations that the 1971 increase in

Snow Blankets Much Of West

Snow fell on deserts in Southern California, Utah and Arizona Saturday, stranding motorists and blanketing Palm Springs golf courses for the first time in 25 years.

Up to four feet of snowfall accumulated in the mountains around Los Angeles and an estimated 1,000 persons were marooned in their cars trying to get through snow-clogged passes.

Snow covered Palm Springs, desert resort and winter home of many wealthy retired individuals, for the first time in a quarter century.

Twenty-one inches of snow piled up at Victorville, Calif., and 16 inches were reported on the ground at Palmdale on the high desert.

Snow was reported at Furnace Creek in Death Valley Friday, for the first time since 1968 and only the third time since the National Park Service began keeping records in Death Valley 15 years ago. Temperature dropped to 33 degrees.

Six inches of snow fell by daybreak at Las Vegas and highway travel from St. George, Utah, into the gambling city was banned unless autos were equipped with chains or snow tires. All other roads into Las Vegas were reported hazardous.

All highways in Utah, except for the Salt Lake City area, were snowbound, but all but U.S. 89 into Arizona were sanded and open for at least limited travel. St. George got a foot of snow.

Quake Rocks Peru; Death, Panic Follow

LIMA, Peru (UPI) — A powerful earthquake rocked the Lima area early Saturday, causing at least six deaths, destroying homes and spreading panic among some five million persons.

Peruvian civil defense officials said two persons were killed around Lima, two others in the town of Yauyos east of Lima where the quake wast most intense and two others in smaller towns. He said fragmentary information received from Yauyos indicated at least 100 homes were destroyed there.

A spokesman for the U.S. National Earthquake Information Center in Boulder, Colo., said the 3:33 a.m. EST tremor was of the same magnitude as the disastrous Managua, Nicaragua, earthquake in 1972 —6.2 on the open-end Richter scale.

Dr. Waverly Person said the Managua quake was very shallow, but "the Peruvian quake was about 60 miles beneath the earth's surface. That is deep enough to lessen the death toll."

The Peruvian Geophysical Institute said the tremor measured only 4.8 on the Richter scale in Lima. Its epicenter was between Yauyos and Huarochiri about 50 miles southeast of Lima.

Information from the isolated mountain area more than 7,000 feet above sea level was scarce. The New Type Flu Virus In U.S.

ATLANTA (UPI) — The first laboratory-confirmed cases of a new type Hong Kong influenza have appeared in this country, the National Center for Disease Control (NCDC) said Saturday.

The confirmed cases occurred in California and Georgia, and involved the B-Hong Kong-72 virus, a strain different from the old Asian and A-Hong Kong types.

The NCDC said that in California, the disease was virologicaly confirmed in two boys aged 9 and 10 during December in San Mateo County. The mother also came down with the illness, developed complications, and died.

The Georgia case involved a nine-month-old girl who was seen in the emergency room of Grady Hospital in Atlanta.

In addition to the cases of the B-type Hong Kong flu, the NCDC said cases of influenza-A have been reported in Kansas, North Carolina, Oregon, Tennessee and Texas. Other confirmed flu cases have been reported in Minnesota, Missouri and Oregon.

The NCDC said the cases reported so far have been isolated and that no general outbreaks of influenza-like disease have been reported in this country.

Don't Forget — Advance Clocks

Most of the nation's clocks move ahead an hour on Sunday for 22 straight months of Daylight Saving Time.

The switch, the first time the nation has gone on year-round daylight time since World War II, was proposed by President Nixon and approved by Congress to help ease the energy crisis.

Clocks were to be moved ahead one hour at 2 a.m. local time Sunday.

However, several states are exempt. Congress said Hawaii, the Virgin Islands, Puerto Rico and most of Indiana are exempt.

Arizona, parts of Kentucky and the mountain time zone areas of Idaho and Oregon were exempted by Secretary of Transportation Claude S. Brinegar, acting for Nixon.

In Georgia, nine school superintendents pleaded with Gov. Jimmy Carter to prevent school children from going to school during darkness by using his executive power to keep the state on standard time. In a telegram they expressed "grave concern for the safety of students who must walk to school or walk to a bus stop in darkness."

President Reviews Federal Spending

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (UPI) — President Nixon Saturday began a final review of federal spending plans for the coming fiscal year which were expected to reach a total of $300 billion for the first time.

Nixon was said to be considering an additional package of contingency spending programs if the energy crisis weakens the economy beyond administration expectations and drives unemployment up sharply.

All decisions on the fiscal 1975 budget covering the business year starting next July 1 will be made by mid-week so that the budget can be printed and sent to Congress late this month or early in February.

Roy L. Ash, director of the Office of Management and Budget, flew here from Washington at Nixon's request Friday night and the White House acknowledged that "major policy decisions" were being made.

A presidential spokesman refused to go into detail, but he said Nixon and Ash were concentrating on programs dealing with energy research and development, housing and health care.

Ash already has said the new budget will project expenditures at slightly more than $300 billion —breaking a symbolic barrier —and that it will be geared to expected revenues of between $292 billion and $294 billion.

That would anticipate a deficit of about $7 billion, compared with one of between $4 billion and $6 billion which the administration now is projecting for the current fiscal year —a year in which Nixon had hoped for a balanced budget.

But Ash and other administration economic officials cautioned that their estimates could be off substantially because of the many uncertainties created by the fuel shortage. Many experts outside the government maintain that the administration's forecasting is unrealistically optimistic.

Accordingly, Nixon was understood to be studying a variety of "stand-by" plans to stimulate the economy quickly if needed. Among the possible "stand-by" measures which Nixon was believed to be studying to stimulate the economy in an emergency were steps to expand public service employment, to increase defense spending in areas with many people out of work and to increase spending for public works projects, especially environmental programs.

Link Navy Vet To Arms Plot

FAIRFIELD, Calif. (AP) — A 31-year-old Navy veteran accused of aiding a suspected terrorist smuggle arms and ammunition into Britain was arrested Saturday by FBI agents.

Theodore D. Brown was taken into custody at Travis Air Force Base. He is to be arraigned Monday in U.S. District Court.

Brown, on medical retirement from the Navy since 1966, was held in lieu of $25,000 bail on charges that he aided and abetted Allison Thompson, 18, in smuggling guns and ammunition into Britain. Miss Thompson is one of three persons arrested in London as suspected terrorists.

Brown, who FBI agents said was arrested while waiting for a space available military flight to the East Coast, was charged with violating the Firearms Control Assistance Act and the Neutrality Act.

Miss Thompson, 18, of Santa Barbara was arrested Dec. 29 at the London airport with five automatic pistols and 150 rounds of ammunition, authorities said. She was taken into custody with Abdelkhir el-Hakkaour, 25, of Morocco and Athar Naseem, 21, of Pakistan. Both were active in student politics in Santa Barbara.

The three youths appeared in court in London Saturday, charged with conspiracy relating to the possession of firearms. Officials said they were members of a group opposed to the pro-Western Moroccan government.

Brown had been employed at an art gallery in Santa Barbara, FBI agents said. He lived with his wife and two children in nearby Goleta and had been active in a local soccer club, agents said.

Kissinger, Dayan Agree On Withdrawal Tactics

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger ended seven and one-half hours of talks with Israeli Defense Minister Moshe Dayan Saturday saying that they had reached substantial agreement on how to approach the issue of disengaging Arab and Israeli forces.

Dayan said he was satisfied with the talks, which began Friday, and prepared to return Saturday night to Israel to start hammering out a concrete negotiating proposal with Prime Minister Golda Meir and her cabinet to be presented at peace talks in Geneva.

The two men met for four and one half hours Saturday in Kissinger's office at the State Department. After the first hour, they were joined by aides and later by Herman Eilts, the chief U.S. representative to Egypt.

Dayan and Kissinger had talked for three hours Friday before the Israeli defense minister went to see Defense Secretary James R. Schlesinger to discuss how his country would use a $2.2 billion emergency arms aid appropriation from the United States.

"Our two positions approached each other substantially... we are talking tactics and nuances," Kissinger said when he and Dayan met with newsmen briefly after their session concluded. "There was no confrontation between us. Not only was there no confrontation, but there was no significant difference between us and the Israelis."

Dayan added: "I personally was very happy with these talks. Now I am going home and I hope our cabinet will be in a position to formulate something concrete to propose to the Arabs. Whether we shall reach agreement with Egypt, I can't say now. But I think we can have a concrete proposal, and I don't think it will take a long time."

Neither Kissinger nor Dayan disclosed any of the details of their agreement.

An Israeli military analyst meanwhile said in an Army radio commentary in Tel Avic that Israeli is willing to withdraw its Army back inside the Sinai nearly 20 miles from the Suez Canal if Egypt thins out its forces of the east bank of the waterway.

Dayan cautioned against over optimism about the peace negotiations. "Everybody should realize that after such a long time of fighting and confrontation it is very difficult to make even the first step toward an agreement," he said.

Kissinger said he remained hopeful about the prospects for a peace settlement, despite reports of sporadic heavy fighting between the Israelis and Egyptians. The two sides fought a two hour battle Saturday on the outskirts of Suez City that included artillery and mortar barrages.

Editorial Comment

As Arab Oil Prices Soar

Though the world of international finance and economics is too complex for many laymen to grasp, some things about it are bluntly simple. That is true of the Persian Gulf countries' virtual doubling of crude oil prices. They have the oil and there is heavy world demand for it, so they intend to charge in effect what the traffic will bear.

This is going to be tough on the industrialized countries, though less so in the United States than in Europe because only about a tenth of U.S. energy requirements are met by imports from the Middle East. The Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries acknowledges this, but is saying that the world will just have to make do as best it can.

This means, as the Shah of Iran reminds us, that the era of cheap oil is over. The new policy of the OPEC emphasizes this. The group did not merely boost oil prices; it plans to base them henceforth on the cost of producing alternative energy sources. This would include such things as nuclear energy, oil extracted from shale, and transforming coal into gas or liquid fuel. If the Arab countries stick with this policy, that is sure to bring about major changes in world energy use patterns and the relationships dictated by those patterns.

When Man Stood Upright

Evidence increasingly points to Africa as the cradle of mankind, the place where man evolved from his progenitors. More and more, too, the indications are that the early stages of this evolution took place in the far more remote past than was generally thought until not long ago.

Only last year, an expedition in Kenya led by the British anthropologist Richard Leakey found skull fragments and thigh bones whose age was estimated at about 2.6 million years. Now a young American anthropologist, Dr. Carl Johanson of Case Western Reserve University, reports a discovery in Ethiopia which pushes back even further the date when man first walked upright.

The thigh bones discovered by Leakey suggested this as of around two and a half million years ago. Johanson's find of fossilized human leg bones in Ethiopia reportedly indicates that the development from the loping gait to an upright stance had occurred substantially earlier.

This tentative conclusion must be confirmed, but it appears likely that Johanson's estimate will prove to be correct. In this case the long saga of human development must henceforth envision men of a sort lifting up their heads and walking erect more than three million years ago.

Shave It Again, Sam

Since millions of dollars are involved in the Donnybrook over Schick's claims for its shaver, in that sense this is no laughing matter. The fact is that the affair's humorous aspects predominate, despite the seriousness of the National Advertising Review Board conclusion that the Schick advertising was "false in some details and misleading in its overall implications."

Schick's claims of alleged superiority over competitors were based on tests in which men shaved twice and then after the second shave the hair debris was weighed. It seems that measurements were made in 35 ten-millionths of an ounce, which not surprisingly led some panel members to feel that the differences in the amount of hair removed "were so minute . . . that they might not be of significance to the consumer although the ads implied that they were."

This may not be a masterpiece of understatement, but it is a pretty good effort along those lines. This applies as well to the report's hint that, since most men tend to just shave and be done with it, the two-shave test was somewhat lacking in pertinence.

None of the above should be construed as a roundhouse swing at either Schick in particular or comparative advertising claims in general. Comparison lies at the heart of consumer choice, and is thus an entirely legitimate element in advertising. We do have a hunch, though, that it's not going to matter much to the average fellow whether a few ten-millionths of an ounce more or less of hair are removed by a second shave he doesn't have time for anyway.

Communication

To the Editor:

Let's print something decent and complimentary for a change.

I would like to add my compliments to John Crowder and the street crews of the City of Jacksonville for the excellent job that they've done with snow problems the last couple of weeks in our town.

They have worked long, hard and cold hours to make the streets in Jacksonville passable and far better than many other towns.

I think we should all be proud of them and give them a big vote of thanks.

Yours very truly,

Grousing About U.S. Becoming Louder

TOKYO (UPI) — The oil crisis and the Middle East war are giving Japanese-American relations a bad case of the flu.

It won't be fatal. Both countries have too much at stake in their Pacific partnership to let it lapse. Still, grousing about America has reached its loudest level in Tokyo since the summer of 1971, when the news broke that President Nixon and Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger had been dealing with China behind Japan's back.

"As far as Japan is concerned, we believed that we were well under way to developing a new and mature partnership when the energy crisis arose," Kissinger said at a recent news conference.

"It diverted concerns, and created many temporary obstacles."

Depending on the Middle East for 80 per cent of her oil, Japan took the calculated risk of crossing the United States by giving diplomatic support to the Arab countries in the Middle East war.

That offended public opinion in the United States, which has been pro-Israel. It also led to advocacy by some Jewish organizations of boycotts against Japanese goods.

Now Tokyo newspapers and some Japanese oil industry leaders are accusing big international oil companies— most of them American—of grabbing oil that Japan normally could buy from countries not involved in the boycott.

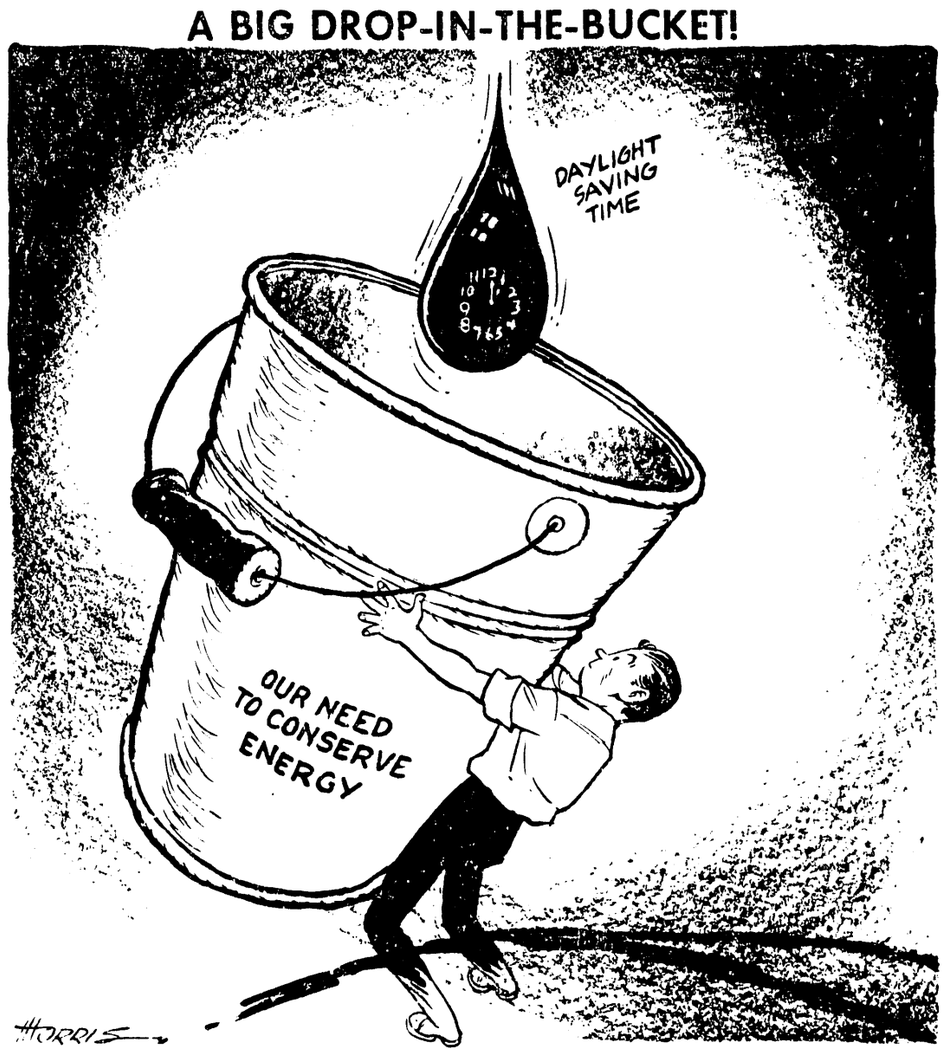

A large share of Japan's oil— estimates range from 65 to 80 per cent—is delivered by a group of seven international oil companies often called the "seven sisters." Five of them are American controlled.

Japanese newspapers usually refer to them by the ominous name of "international oil capital," or simply call them "the majors."

Japan's largest newspaper, Asahi, said that Gulf and Exxon cut shipments to Japan from Saudi Arabia by 27 per cent, although Saudi Arabia reduced production by only 25 per cent.

"The majors are reducing oil destined for Japan from Iran and Indonesia, and turning it toward the United States and the Netherlands, which are boycotted by OPEC," it said.

The complaints of the Japanese are apt to become louder this spring. The oil shortage has led to a consumer goods shortage, and Japanese wholesale and retail merchants have not been slow to take advantage of it. The cost of living rose about 16 per cent in 1973.

Had to Decide on Her Own What To Do with Her Life

Dear Ann Landers: The letter signed "Another Sad Mother" must have hit a million mothers where they live — and at least that many daughters.

I went through the same thing, only worse. My boyfriend was even more hopeless than her daughter's. Her guy was just a lazy slob who couldn't hold a job. My Joey was a junkie, wanted by the police for stealing, mugging and whatever else junkies have to do to support their habit.

My mother kept threatening to turn me in to the police for keeping company with him. I begged her not to. Finally she compromised and told my high school principal. My life became a living hell. I kept fighting everyone who tried to break us up. The harder they tried, the more I defended Joey.

As I look back I see what pressure can do to a normal person. It nearly drove me insane. When Mom finally gave up and let me alone I decided to drop Joey. The day I did that, my life took a turn for the better.

I am now a sophomore in college. I can't believe that was me back there. I must have been crazy. Today I wouldn't go near a guy who shoots up. But I had to decide on my own what to do with my life. I couldn't let anybody do it for me. — Got It All Together

Dear Together: I received a blizzard of letters from girls who had similar experiences. It was no easy job selecting the best letter to print. Thanks to all who wrote.

Dear Ann Landers: I had a sister-in-law just like "rattled" and it was you who helped me solve the problem. I refer to the dear friends and relatives who simply won't stay out of your kitchen when you are entertaining. You ran a poem in your column a long time back and suggested I tack it over the sink. I did better than that. I had my artistic daughter make a canvas and I did it up in needlepoint. It is now handsomely framed and hanging on my kitchen wall.

In case you've forgotten it, Ann, here it is:

Please stay away from my kitchen,
From my dishwashing, cooking and such.
You were kind to have offered to help me
And I do want to thank you so much.
I hope you won't think me ungracious
When I ask that you leave me alone,
For my kitchen is not very spacious
And my system is strictly my own.
So please stay out of my kitchen,
It may well prevent a few wars.
And when I am invited to your house,
I promise to stay out of yours. — An Admirer

Dear Ad: Thanks a lot. I HAD forgotten. It was good of you to remind me.

Our national hill keeps shrinking

WASHINGTON (NEA)

As a working institution, Congress in 1973 has not had a very good year. It needed to improve mightily its techniques for the conduct of an important part of the nation's public business, and it hasn't made a real dent.

Watergate saved it the embarrassment of full disclosure of its inadequacies, and one or two other things helped a bit. The spotlight was usually elsewhere, and when it did swing to Capitol Hill for the protracted Ervin Senate committee hearings, the focus of course was on President Nixon and his aides.

Defenders and promoters of Congress can point to the fact that it did impose some curb on the President's warmaking powers, that it cut off funds for the bombing in Cambodia, that as usual it trimmed a few billion off the defense budget. It can also be argued that the Ervin hearings, often fascinating and watched by far more millions of television viewers than anyone would have guessed, gained the Senate some fresh points as an investigating body.

If the issue of Congress were to be judged simply on a scoreboard basis, there is, however, plenty of material for the critics. Time and again, the President made his fairly numerous vetoes stick. The war-making issue aside, Congress exhibited almost no bold initiatives. In the energy field, the Senate had a major bill of its own. But when the lawmakers recessed for Christmas, they were toying with a watered-down version, and only a late show of House resistance kept the matter unresolved and deprived Mr. Nixon of a broad fuel control bill tailored to his wishes.

One can argue for or against the proposition that sufficient evidence exists to warrant impeachment proceedings against the President. The reality is that, after the public outcry which followed his firing of Archibald Cox as special Watergate prosecutor, the House did decide to undertake the preliminaries involved in those proceedings, and it has made about as much progress as a glacier in the Arctic.

Yet the modest hopes implicit in even the sparse scoreboard showings by Congress are hardly justified. If the presidency has become overblown and "imperial," then the Congress is skin and bones and there is little genuine promise in such frailty.

Talk to lawmakers' aides and you will get a discouraging story. At their disposal today is one fairly primitive computer, and so far, in the most literal sense, they haven't figured out what to do with it. Meantime, each passing month sees them engulfed with more and more complex information which they appear unable to digest and act upon.

One Senate aide said that body this year had around 600 roll calls votes, as against some 400 a few years back. While a lot were procedural, the greater part broached substantive issues requiring informed judgements which most senators were ill-prepared to make.

The old cry used to be that lawmakers needed more staff to keep up. The word today is that there are now more aides, but they tend to be inefficiently used. A fair proportion must always be set aside to handle the service-station aspects of the job — dealing with constituents' queries and complaints. Most lawmakers are said to be poor office managers.

Worse still, most go to the Senate or House floors not only uninformed but lacking in the zeal and fire needed for the spirited, crackling debate that ought to enliven a Congress struggling for its proper power role in these troubling days.

By way of summary, I've heard it argued that Congress is no longer an institution well led and commanding loyalty, but a mere gathering place for 535 separate egos.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

The first imperial harem was begun in Constantinople in the 1400s, and developed into a unique institution housing royal wives, concubines, female relatives, slaves, and eunuchs who were all subordinate to the sultan's mother, The World Almanac notes. Western influence, during the past century, has led to the discontinuance of harems which remain in only a few royal palaces in the Middle East.

Law For Today

Q. Can a liquor store employ a minor and, if so, can that minor sell liquor?

A. According to the Illinois Liquor Control Commission, a minor may work in a liquor store, but to sell liquor, one must be at least 19 years old. However, a municipality may have ordinances which vary from state law, thus, you are advised to check your local ordinance concerning this matter.

Psychologist Offers Theory About High Rate Of Suicide

VIENNA (AP) - A sort of claustrophobia because of the smallness of the country is to blame for the high rate of suicides in Austria, a psychologist here believes.

Professor Edmond de Lijzer, who came up with the new explanation in an interview with the Associated Press, heads a question-and-answer service by telephone among other help offered to people who are so desperate that they might attempt suicide.

He practices in Vienna, which is the cradle of psychoanalysis as the birthplace of Sigmund Freud. Psychoanalysts often explain that people attempt suicide when they feel crowded in.

Professor de Lijzer has expanded the theory to an entire population.

He said that Austrians in 1919, when the powerful Austro-Hungarian monarchy collapsed, found themselves suddenly in a country with only ten per cent of the former population and even less of the area. Austria presently has 7,730,800 people and an area of 32,374 square miles, or about the size of Maine.

Young persons, who account for some 30 per cent of suicide attempts in Austria which ranks third in the world suicide rates, do not have first-hand knowledge of the monarchy. They know of it only from history books, and de Lijzer suggested that these books depicting the cultural wealth of that era make youngsters just as aware of the monarchy as older people.

Hungary has the highest suicide rate in the world with 31.3 per 100,000 inhabitants, according to statis- [illegible] with 25.0 and Austria [illegible] that with 22.

Hungary and Czechoslovakia were the two other main countries in the old monarchy. The professor did not include them in his theory, but their suicides rates as well as the staggering 40.9 per 100,000 inhabitants for West Berlin, where people have every reason to feel crowded in, appear to endorse his views.

According to the World [illegible] Europe [illegible] countries rank in the top field. East Germany did not show in the statistics available and other East European countries were not in the top field.

During the last 10 years, 16,511 Austrians have committed suicide.

Each day on an average five persons kill themselves. In 1971 1,694 persons died by their own hand. Vienna with a rate of [illegible] were over 60 but [illegible] years the rate of young persons killing themselves has increased three-fold.

Men make up two-thirds of the suicides. Women, however, account for a bigger attempt rate: of 2,791 known attempts in 1971, 55 per cent — or 1,624 — were women.

Experts think that the true number of suicide attempts was much higher [illegible]

Professor Erwin Ringel, an internationally renowned Austrian expert in suicide research, said that 85 per cent of the persons saved before they were able to commit suicide were grateful for it.

He said many persons do not think of death or dying when attempting to commit suicide. They want to break out of what they think is an unbearable situation.

[illegible] telephone service with a volunteer staff of some 60 persons is at present the main institution helping to prevent suicides in Vienna, officials hope to start, under Ringel's supervision, an Institute for Suicide Prevention next year.

The Institute will be located in a hospital and besides offering facilities to give first aid, advice and preventive care, it will also continue suicide studies.

Fuel Measures May Be Easing Auto Deaths

LONDON (AP) — Fuel shortages, lower speed limits and bans on weekend driving may have already resulted in lower auto casualty rates in some European countries.

The figures are still preliminary, and in many cases based only on limited sample surveys by police and auto clubs, but a drop in accidents and deaths is indicated.

Additionally, European environmentalists see an added benefit in lower city air pollution as a result of fewer cars on the road.

One sidelight: wildlife enthusiasts in Italy estimate 25 million to 30 million game birds will be spared this year because sportsmen cannot use their cars to go to their favorite hunting spots.

European speed limits generally vary between 50 and 60 miles an hour. In the United States a national limit of 55 miles was signed into law by President Nixon earlier this week.

Here are some findings:

Britain:

The number of serious car accidents on main roads and highways is down by an estimated one-third since the 50-mile-per-hour limit became law Dec. 8, according to police and automobile industry sources. National figures are not available.

West Germany:

Traffic experts believe road accidents have declined as a result of speed limits and a ban on Sunday driving enforced last month. Government officials say national figures are not available.

Norway

Traffic figures show 28 auto fatalities for December 1973 compared to 54 in December 1972. The Norwegian Traffic Safety Council said the decline was a result of the combination of car-free weekends and bad 1973 weather conditions which kept cars off the road.

Italy:

Without giving specifics, traffic officials say 180 lives probably were saved as a result of the six carless days in December. Police, again without giving specifics, say the speed limits of 60 miles on ordinary roads and 75 miles an hour on superhighways probably has resulted in the decreased number of accidents.

Lutheran Brotherhood sent George Scotting $5300 for a claim he didn't even report.

August 1968: George Scotting nearly died after being overcome by methane gas on his Pipestone, Minnesota farm. Lutheran Brotherhood sent him monthly disability checks until he returned to work.

June 1971: Lutheran Brotherhood learned that as a result of the accident, George's doctor had found him permanently disabled. Thinking they already had received all the benefits from their disability policy, the Scottings did not again notify Lutheran Brotherhood. Soon afterwards, they were happily surprised to receive a $5300 check for the back payments they hadn't claimed plus a $460 check for premiums paid after George's accident.

Two Industry Groups Only Real Source Of Oil Reserve Estimates

WASHINGTON (AP) — They'll give you numbers — 36.3 billion barrels, 11.0 years of production — but neither the government nor the industry really knows how much oil is available in U.S. reserves.

An industry insider said in an interview that the often-quoted estimates actually depend on oil company profit goals. That is information the companies apparently do not even tell each other and the government has no independent reserve estimates of its own.

In fact, almost all government information about energy supplies comes directly or indirectly from the companies.

Since the Arab oil cutoffs emphasized the U.S. energy crisis, the energy industries have renewed their lobbying for tax incentives, price increases and delays or waivers of environmental, health and safety regulations. They say these moves are needed to enlarge reserves and speed up production.

Debate over such policies must revolve around the statistics describing and predicting reserves and production, which are available only from the companies themselves.

William E. Simon, director of the Federal Energy Office, has pledged to make government energy information more complete and reliable. And a key industry official who declined to be identified said the petroleum industry plans to develop a new approach to reserve estimates.

Meanwhile, the federal government must take its basic information where it finds it while it hastily imposes emergency controls on the oil industry.

The mineral industries, including oil, must report data every ten years to the Census Bureau.

Beyond that, there is no law requiring regular and complete oil company reports directly to the federal government.

Petroleum reserves, still in the ground, can only be estimated.

These reserve estimates tell the nation, in effect, how much petroleum it has in its savings account, how long that account can support our present production rate and how fast we must add to reserves to maintain a safe balance.

The only real sources of reserve estimates are two industry groups, the American Petroleum Institute and the American Gas Association, which survey most but not all oil and gas companies.

The U.S. Bureau of Mines, the primary government compiler of energy [illegible] from these two industry groups. The bureau fills in the gaps with data relayed by the oil and gas producing states.

The two industry groups report impressive statistics. The latest estimates, now one year old, said the nation had proved resources totaling 36.3 billion barrels of crude oil, 6.8 billion barrels of natural gas liquids and 266.1 trillion cubic feet of natural gas.

The reserves have dwindled steadily over recent years and the latest estimates represent only enough oil to last 11 more years and enough natural gas for 12 years at current production rates.

But what are proved reserves?

The industry groups define them as the estimated quantities of petroleum that can be produced "under existing economic and operating conditions."

In other words, they list only those petroleum [illegible] willing to produce at prevailing prices.

Their willingness in turn, depends on the size of the profit they demand.

A key industry official described how reserve estimates are prepared: "The companies do not report their reserves directly. We divide the country into districts with API (American Petroleum Institute) committees of geologists and reservoir engineers.

"The committees estimate total reserves in a field or reservoir. They never report company reserves."

Asked how these committees take account of existing economic conditions, this source said, "I think they are aware of the price of crude oil.

New Farm Radio ProgramOnWLDS

A new farm radio program "Farm Final" starts tomorrow on WLDS. "Farm Final" will be heard at 5:05 p m. Monday through Friday. Featured will be a summary of the daily livestock markets from National Stockyards in East St. Louis with market trends and estimates reported by Bob Reardon.

Bill Stoner from the Peavey Company Commodity Services will summarize the daily commodity market transactions. Mike Perrine, WLDS farm director, will add to the minute farm information and conduct interviews on farm topics.

"Farm Final" is designed to be of interest to all listeners in the area directly or indirectly involved in agriculture.

Immediately following "Farm Final" will be a report on the stock markets from the Jacksonville office of R. Rowland and Company Incorporated. This feature will also be heard Monday through Friday only.

Rounding out the half-hour of new programming made possible by daylight saving time will be national and international news at 5 p.m. and local and national sports news reported by Don Hamilton at 5:20. Both of these programs will be heard seven days a week.

Another addition to the evening schedule will be the final local news report of the day at 5:50, followed by the latest weather report from Weather Corporation of America.

Starting tomorrow, WLDS will operate from 6:45 a.m. to 6 p.m. Central Daylight time. The operating schedule will be expanded in February when the days get longer.

Jane Upstages Kennedy Flick

By Dick Kleiner

HOLLYWOOD — (NEA) — The screening of "Executive Action" produced a flurry of excitement in the lobby during the post-screening reception. Jane Fonda had arrived at the affair with her baby but she refused to allow photographers to take the baby's picture.

She said she was afraid of kidnapping.

The film, incidentally, is exciting and well-made, but it rakes up the old theory of a conspiracy in the assassination of President John F. Kennedy. And it is not particularly convincing, as a treatise.

You've seen those commercials where Bill Russell sits at a desk and casually sinks a basket — with the hoop 25 feet away. Then he says, "I can't miss and neither can you, with Long Distance."

Well, the original script called for Russell to miss, and the script went, "I can miss, but you can't with Long Distance." The idea came from Dan E. Hutchins, advertising chief of Long Distance Bell.

They figure it would be easy to shoot Russell missing the basket. But he kept getting the ball in and they had to re-shoot. Eventually, they changed the copy and let him sink the basket.

It was old home week at the Beverly Hills Hotel, where many stars turned out to greet columnist Shirley Eder and her new book, "Not This Time, Cary Grant."

The names were from out of the film past — people like June Allyson, Barbara Stanwyck, Kathryn Grayson, Patricia Morison, Ann Miller, Zsa Zsa Gabor, Cesar Romero. Plus a sprinkling of still biggies — Bob Hope, Ann-Margret, Shirley Jones, Jack Cassidy.

One interesting couple was Jane Robinson, the widow of Edward G. Robinson, with director George Sidney. There is talk that they are candidates for a wedding.

Mervyn LeRoy was about set to do a remake of "The Champ," which starred Wallace Beery and Jackie Coogan many years ago. LeRoy's idea was to do it now with Walter Matthau and his precocious son, Charley.

The story is that everything was set to go — but then Charley Matthau balked. He said he didn't want to work in a picture with his father.

A press release from American International Pictures:

"American International's Christmas release, will be 'Hell Up In Harlem,' it was announced by Leon P. Blender, Executive Vice-President in Charge of Sales and Distribution."

Sounds like lovely, Christmasy fare. We can go right from that to a program of Christmas music: "I'm Dreaming of a Black Christmas," "Hark, the Herald Angels Rumble" and "I Saw Mommy Shooting Santa Claus."

Howard Cosell prides himself on his vocabulary but have you noticed how often he misuses those big words?

On a recent Monday Night Football broadcast he said that a certain player had "gravitated from" a college. "Gravitate" means "to have a natural tendency or to be strongly attracted." You don't gravitate "from" something, you gravitate "toward" something.

Move over Mrs. Malaprop. Make room for Howard, who is trying to cosellize our language.

JUANITA BROWN: religion's her bag.

Case Closed — Sorry, Perry

By Dick Kleiner

HOLLYWOOD — (NEA) — Ordinarily, when a TV show is cancelled the people involved let it die in peace. Not Monte Markham. When his show The New Perry Mason was dropped he decided to go out with a bang.

He hosted a big party on the set the last day of shooting exhibiting what everybody said was a lot of class.

Markham said the show was doomed from the beginning — "it was a million-dollar misunderstanding" — because it never got untracked. He says he's glad it's over and now he's moving on. Markham is going to do some collaborating with sci-fi writer Ray Bradbury on a movie script.

Eleanor Powell, the tap-dancing star of the '30s, was at the party. I hadn't seen her for a while. She is now gray-haired but still trim and slim with a pair of twinkling eyes. She was there because her son, Peter Ford, had been the show's dialogue director.

Dane Clark, who played Lt. Tragg, was glad the program was over, too. He said all he ever did was sit around and "once in a while they'd call me up in front of the camera and have me read somebody his rights."

Clark attributes the show's failure to a wrong conception from the start. He said the old Perry Mason show, with Raymond Burr, moved along slowly, adding pieces like a crossword puzzle, and the audience was right with Burr, or maybe a step ahead of him. But this one moved too fast.

"This kid," he said, referring to Markham, "was so fast nobody could keep up with him. He's a very cold actor, too. And, besides, he was arrogant and changed the scripts to suit himself."

On the set of "Foxy Brown," which stars Pam Grier, I was taken with a pretty girl playing a hooker. Turns out she is a Phi Beta Kappa grad of the University of Hawaii named Juanita Brown. She's using her salary from bit parts like this to pay for more education — she's working for her doctorate in the philosophy of religion at USC.

She got interested in religion as a girl in Michigan, where she was raised in a church so fundamental they even frowned on open-toed shoes.

"And now look at me," she said.

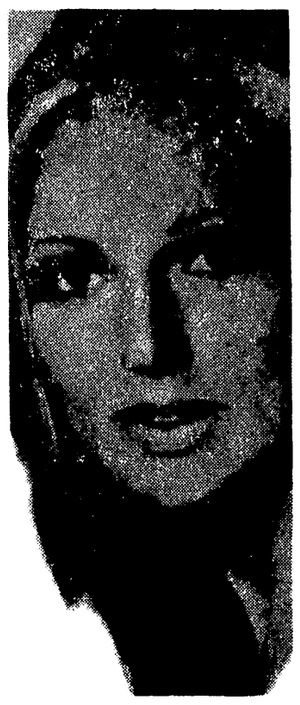

Joanna May Break Chauvinist Barrier

By Dick Kleiner

HOLLYWOOD — (NEA) — Women's Lib has made giant strides in almost everything. About the only thing we don't have now is a woman heavyweight champ.

And, oh, yes, there's one thing more. We don't have a woman starring in a TV dramatic series. But that may come. In fact, if Joanna Pettet and the powers-that-are agree, she'll be the first.

You may have seen the pilot she did for ABC called Pioneer Woman. It was very good and could become a winner, if and when the network agrees to put it on regularly.

JOANNA PETTET: She likes to work hard.

At the moment, women on regular TV series are confined, for some chauvinistic reason, to comedy shows. There isn't a drama that has a woman star. Joanna would like to be the first.

"I think more things are coming for women on TV," says the tall, beautiful blonde. "Kathleen Nolan of the Screen Actors Guild is starting a movement in that direction, too."

When you think about it she's right. Why shouldn't there be a series with a woman star? And why shouldn't there be more movies revolving around women, too? There are very few of those these days, either.

She'd like to have her own series, for reasons other than feminism. She likes to work hard.

"And I like being regimented," she says. "When I was a kid I liked going to school. I like having something I must do. That's why I'd like a series — I'd like to know that there is something I have to do every single day."

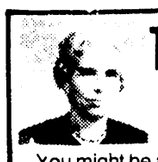

The last time I talked with Joanna Pettet it was in Paris when she was beginning her career in a film called "Night of the Generals." At that time she said she planned to make Europe her headquarters.

"I tried it for a while," she says, "but I had to go where the work was and that brought me back to the U.S. For 'Blue,' which was a bomb. But I was here and I worked more and more here."

Then she met and married Alex Cord and they have settled here. At first, she says, she didn't like it. She had "that proud New York thing," and she looked down her proud nose at anyone who wasn't a stage actor. She says she's learned that that is nonsense, that there are some fine film actors, and now she's happy here.

She and Alex bought a 40-year-old house and she's still fixing it up. It was originally owned by Eugene O'Neill.

"Maybe his ghost has rubbed off on Alex," Joanna says, "because he's written a novel in the house, under his real name, Alex Viespi. It's in the hands of a literary agent now. I think it's a beautiful book but I'm prejudiced."

Major Format Change For Station WJIL

Daylight saving time goes into effect today and with it new broadcasting hours for WJIL Radio station in Jacksonville. The station, broadcasting on an international frequency at 1550, must protect the skywave of radio station CBE located in Windsor, Canada, and the Mexico clear channel station XEJJ, Nuevo Laredo. Both are clear channel stations also broadcasting on the 1550 frequency.

The federal communications commission granted many daytime radio stations permission to sign on an hour earlier than sunrise at daylight saving time because they were broadcasting on United State channels. However, the international treaty with Canada and Mexico does not permit radio station WJIL this early sign on and therefore for the month of January WJIL will sign on the air at 8 a m and sign off the air at 6 p.m. This is in effect for the month of January only.

In February WJIL will commence broadcasting at 7:30 a.m. in March at 7 a m. in April at 6:30 a.m , continuing to sign on earlier each month until a 6 a.m. sign on is reached, and then throughout the summer months.

WJIL radio is taking this opportunity of broadcasting until 6 p.m. to arrange its programming to offer more country music to the listeners, and more news.

ABC network news will be heard on the hour, from 8 a.m to 6 p m , followed by local news, weather and sports. Major local newscasts may be heard at 8 a m., 10 a.m , noon, 2 p.m. and 4 p m. with headline local news following the network news at 9 a m , 11 a m , 3 p m., and 5 p.m.

Paul Harvey will be heard at 8:30 a.m. and 11:30 a.m. through the month of January. In February the 8:30 Paul Harvey will move back to it's original 7:30 time and remain there through October.

Rearranging some programs and reducing the length of others will allow WJIL Radio to devote more time to country music. The station is the only AM country music station in west central Illinois and the only national network station in Jacksonville.

In accordance with the program changes being made, Dave Walden will serve as host of the early morning segment until noon. On the air with Walden in the morning will be Roy Frankenhoff and Ron Gray teaming up for news, weather, sports and information.

Dick Herm and Carol Lewis will continue to report farm news in the morning hours. Roy Frankenhoff will host the noon-hour show and will be joined by Roger Ward, Farm Director at WJIL, Dick Herm. Frank Patton and Carol Lewis will join Ward with grain and livestock reports.

WJIL will continue to broadcast the weather reports from the Federal Weather Bureau in Springfield. Earlene Cox is the host for the "Ralph Emory Show" and the "Music City USA" from 1 until 3 p.m. Dave Walden will be back from 3 to 4 to host trading post and the country music show. "The Bart White Show," formerly heard in the early morning hour, will move to the afternoon "Going Home" show, from 4 until 6 p m , in January, and later in other months.

White will have Frank Gifford and ABC sports along with Roy Frankenhoff, Bill Miller and Ron Gray teaming up for afternoon news. The Bart White show will also feature guest appearances occasionally by local and national figures.

Hearing Set To Determine Ballot Places

CHICAGO (AP) A court hearing has been scheduled for Monday to decide how ballot positions should be determined for the March 19 primary.

Judge Harry Comerford of Circuit Court ordered a postponement Thursday of a lottery which had been schduled for Friday. He acted on a suit filed by Douglas Huff of Chicago, a candidate for the General Assembly.

Huff's suit against the State Elections Board contended that state law requires that the lottery method be used only to break ties between candidates who filed their nominating petitions by mail on the first day of the filing period.

Board Chiarman Michael E. Lavelle said the board, on the strength of an opinion by the state attorney general's office, had also planned to break ties between candidates who filed later in the filing period.

Except for ties, ballot positions are determined by order of filing.

Oscar Mayer Proposal

B'town Faces Decision

By VIRGIL REITHER

BEARDSTOWN — City councilmen have the word of their mayor that a decision they may be called upon to make Tuesday, with reference to a new sewage plant for Oscar Mayer & Company, may be one of the most important ever made here.

In a special meeting Wednesday, City Attorney Milton McClure, Sr., outlined provisions of a proposal by Oscar Mayer to construct without cost to Beardstown, a new million-dollar sewage disposal unit to meet the increasing demands of their huge complex here and also satisfy the state Environmental Protection Agency regulations.

When Oscar Mayer located here six and a half years ago, Beardstown's city council authorized a $500,000 revenue bond issue to construct a sewage disposal facility for the new plant.

Mayor Robert Summey and the city attorney have attended a long series of meetings with the Oscar Mayer officials regarding the new sewage disposal problems and have consistently insisted the city is financially unable to meet the company's fast increasing sewage disposal needs.

Now the company offers to foot the bill and is asking in return a 99 year lease on city property at the plant's presently inadequate lagoon type sewage disposal system, as well as repayment of the balance on a $201,000 advance in costs that exceeded the $500,000 bond issue. The amount has been cut to $142,500. This reduction was achieved at the rate of $9,000 annually, which was the rate Oscar Mayer was to have paid the city for maintenance.

Attorney McClure spent about two hours outlining the history and background negotiations which brought the plant to Beardstown. This information was new to most members of the city council — only Mayor Summey and Alderman Hacker were on the board six years ago.

Following his dissertation McClure was plied with questions regarding the financial arrangements made at the outset and the provisions of the newly proposed contract with the company.

The contract was submitted in book form and its complicated detail comprises a sizeable document which some members of the council hope to study in depth before action is taken.

Alderman Gary Ralston moved at the close of the long discussion that the matter be tabled and Alderman Dick Reller made the second. Mayor Summey indicated the contract would be taken off the table at the coming regular meeting.

"This is not a matter we can delay for months" he told the council.

McClure said the city could be considered "under the gun," especially with reference to environmental regulations.

The new disposal system will involve the use of between 400 and 1,000 acres of ground in the vicinity of the plant and the local airport. It will be a recycling process with the final operation being spraying the treated affluent over the farm acreage which will be planted to crops.

Some of this ground has already been placed under option.

Both Summey and McClure emphasized to the aldermen that the new disposal system will not cost the city a penny.

Oscar Mayer is now employing about 800 persons and an extension to the plant is nearing completion. It will be used for ham processing and it is said an additional 50 people will be employed.

The primary operation at the plant has been slaughtering thousands of hogs daily. Economic conditions in Beardstown and surrounding urban and rural areas have been substantially benefitted and Atty. McClure complimented Oscar Mayer for having been a good "corporate citizen."

Having been actively associated with the entire proceedings from the beginning in the late Fall of 1964, McClure has all the information at finger tips and gave the full run-down on how the plant was brought here rather than being located in Quincy, Jacksonville or Pittsfield. All three towns had been very seriously considered.

These quiet consultations were with high officials of the company who were impressed with the city's splendid water supply, great transportation and producing area.

Biggest financial incentive was the agreement to furnish and maintain the sewage disposal facility. After the revenue bond issue for half a million dollars was authorized it developed that additional funds were needed, and the company advanced $201,000 interest free, with the understanding the amount would be repaid in an arrangement involving the company's agreement to pay $9,000 annually for disposal plant operation. So for 6½ years $9,000 has been deducted from the advance money, cutting the figure to $142,500.

This $142,500 plus a 99-year lease on city ground at the plant is the Oscar Mayer proposed "cost" to the city for its offer to finance the $1,000,000 expansion and to assume the responsibility for future of the disposal system.

The original $500,000 bond issue is being retired, thanks to an increase in sewer rates, and will be paid off in the year 1995, or earlier if possible.

'Home port' problem in Greece

ATHENS — (LENS) — The recent military coup in Greece may cause a major disruption for the United States Navy.

Although the new Greek regime will probably support the present security arrangements with the United States, there are almost certain to be difficulties with the "home-porting" of Sixth Fleet ships in the Athens area. The Greeks are already bargaining harder over costs. And any relaxation of authoritarian rule, either by the present leaders or by some future civilian government, is sure to include a modification of the home-porting agreement.

The main striking power of NATO in the Mediterranean lies in the two American aircraft-carriers of the Sixth Fleet. There is no other combination of weapons which NATO can muster today that could neutralize Soviet strength in the area. The carriers do it admirably, but it takes two of them. One uses a large part of its air sorties in protecting itself and its escorts, and can include the second carrier under its umbrella. So the second is able to devote almost all of its power to the attack job.

The American navy introduced the idea of home-porting an aircraft-carrier and some escort ships in Greece in 1970. It meant moving the families of the ships' crews to Athens, establishing some maintenance facilities there, and basing the ships there more or less permanently.

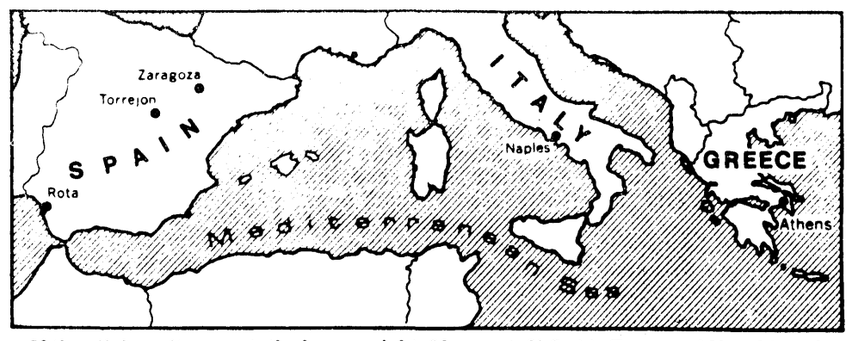

The arithmetic is simple and indisputable. Aircraft-carriers now cost about 10 times what they cost in the Second World War. The number of carriers in the American navy has been cut. It takes six on active duty to keep two in the Mediterranean if they are rotated every six months, which is the present practice. If one could be home-ported in the Mediterranean and stay there all the time, five would be enough.

Not only could the United States fulfil its NATO commitment while keeping one fewer carrier on active duty, but every carrier would have more time in its home port, with the families.

The American military presence overseas is never very charming. The fighting men come accompanied not only by wives and children but by PX facilities, special hospitals, schools and big cars: all constant reminders that they are richer — and there.

American sailors are probably as well-behaved as sailors ever are, but the sheer numbers create problems. These problems are manageable in countries with a representative, and reasonably popular, government. In Greece the troubles have become severe, even though only about a third of the planned number of people have actually arrived so far: the aircraft-carrier is not due until mid-1974, with about 4,500 souls aboard.

Meanwhile the facilities ashore for maintenance of the ships and accommodation, of the people are growing spectacularly, and several crimes of violence, including one murder, have been blamed on American servicemen.

If the oil doesn't run out, the leases might. Map spots U.S. Air Force and Naval Installations in Spain and Greece. Another major U.S. port is Naples.

Most of the opponents of the Greek regime now see the home-porting agreement as the act of a non-representative government given in return for American military and political support. There is no evidence that the American government has provided such support as the price of its basing privileges.

Yet the argument sells, and the pressure is on to reduce the American presence and to demand more money for what is being provided.

If the new Greek regime follows this line, the discontent with the whole affair felt by some members of Congress in Washington could easily cancel the arrival of the carrier, if not the entire arrangement. That would solve the Greek problem, but NATO's problem of how to deal with the Soviet navy in the Mediterranean would be made infinitely tougher.

Here's Our Plan

The cooling lake of the proposed Clinton power plant will have about 130 miles of shoreline, largely devoted to recreation uses.

The new nuclear power-generating plant that Illinois Power is planning near Clinton in central Illinois will provide the tremendous increase in our generating capacity we will need to serve our customers in 1980.

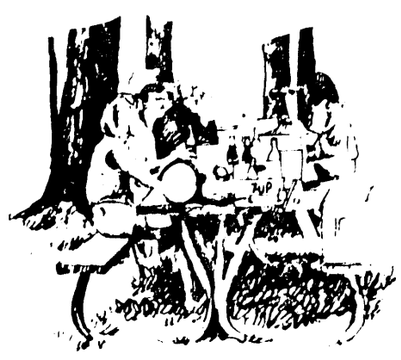

Illinois Power also plans to provide quality recreation facilities as a by-product of our responsibility to meet increasing energy demands. The Clinton site provides an exceptional opportunity to create one of the most exciting new public recreation areas in Illinois.

An extensive study by a leading firm of professional landscape architects provides a preview of the facilities which can be yours to enjoy at Clinton within a few years.

A 5,000 acre lake, needed for cooling purposes, is planned to become the center of a huge water-based recreation area. This would include a swimming beach and picnicking area, marinas for both rental boats and private lease and seven boat launching sites. Swimming, water skiing, boating, canoeing and fishing could all be enjoyed here.

The plan also includes 98 acres of full-service campgrounds, as well as many primitive campsites reached only by water or trail.

Eighteen miles of maintained trails are planned to accommodate hikers, cyclists and horseback riders.

The natural vegetation of the environment would be preserved and local landmarks restored. The area would be a protected haven for wildlife.

Similar facilities have been developed by Illinois Power for use by the public at other electric generating sites, but the 15,000 acre Clinton site would be the largest and most complete.

Patty Ann Mather

Mr. and Mrs. Larry E. Mather, 1 Sunnydale, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Patty Ann, to J. Wayne White, son of Mr. and Mrs. John J. White, 119 Havendale Drive. The couple plans a mid-summer wedding.

Both graduated from Jacksonville High School in 1972. Miss Mather is a sophomore at Illinois College, majoring in biology. Her fiance is employed at the Jim Solway Volkswagen Sales and Service, and at the Village Cycle Shop.

To Head Rainbow Assembly

Dianne Marie Steele

Installation ceremonies will be held this coming Saturday evening, Jan. 12th, at the Masonic Temple when Miss Dianne Marie Steele, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert G. Steele, will be installed Worthy Advisor of Jacksonville Assembly 19, International Order of Rainbow for Girls. This will be at 7:30 p.m. and a reception will follow.

Members of Rainbow and friends are cordially invited to attend. Mrs. Martha McNeil is Mother Advisor of Jacksonville Assembly 19.

Fireside theme at Senior Citizen party

The Christmas season party Dec. 28th for the Senior Citizens of Village Manor was highlighted with the formal presentation by the local Jaycees of a Public Address system for use in the Community Center.

The Center was appropriately decorated for the season following a "fireside" theme with an artificial fireplace, decorated tree and centerpieces on red covered tables.

Mrs. Sally Riffey led the pledge to the flag. Jaycees present for the meeting and presentation were local Chapter president John Plunk, Bart White and Craig Wood. The name of the organization was entered on the permanent plaque at the Center, recognizing groups which lend assistance to Senior Citizens. At this time the name of W. A. Leake was also added for his donation of the outdoor flagpole in front of the Center.

Buz Carr gave the treasurer's report and Mrs. Cecil Smith the report on illness and deaths. Mrs. Jean Merz reported for activities.

Entertainment at the meeting was provided by the Bobby K singers of Jacksonville. There was a gift exchange and a door prize went to Mrs. Harriet Pate.

Refreshments of sandwiches, eggnog, coffee and cake were served. Howard Merz was remembered for his December birthday. Refreshments were furnished and served by Rosene Votsmier, Mame Bridgeman, Beulah Ledferd, Mary Kent, Fay Laycock, Irene Walihan, Mabel Langdon, Catherine Mitchell, Elva Corder, Cecile Smith and Gretta Carr.

Plans were approved for an Oriental party theme for the Jan. 18th party, to be at 7 p.m. at the Center. All Village senior citizen residents and their guests are invited.

Attending the December party were Mrs. Jean Merz, Mrs. Cecil Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Henderson, Mr. and Mrs. Francis Langdon, Edna Pitts, Helen Cox.

Mary Looker, Vicenia Brady, Marie Lynn, Gladys L. Thompson, Essie Cooper, L. L. Ogden, Mame Bridgeman, Pauline Wilham, Mr. and Mrs. Winfred Carr, Mrs. Mary Kent.

Mrs. Beulah Ledferd, Daisy Osler, Harriet Pate, Esther L. Berry, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Riffey, Anna Louise Reinhardt, Irene Walihan, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Waller, Leola Ham, and the guests from the Jaycees, mentioned above.

Anita Dee Cox

VIRGINIA — Mr. and Mrs. Dean Cox of Virginia announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Anita Dee, to Fred Hoagland, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Hoagland of Ashland. A late summer wedding is planned.

Miss Cox graduated from Virginia High School in 1973. Her fiance graduated from Ashland High School in 1972. Both young people are employed at Capitol Records Company in Jacksonville.

Brenda Lee Hughes

WAVERLY — Mr. and Mrs. Stanley N. C. Hughes, 339 West Prairie street, Waverly, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Brenda Lee, to Donald A. Magelitz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin A. Magelitz, Waverly route one. The couple will be married July 10th in Waverly.

The bride-elect will graduate this May from Waverly High School. Her fiance graduated from the same school in 1970 and is self-employed in the trucking business.

Steinheimer to address DAR on National Defense

The Enemy Within will be the topic of Darrow Steinheimer, speaker for the National Defense meeting of the Reverend James Caldwell Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, to be held January 10 at the chapter-owned Governor Duncan Mansion, 4 Duncan Park, Jacksonville.

Music will be furnished by a brass quartet under the direction of James Welch. Director of Music Education, District 117, Mrs. Albert E. Powers, Regent, will preside.

LET'S GO BIRDWATCHING

By Emma Mae Leonhard

Gray and White Scene

This informal article was written on New Year's Day. It is just a brief chat which was suggested to me on New Year's morning as the birds outside in the cold-bound, white-blanketed world and I on the inside were eating breakfast together. I had first prepared the birds' breakfast of sunflower seeds, cracked corn and scratch feed, bread crumbs, and suet. I played a kind of color game in the midst of this scene. First, I caught subdued beauty in a gray and white picture. The dark-gray branches of the Sieboldi Crab and the blackish-gray branches and twigs of the Dogwood were outlined against the deep layer of pure white snow below; on the branches themselves ran fantastic designs of clinging snow as pure white as that below. At first, this was a still-life frozen picture; not even a breeze stirred the twigs to life. Then a Dark-eyed Junco (Slate-colored Junco) dropped down upon a snow bank. Soon four more Juncos joined it. The gray and white scene awakened. The Juncos, dressed in slate-gray coat and vest, flashed their snowy outer tail feathers as they flew down. These Juncos hopped from place to place as they picked up in their bone-white beaks crumbs and bits of grain; at every movement each bird opened and closed its gray and white fan tail. The Juncos' white underparts, clean-cut and sharp against the dark slate color of their throats and upper breasts, added charm to the white and gray scene.

An Innovation

Dark-eyed Juncos are recognized as ground feeders. They politely eat what other birds have "turned down." But on this cold morning one Junco suddenly decided to break such a habit. Perhaps any cold hungry bird would do the same thing. Several dark, glossy Starlings flew in and monopolized the feeding floor of snow. The Juncos uncomplainingly moved out to the edge of it as the Starlings waddled about. Soon a Starling grabbed the largest piece of bread and flew to a Dogwood branch just above the feeding birds, holding the bread in its mouth. Undoubtedly without thinking, a Junco flitted up to the same branch, perched close to the Starling, helped itself to a bite from the Starling's bread, and swallowed it quickly. The Starling looked startled and then gulped down all that was left — and this unexpected scene ended without any resentment. In the top of a nearby Hemlock Tree eight sleek, brownish Mourning Doves had been sheltering themselves. Not as a climax or even an anticlimax, showing large white spots in their long pointed tails, they flew directly to the snow table, modestly took their places, and fed politely upon the scratch feed.

A Blue and White Scene

Our gray and white picture was filling up. Suddenly the gray bird form rose up and away, leaving the snow table an unblemished white with the exception of the tiny particles of bird feed. High above this snow tablecloth stretched a blue sky mottled with white clouds. At its edge still stood the snow-laced branches of Sieboldi Crab and Dogwood. Soon in bounded one of the most beautiful of American blue birds, a blue Jay. Before my eyes glowed a flash of sky-colored wings etched with black and white, a flare of a blue and white tail crossed with black lines, and a twitch of a blue crest. What a brilliant spot of sky blue against the snow white under a blue sky ruffled by dainty clouds!

Jewels in the Picture

Soon the picture began to fill again. The Dark-eyed Juncos joined the Blue Jay; the Mourning Doves returned to the Hemlock Tree; the Starlings hugged the chimney on a neighbor's house for some extra warmth. A Downy Woodpecker, a little black and white bird with a bright red jewel on the back of its head, hunched up the suet stick hanging in the Sieboldi Crab, braced itself on its still tail feathers, and hammered on the frozen white suet. A Flicker, a woodpecker with a white patch on its brown back, a black mustache-mark, a black crescent on its breast, and a red patch on its nape, clung to a tree trunk. To complete this winter-breakfast bird scene in flew five Cardinals, two of them all red except for the black patch at the base of the red bill, and three of them yellowish brown with a touch of red and a red bill and crest. What brilliance against the snow! Here glittered the great red jewels among the gray, white, and blue bird forms against a snow-white background. Here was a flawless New Year's scene to be remembered throughout 1974.

Plan Shelter At Beardstown For Rescue Squad

BEARDSTOWN — The Rescue Squad members decided at a recent meeting they will construct a building next to the new fire station for housing their equipment. This will include boats and other items used in their extensive rescue operations.

The rescue van and ambulances will be kept in the new station.

Election of officers also was accomplished at the meeting with Andy Taylor, local letter carrier, named chief. Other officers elected include Art Zeeck as assistant chief, Don Boice second assistant, Don Walker secretary, Earl McKenzie assistant secretary, Carl Wessel treasurer, and Kermit Pilger assistant treasurer.

Improvement Study

General Design Associates, which has been retained by the city and Chamber of Commerce, to make a study of the business district and "entrance ways" into the city, has set up headquarters and begun operations.

The city council recently voted to share most of the cost for this work, with the Chamber of Commerce paying about $1,500 on the $6,000 fee.

Four architects from the firm have an office in the CIPS building on Third street. Persons wishing to discuss ideas or make suggestions are invited to call at the office.

Members of the city council working with the architects are Jack Reller and Ted Curtin, and Mayor Bob Summey; Chamber members who are with the Retail Promotion [illegible] William R. DeSollar II, and Executive Secretary J. W. Lawler.

Parking conditions, building improvements and other details will be examined in this assessment.

According to Indian legend, the coyote will be the last animal on earth. If true, it will because the coyote has adapted to changing ways of life and coped with the impositions forced by man and his other natural enemies.

Your Birthday By Stella Wilder

SUNDAY, January 6

Born today, you have a great deal of natural vitality — but not so much that you do not have to guard against becoming overfatigued. You are inclined to overdo things when it comes to your career, for you are determined to succeed and seem to know no other way to go about it than to work hard and long — often harder and longer than you should. Not one to take anything for granted, you are careful always to pay attention to detail always to consider and reconsider the whole before making a decision regarding the part.

Able to apply yourself when working conditions are confusing, you have an advantage over those who must have everything "just so" before they can guarantee acceptable results of their labor. You do not enjoy the thought that higher-ups exist and keep an eye on your progress. But you are a realist and understand that your progress or lack of it depends upon the good will of and the impression you make on your superiors. With this in mind, you seek to please — and usually do.

You are a tactful person, especially where your personal relationships are concerned. You enjoy the confidence of a great many people, more because you can be trusted to keep them to yourself than because you can or will do anything to solve the problems attendant upon them. Your talent for making others feel comfortable in your presence must not be ignored; cultivate it and you will be cultivating your own guarantee of personal success.

To find what is in store for you tomorrow, select your birthday and read the corresponding paragraph. Let your birthday star be your daily guide.

Monday, January 7

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) — Where plans continue to meet with unfriendly opposition, keep them to yourself. Time should solve the problem by making others more tolerant.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) — It is necessary to secure your finances today — without fail. There is much working against you where gains are concerned; seek professional help.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) — Though affairs of children need your attention, you might do well to see first to your own interests. To do so will be to meet all else in a better frame of mind.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) — The public may well turn its attention your way at this time. If you would protect your reputation, work on quality, not quantity.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) — Members of the opposite sex may make this a difficult day for you. Don't hesitate to ask a favor of one who has indicated his willingness to serve you.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) — An unsettled morning has relatively little bearing on the quality of the afternoon. All should go well through PM and evening hours.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) — Make whatever changes in plans are necessary to bring your goal in line with your ambitions. Take care, however, not to overestimate another's talent.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) — Tact and consideration are needed if you are to change another's opinion of you in time for him to influence higher-ups in your behalf.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) — Though superiors may seem erratic at the moment, you should ultimately come to a satisfactory meeting of minds. Seek relaxation at eve.

WHAT'S NEW? Well, the New Year, of course . . . but in our business it's also time to take a look at new trends in home decor, especially where carpeting plays an important role.

Making news is the way carpet is refusing to stay in its accustomed places and roles. Carpet is moving off the floor in surprising ways. More and more you'll find it comfortably covering furniture or seating areas that are built-in, for instance, creating low-cost and colorful "upholstery."

Carpet is traveling up the walls, too, creating a whole new dimension that's strikingly different from paint or wall paper or fabric. Or it's taking the place of tapestries or paintings as stunning wall decor, made possible by the great new designs in area rugs.

Take a glance through any of the new home interior magazines and you'll see these and other new ideas in carpets that might inspire your own plans for the New Year. Or come in and talk to our carpet specialists for more suggestions you can use.

Our resolution for the New Year is to continue to bring you the best possible service, selection and value in quality carpets you can depend on . . . and live with with pleasure. Get the right start with the right carpet or rug from

Find Defendant Guilty Friday

Judge John B. Wright found a Sherman, Illinois man guilty on a charge of failure to reduce speed to avoid an accident Friday afternoon following presentation of testimony in a bench trial, then assessed a fine of $40 and $10 costs.

Kenneth A. Piker, 27, of Sherman was ticketed following an accident south of Jacksonville on Route 67 last Oct. 18. He had pleaded innocent and asked for a bench trial.

William F. Nunes, 46, of Bluffs entered a plea of not guilty to a charge of disobeying a traffic signal and asked for a bench trial which was scheduled for Jan. 11.

Albert W. Elliott of 1017 N. Clay entered a plea of guilty to leaving the scene of a property damage accident and paid a fine of $25 and $10 costs.

Ralph E. Winder, 19, of Route 3, Mt. Sterling was found in contempt of court for failure to pay a fine of $50 and $10 costs on his plea placed in custody of the sheriff and will be released on payment of the fine and costs plus the fee for his return on the bench warrant.

Ben O. Scudder, doing business as Lum's Inc., entered a plea of guilty to having no Illinois Department of Revenue registration. The case was continued to Jan. 18 for sentencing on the offense.

Concord Ladies Aid Meets In DeGroot Home

CONCORD — The Concord Ladies Aid met Jan. 3 at the home of Mrs. Barbara DeGroot with Mrs. Karan Hamilton as assistant hostess.

The meeting opened with Mrs. Karan Hamilton leading the group in prayer. Mrs. Ruth Gerdes led the pledges.

Mrs. Barbara DeGroot gave the secretary's report and Mrs. Ruth Gerdes the treasurer's report.

The program was given by Mrs. Vashti Baise, New Hope for the Future. Mrs. Ruth Gerdes led the closing motto.

During the social hour Mrs. Dorothy Fouts conducted contests, with prizes going to Mrs. Veryel, Mrs. Brockhouse, and Mrs. Ruth Gerdes and the door prize to Mrs. Kathern Crews.

The February 7 meeting will be in the home of Mrs. Vinnie Martin.

CHURCH WOMEN UNITED President Mrs. Hanna McKleroy presents a $50 check to Project Life Director Robert Manlove to help boost the nutrition program sponsored by the Morgan County Council on Services to the Aging. The program will be launched Monday with a noon meal to be served to 20 people in Waverly at the Legion hall. The program will also start in Franklin on Tuesday and at Beecher Plaza in Jacksonville in February and at Bethel AME Church in March. By the end of March, approximately 100 persons 60 years of age or older will be participating in the program, according to Mr. Manlove.

The world Awareness Ecology club at Jonathan Turner Junior High School will be sponsoring another newspaper collection the weekend of Friday, Saturday and Sunday, Jan. 18, 19 and 20. Collection will be made in the parking lot at the school, at the northwest door of the building. Friday the drive will be from 3:30 to 5 p.m.; Saturday, 10 a.m. to 2:30 p.m.; and Sunday, the 20th, from 12 noon to 3 p.m.

The collected newspapers will be recycled by Hertzberg New Method Book Bindery, with coordination through Fritz James. The club is not accepting magazines in this drive. If possible, club members hope people will be able to have papers with front page up. Funds from the drive will be used to sponsor a lecture and seminar series for students and the public. This will bring speakers and information on the science of ecology to the area. Activities of the club the past month included a contemporary play on Thanksgiving, Past and Present.

Ex-Marine Is First Awardee Of "Feminist Extraordinaire"

NEW YORK (UPI) — An ex-Marine is the first awardee of the Feminist Extraordinaire title.

That veteran of World War II a woman, repaired engines and propellers on fighter planes.

Patricia Fogarty McQuillan, the "Feminist Extraordinaire" winner, never lost the fightin' spirit that's bone deep with Marines.

Ms. McQuillan's health these days isn't perfect. But that doesn't stop her from continuing her fight for personal human rights. Neither does it sidetrack her from continuing a bat-

Some Areas Reporting 10% Savings In Energy

By The Associated Press

Energy conservation efforts by Americans during December resulted in electricity and natural gas savings of more than 10 per cent in some areas, an Associated Press survey showed Friday.

The exact savings were difficult to measure because of variables like the weather, population growth and the Christmas and New Year's holidays.

Utility spokesmen said, however, that there were definite signs of cutbacks in consumption as a result of things like fewer Christmas lights and lower home temperatures.

The Edison Electric Institute, an association of investor-owned utilities which surveys nationwide consumption, said that Americans used 36.879 billion kilowatt hours during the week ended Dec. 22, 1973.

That was an increase of 2.7 per cent over the same week in 1972 when Americans used 35.914 billion kilowatt hours and contrasted with the four preceding weeks when 1973 consumption was lower than 1972 usage. A spokesman noted, however, that the normal growth rate would have been 7 or 8 per cent.

During the week ended Dec. 29, 1973, consumption was 31.952 billion kilowatt hours, down 1.5 per cent from the 32.440 billion kilowatt hours in the same week in 1972. This year, however, Christmas fell on a Tuesday and many businesses closed Monday, making a three-day work week, one less day than in 1972.

The Los Angeles Department of Water and Power said this week that city residents had cut their use of electricity by nearly 14 per cent since a law took effect Dec. 21 requiring conservation by both residential and commercial consumers.

The average high temperature for the first 26 days of December in the Los Angeles area was 70.7 degrees and the average low was 50.2 degrees. In the same period a year earlier, the average high was 68.8 degrees and the average low was 47.8 degrees, but department spokesmen said the weather alone could not have caused the decrease.

In the New York City area, Consolidated Edison said that during the week ended Dec. 23 its customers used 2.7 per cent less electricity, 3.5 per cent less natural gas and 4.2 per cent less steam than in the comparable week in 1972. The company said the figures were adjusted to take weather into account.

Under normal conditions, the company said, it would have expected a December growth rate of 4 per cent in electricity usage, 8 per cent in natural gas consumption and 3 per cent in steam usage.

The figures for the week ended Dec. 30, when the Christmas holiday cut into the work week, showed a drop of 7.8 per cent in electricity, 4.8 per cent in natural gas and 8.5 per cent in steam.

A spokesman for People's Gas Co., which serves nearly two million customers in the Chicago area, said: "We do think there has been some reduction in gas usage for November and December, but one of the problems is that the last two months last year (1972) were among the coldest on record. This year, they've been somewhat warmer than normal. Some of it (the reduction) is probably due to conservation measures, but how much we don't know."

IT'LL BE LEGAL MISS O'CALLAGHAN

DUBLIN (AP) — It seems that Reilly's Lane is not an elegant address. So an application was made to change the name of the lane in Baldoyle, on the outskirts of Dublin, to Seapoint Avenue.

The law requires 75 per cent approval by residents before a change can be made. In this case, however, Miss Josephine O'Callaghan is the only resident, and therefore the only person qualified to vote — and she asked for the change anyway.

Nonetheless, Dublin Corporation will have to call a plebiscite. Miss O'Callaghan will post her vote to the corporation. It will be put in a ballot box which can only be opened in the presence of the Lord Mayor, and counted.

Then a team of workmen will be sent to Baldoyle to fix the new nameplate changing Reilly's Lane to Seapoint Avenue.

Ms. Ceballos, former regional director of the National Organization for Women (NOW), said the selection of Ms. McQuillan as the first winner was made by distinguished feminists.

Included were Midge Kovacs, architect of the Advertising Council Campaign to fight discrimination against women, and Barbara Seaman, author of Free and Female.

Another on the selection committee, Myrna Lamb, a playwright, has had success with a play in which a pregnant "man" tries to get an abortion. Ms. Kovacs campaign was conceived while she was head of NOW's Image Committee. One of the ads shows a man with his pant legs rolled up. The message: "Hire him. He's got great legs."

Ms. Ceballos said the idea of the award is to recognize and encourage achieving women in their own lifetimes.

"History books devote much space to women who sew flags," she said.

"They devote almost nothing to women who fought for human rights outside the time-honored stereotype of the way women 'should'..."

Recently Ms. McQuillan called the Archdiocese of New York in response to a newspaper ad asking for inquiries from persons who might want to be a priest.

She was told the ad was for men. "But I always wanted to be a priest," she insisted. She was told to be a nun instead. She replied that nuns have second class status that wouldn't satisfy her.

Ms. McQuillan, founder and head of Catholics for a Free Choice, also has been involved in the areas of marriage and divorce reform and in the fight for the right of women to control their own bodies.

To call attention to the Catholic Church's stand on [illegible] Fifth Ave. to St. Patrick's Cathedral.

In the cortege was a wooden coffin with the "body" of a woman killed by illegal abortion.

Always an unusual person, Ms. McQuillan was one of the first women to be employed by United Aircraft Laboratory as a chemist. Then, in 1942, she joined the Marine Corps. She was an officer.

Then, went to Columbia for a B.A. in economics.

In 1966 she formed her own investment advisory service. On the basis of her own forecast she phased her business out at the peak of the economy in 1969.

Ms. McQuillan is a member of St. Joan's Alliance, a group of Catholic women that is international, distinguished and activists. She also is on NOW's Sexism in Religion Committee.

Her current campaign. She doesn't pause as the words roll off her lips: "Women in the Priesthood."

Former POW Will Run For Senate

SIOUX FALLS, S.D. (AP) — Leo K. Thorsness, declaring that his six years in a North Vietnamese prison camp will make him a better public servant, announced Friday he will run for the U.S. Senate from South Dakota.

A victory for the retired Air Force officer and Medal of Honor winner in the Republican primary next June would set up a general election contest between Thorsness, who isn't convinced America was wrong in entering the Vietnam war, and Democratic incumbent Sen. George McGovern, one of the war's most vocal critics.

"In those six years I learned a lot more about what America is all about — what she stands for, what she is," said Thorsness, 41. "My time there confirmed my belief that democracy is far superior to tyranny. [illegible] people. They're the ones who make and solve our problems."

Thorsness's bomber was shot down over North Vietnam in April 1967. When repatriated in March 1973, he criticized McGovern's antiwar activities and said the Communists used some of the senator's statements to propagandize their captives.

"This certainly isn't a vendetta against McGovern, although perhaps no matter what I say, it will be built up as that," Thorsness said. "Defeating Sen. McGovern would not be an end; it would be the start of a new career for me."

Thorsness won the Medal of Honor for heroism during a fighter raid a few days before he was shot down and imprisoned. He received the medal at a [illegible] history will prove whether the United States' involvement in the Vietnam war was right or wrong.

"My position now, as it has been and always will be, is that once the decision was made to end the war we should have gone all out to win," he said.

But, he added, "The war is over. I'm a civilian. Let's [illegible] walks with a cane, the result of back and knee injuries suffered during his capture, Thorsness described his health as excellent.

Thorsness, who has a masters degree in management, lives with his wife, Gaylee, in rural Sioux Falls. Their daughter, Dawn, 18, attends Stanford University.

Opening lead—Q♠

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Every book on play gives a table to show what card should be led from various high-card combinations. These tables are just about the same as you would have found in auction books 50 years ago, but that doesn't mean that modern experts have not been experimenting with new leads. Most of these new leads have both advantages and disadvantages and the difference is not enough to warrant changing.

Today's hand shows one exception. The book lead from the West hand is the king of spades. The modernists lead the queen. He would also lead the queen from queen-jack-ten or nine, but the confusion is not going to worry his partner. If East doesn't hold the ace or jack his play won't matter. If he holds the ace he can put it up; lead the suit back and pick up declarer's jack.

This time East holds the jack. He knows that his partner has led from king-queen-10 and drops the jack whereupon West has no problem; continues the suit; sets it up and defeats the contract.

Of course, he could get the same result with the king lead. East might play the jack any way. Or if East played the three, West might still continue spades.

If you want to use this convention make sure that your partner will understand it; also have either a six-card suit or the nine spot so your partner can afford to get rid of the jack if he has it.

This Beardstown Story Is 'All For The Birds'

BEARDSTOWN

Bread costs a lot of money these days, and commercial birdfeed is also high priced, but it seems the number of kind-hearted people feeding the birds at this time with the ground covered with snow is greater than usual.

This town, like others in central Illinois, has had some 20 inches of snow in the past few days, and natural feed for the birds is just not available.

Sales Soaring

Grocerymen say their sales of grain and other bird seed including the popular sunflower seed is soaring.

Generally in years gone by people who wanted to [illegible] grain, and the sale of this feed is a big business.

Seed Bell

One item going great in Beardstown is the Wild Bird Seed Bell, which is a seed covered cardboard structure shaped like a bell that can be suspended from tree, garage overhang or windowsill.

Most people would rather feed the beautiful Cardinals and Bluejays than [illegible] no distinction can be made when the bird feeder is filled. There's no way to restrict or integrate.

Birdseed suppliers have even got around to labeling their products and guaranteeing its analysis such as crude protein 10 percent, crude fat 5 percent, crude fiber 10 percent, etc. Ingredients include red millet, sunflower, wheat, milo, corn, syrup and destrise.

Snow the Enemy

Snow is the greatest enemy to the birds in winter when scanty natural food supplies are completely shut off.

For those who do not realize it, the red birds which are so conspicuous around the bird feeders these days, are Cardinals and are permanent residents who have a beautiful "voice" they like to use from the top of a tall tree. The beautifully plummaged blue jays are a joy to see during the winter, but they are usually quiet [illegible] feeding.

Schmidt Lifts Illini By 75-73

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Rock Schmidt, who scored 24 points, led an Illinois rally Saturday night, powering the Illini to a 75-73 Big Ten basketball opening victory over Ohio State.

The Illini, only 3-4 in preconference competition, overturned a 69-64 Ohio State lead in the last five minutes.

Schmidt scored a pair of baskets as the Illini ripped off 10 straight points for a 74-69 edge with less than a minute to go.

The Buckeyes, now 4-6 for the season, narrowed the gap to one point on two free throws by freshman Larry Bolden.

Brad Farnam hit one of two free throws with two seconds remaining to clinch the triumph.

Wardell Jackson, with 18 points, led the balanced Ohio State attack. Bill Andreas had 16 points before fouling out, Gary Repella scored 14 and Bolden 13.

Jeff Dawson pumped in 15 points for Illinois while Dave Roberts and Farnam had 13.

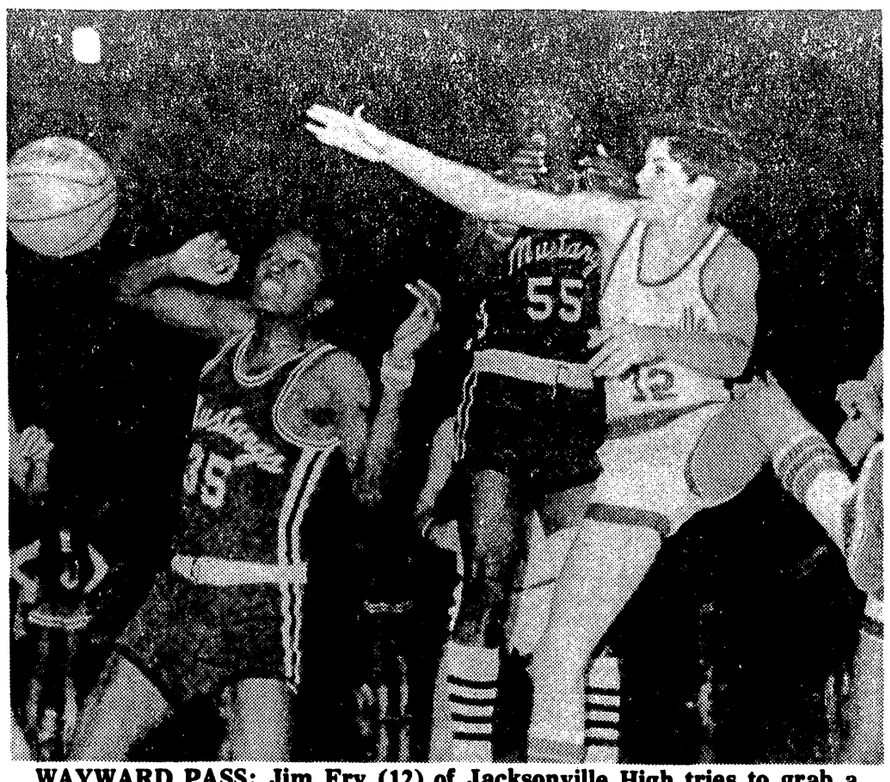

The Illini won the game at the foul line, sinking 11 of 16 free throws to 9 of 11 for the Buckeyes.

The game was a ragged one in which there were 24 lead changes and 10 ties. Neither side mustered more than a sixpoint lead.

Ohio State spurted into a 1610 lead and then Illinois forged ahead 26-22. The Buckeyes ralled for a 33-30 halftime edge.

Illinois, once it took a 71-69 lead, stalled for the last three minutes and relied on its foul shooting for the victory.

Andreas, Ohio State's 6-foot-7 center, departed with his fifth personal with 5:22 to play. The Buckeyes were ahead 69-64 at the time, but failed to score for the next five minutes while the Illini found their hot streak.

WAYWARD PASS: Jim Fry (12) of Jacksonville High tries to grab a wayward pass before it goes out of bounds as Kevin Pepper (35) and Levi Cobb (55) of Chicago Morgan Park hold back during play at the Bowl Saturday night. Morgan Park downed the Crimsons, 98-71.

Boyd, Kleinlein Pace Meredosia Over Balyki 88-72

BATH — Meredosia had two players score over 20 points as the Indians rolled to an 88-72 victory over host Balyki High in a non-conference battle Saturday night.

Scoring in double figures for Meredosia were Steve Boyd with 28, Mark Kleinlein 24 and Tim Crow 11.

Four Balyki players hit in double stats with Derf Bergman getting 16, Dale Hodgson 15, Doug Blessman 13 and Jeff Fox 12.

Meredosia is now 7-1, while Balyki falls to 2-8.

Millikin Rips Clan By 108-81

DECATUR, Ill. (AP)—Leon Gobczynski poured in 37 points Saturday night in leading Millikin to a 108-81 victory over MacMurray in college basketball.

Millikin led 41-37 at the half and then scored 10 straight points when the score was 62-60 to salt the game away. The 6foot-10 Gobczynski scored a few more points than his 34.8 season average.

MacMurray was led by Mike Lewis with 25 points.

The non-conference game left Millikin 5-2 on the season and MacMurray 1-6.

Blueboys Streak Past Rose 89-83

By BARNEY FLYNN

Coming off a long Christmas layoff, Illinois College shot a hot 57.5% from the field and racked up its highest point total of the year enroute to an 89-83 win over Rose Hulman in the Blueboys' gym Saturday night.

The blueboys,(3-4), led by as much as twelve points early in the second half but a two-man scoring show got the Engineers as close as six points down the stretch.

Moving nine players in and out of the lineup the entire game, the Blueboys put five men in double figures, led by George Ridder's 21 points.

Ridder came off the bench in both halves to spark the Blueboys with some clutch inside buckets and free throws.

Pressing most of the second half and forcing I.C. into a whopping 30 turnovers in the fast-moving game, Rose (4-7) moved to within 61)55 with ten minutes left in the game. From there Ridder came off the bench and dumped in 11 points the rest of the way, mostly on baseline layups after I.C. broke the press.

With Mike Griggs and Bill Ransbottom combining for 33 points in the second half, Rose stayed within striking distance down the stretch as the pair hit well from the outside.

Rose was within 80-74 with 2:27 left but th Blueboys broke the press and matched them bucket for bucket the rest of the way.

After the lead changed hands five times in the early going of the run-and-shoot game, Ridder came off the bench to hit nine points in a 13-point I.C. spree that put the Blueboys up 33-21 with 6:00 left in the first half. They bulged that to 16 points, the biggest lead of the game, before Rose's six points ended the half with a 41-31 margin.

Behind Ridder for the Blueboys came Dave Hobson and Dave Espenschied with 14 apiece. Mike Jeffers in his start hit 12 as did Ron Petefish.

Griggs led the losers with 25 points, followed by Ransbottom with 17 and Clayton Black with 16. They were cooler than the winners, hitting for 43% and took 20 more shots.

I.C. outrebounded the visitors 35-27, grabbing down 10 offensive and 25 defensively. Rose had 13 offensively and 14 defensively. The Engineers had 16 turnovers in the game.

Northeastern Wins By 91-90

ALLENDALE, Mich. (AP) — Bruce Fudge banked a rebound-lay up with 34 seconds left in overtime Saturday to give Northeastern Illinois a 91-90 victory over Grand Valley in college basketball play.

The loss was Grand Valley's first of the season after seven wins.

Grand Valley's Jeff Lende tipped in a missed shot with three seconds left in regulation time to tie the contest at 83-83.

In the extra period, Grand Valley took a quick lead, but Danny Crawford stole two GV passes and raced in for lay-ups to push Northeastern to a 89-85 lead.

Lende then hit twice from underneath, and Kimm Griffith, who led GV with 27 points, added a free throw to give GV a 90-89 edge before Fudge put in the clincher.

Northeastern Illinois, now 10-3, was led by Gary Stanick, with 28 points.

Quick Morgan Park Team Stops Jacks

By Buford Green
Sports Editor

Lightning-quick Chicago Morgan Park made its first downstate Illinois trip in several years a most impressive one Saturday night, blazing away with a 59-point second half that buried Jacksonville High School 98-71 at the JHS Bowl.

The host Crimsons played the Morgan Park outfit on even or better terms through the first half and was still within range with seven minutes left in the game before the roof fell in. The visiting Mustangs hit a red-hot 14 of 19 fourth quarter shots in a 37-point outburst that soon put the game on ice.

Displaying superior quickness and jumping ability, Morgan Park lived up to its billing as one of the Windy City's top Public League clubs with a running game that was particularly effective in the fast-paced second half. Chief culprits for the Mustangs were speedy 5-7 guard Mike Wilcoxen and 6-4 leaper Levi Cobb, who poured in 42 points between them.

Jacksonville, bothered by Morgan Park's full-court press and tight defense, suffered through its third straight cold-shooting night, with only center Bill Versen turning in an impressive offensive effort. Versen protected his 20.7 points per game scoring clip with a 22-point night, hitting nine of 13 attempts. Versen clicked off seven-of-seven tries in the first nine minutes of the game and had only six more field goal attempts for the game.

Jacksonville, now 3-5 for the year with three straight losses, played the visitors even up throughout the first half. After four tie scores, Versen and Bob Bettis shot the Jacks to a five-point bulge at 18-13 and a 24-21 advantage after eight minutes. Bettis and Tom Gotschall put JHS up five at 28-23 and Jim Lukeman and Versen did the same at 32-27.

Morgan Park's press again changed the momentum with three steals and Cobb and reserve Jeff Berry pulled the Mustangs back on top with the last six points of the half and a 39-37 halftime advantage for the visitors.

JHS led for the last time at 41-39 on buckets by Jay Dickman and Gotschall. From there three steals and a hot streak from the field let Morgan Park rip off the next 12 points and a 54-41 spread that was to stand. The hosts got within 53-47 but Morgan Park scored the next six, with Cobb having a ten-point stanza, and the Mustangs led 61-52 with eight left.

The Mustangs outscored JHS 20-6 in a four-minute stretch to start the fourth period and the Crimsons were unable to threaten again. Wilcoxen and Cobb, along with Skip Robinson and Berry provided most of the fireworks as the Mustangs spurted to leads of 83-60 with four minutes showing and 87-64 with 2:50 left.

Morgan Park, now 11-5 for the year, finished shooting 59% after a 48% first half, and led the rebounding totals 43-26, 14-11 offensively. The Mustangs controlled the boards by 22-8 in the second half. The Crimsons ended up shooting 35% and had 25 turnovers to 19 by the winners.

South Carolina Shocks Warriors By 60-58 Edge

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP) — South Carolina's Brian Winters hit a 20-foot jump shot with two seconds left, giving the Gamecocks a 60-58 upset victory Saturday over sixth-ranked Marquette, which was previously unbeaten.

The Warriors and the Gamecocks had battled to a 58-58 tie with 3:14 left in the game and the score remained that way until the game-winning shot by Winters, who finished with 17 points.

Marquette, 10-0 going into the game, trailed South Carolina 32-25 at the half.

Duncheon, Davis Allow 78-77 Win

PETERSBURG — Jeff Duncheon's late bucket and an even later Divernon miss boosted Porta to a slim 78-77 MSM Conference spread over Divernon Saturday evening.

Porta, now 7-5 for the year and 2-0 in league play, led 21-15 and 43-35 at the first two stops before Divernon rallied to throw the final quarter into a back-and-forth affair.

Duncheon scored with 11 seconds remaining to put Porta up and Divernon missed with time running out.

Serge Davis poured in 26 points and sophomore Duncheon 22 for the winners, who were outshot 47% to 46% but held a 43-40 rebound edge with Tracy Anderson pulling down 12 and Roger Davis 11.

Stan Becker of Divernon took game honors with 33 points.

Early Margin Puts Redbirds By Panthers

VIRGINIA — The Redbirds came on strong in the opening half to down East Pike 57-45 in a non-conference encounter Saturday night.

Virginia, now 4-3, led 16-12 at the end of the opening frame and took a 21-9 edge over East Pike in the second quarter for a 37-21 spread at the half. East Pike outshot Virginia in the remainder of the game, 24-20.

Hitting in double figures were Bill Garver with 20, Rick Cox with 16 and Steve Smith with 11. The Redbirds were outshot 35% to 38% from the field, but took a 43-32 edge on the boards, with Steve Sudbrink hauling in 15.

High point man for East Pike was Warren Summers with 15, followed by Bruce Willard with 12 and Rich Howland with ten.

BALL ST. WINS 96-88

MUNCIE, Ind. (AP) — Larry Bullington and Chris Collins combined for 54 points and Ball State broke a tie with eight straight points in the final minute Saturday night for a 96-88 college basketball victory over Northern Illinois.

The 6-foot-7 Collins, who finished with 26 points, gave the Cardinals the lead 90-88 on two free throws with a minute to play.

In between, Shaffer Suggs drove for a layup that gave Ball State, now 6-5, a four-point lead.

BLOCKED: Bill Ransbottom (35) of Rose-Hulman has Don Petefish of Illinois College blocked out as Petefish tries to drive for the basket Saturday night at the Blueboys' gym. IC downed Rose 89-83 in the non-conference encounter.

Dolphins 7-Point Pick Over Vikings

HOUSTON (AP) — Miami's marauding race horse backs make the champion Dolphins a seven-point choice over Minnesota and the ball-faking Houdini, Fran Tarkenton, next Sunday in pro football's Super Bowl VIII.

The long, pressure-packed season of the National Football League comes to a climax in the 71,882-seat Rice Stadium with a matchup of potent but contrasting offenses—ground artillery against the air attack.

The American Conference Dolphins, shooting for an unprecedented third straight Super Bowl triumph, are largely a running team featuring the berserk antics of Mercury Morris and the crushing power of Larry Csonka and Jim Kiick.

The National Conference Vikings, on the other hand, depend on a seasoned, hickory-tough defense colorfully labelled "The Purple People Eaters" and the unpredictable proclivities of the 33-year-old Tarkenton, a scrambling quarterback who will put the ball into the air at the drop of a padded helmet.

The game has a 3:30 p.m. EDT kickoff. It will be carried into millions of homes by the CBS television network, charging up to $200,000 a minute for commercial time.

It's one of the year's great spectaculars.

The rival teams, who qualified with similar 27-10 conference victories a week ago, were scheduled to arrive a week in advance for preparations for the title game—their first official meeting this season.

The Vikings beat the Dolphins 20-17 in an exhibition game last Aug. 31 but bowed to the Miami team 16-14 in a regular season game in 1972 when the Dolphins had a perfect 14-0 season.

The eighth Super Bowl could be a "holy war" for the Vikings, still smarting under their 23-7 rout at the hands of Kansas City in the 1970 Super Bowl when Minnesota was a 14-point favorite.

Bud Grant, the old gray fox of the Vikings, gave his veteran team a week's rest after the conference title victory over Dallas, allowing his aging stars to rest their bones and restock their emotional reservoirs.

It is Grant's hope that such defensive behemoths as Carl Eller, Alan Page, Gary Larsen and Jim Marshall, will be fired up and straining at the bit by the time they have to set up a barrier for the churning legs of Morris, Csonka and Kiick.

They represent an awesome front four, averaging 32 years in age, 6 feet, 5 inches in height and close to 250 pounds in weight. They held their rivals to an average of 4.4 yards a try on the ground.

The Vikings have been equally effective in pass defense, allowing only six touchdowns through the air all year and intercepting four of Roger Staubach's throws last week.

The Vikings, however, will not have as much to fear from the Dolphins through the air as on the ground, although quarterback Bob Griese is a slick sharpshooter and has one of the game's great targets in Paul Warfield.

Griese had to throw only six passes in beating Oakland a week ago, leaving it to his fleet, hard-running backfield mates to gain most of the yardage and dominate the clock.

The Dolphins ran up 266 yards on the ground—symbolic of most of the games they've played in their past two championship seasons — and only 26 in the air. Csonka, a paid-up member of the 1,000-yard club, personally accounted for 117. He runs like an enraged bull.

In the National Conference game, Tarkenton, who gradually is erasing the old charge that "Fran can't win the big ones," was arrogantly cool as he unloaded passes in his own territory on first down and went for the bomb any time the notion struck him.

He hit on 10 of 21 passes, not his best average, for 133 yards. A scrambling dervish who can break out of the pocket for sizeable yardage, he found favorite targets in the rangy wide receiver, John Gilliam, and running back Chuck Foreman.

Foreman, a 6-foot-2, 216-pound ball-carrier out of Miami, has given the Minnesota attack a new dimension. He has carved out 801 yards, double that of the Vikings' second-best ground-gainer, 220-pound Oscar Reed. He can be explosive.

The Vikings report they should be 100 per cent healthy with the return to action of Jim Marshall, who had a back problem, and guard Milt Sunde.

Miami's running back Charles Leigh underwent an operation for a shoulder separation and is lost for the game. There are a few breaks and bruises elsewhere, but they are not likely to dictate the course of the game.

Bob Kuechenberg, the big Dolphin guard, plays with a broken arm in a cast. Tight end Jim Mandich is declared ready despite a broken hand. Jake Scott and Manny Fernandez, defensive heroes of Miami's 147 triumph over Washington last year, are reported ready to play after minor injuries.

Ashland Posts 66-61 Cage Edge

ASHLAND — The Panthers of Ashland High School captured a snow-delayed victory over New Berlin with a 66-61 Sangamo Conference decision Saturday night.

Ashland placed four men in double figures. Greg Blakeman was the leading scorer for the Panthers, now 4-8, with 19 points. He was followed by Doug Durako with 15, John Spradlin with 11 and Bill Morin with 11.

New Berlin, now 0-9, was led by Jim Burger with 16 and Jerry Knepler with 15.

Ashland hit on 58% of their field goal attempts while committing 32 turnovers and grabbed off 41 rebounds, as compared to the Pretzels' 37% and 28 rebounds.

SOUTHERN TOPS ISU, 82-80

NORMAL, Ill. (AP)—Southern Illinois, led by Dave Shidler and Joe Meriweather, topped Illinois State 82-80 Saturday night in an overtime basketball game.

Shidler scored a basket to tie the game at 75-all and send it into overtime and Meriweather hit two baskets in overtime to help lift the Salukis to their seventh victory in eight games.

Hoosiers Fall 73-71 To Michigan

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Joe Johnson and Waynom Britt led a second-half surge, sparking unranked Michigan to a 73-71 victory over eighth-ranked Indiana in a Big Ten Conference basketball game Saturday.

The Wolverines, now 9-2, trailed 41-26 at halftime against the favored Hoosiers.

But Michigan charged back, scoring the first eight points of the second half, then narrowing the gap until a layup by Johnson put the Wolverines ahead 59-58 with 7:30 remaining.

The lead see-sawed until the end, with Johnson's two free throws with 46 seconds left giving Michigan a 73-69 lead. John Laskowski's basket with 20 seconds remaining left Indiana two points short.

The Hoosiers are now 7-3.

Johnson scored 16 points, 12 in the second half, while Britt tallied all of his 12 points after intermission.

Hawkeyes Net 66-55 Big 10 Win Via Gophers

IOWA CITY, Iowa (AP) — Freshman John Hairston scored a career-high 20 points to lead Iowa to a 66-55 victory Saturday over Minnesota in their Big Ten basketball opener.

Hairston, a 6-1 guard from Columbus, Ohio, connected on seven of nine shots from the field and added six free throws in eight attempts as the Hawkeyes improved their season record to 4-6.

Iowa took a 33-30 halftime lead as Hairston and backcourt mate Candy LaPrince scored nine and eight points respectively.

The Hawkeyes expanded their lead to 51-40 midway in the second half and maintained a ten-point lead throughout the contest.

Dennis Shaffer and Phil Filer, Minnesota's two leading scorers going into the game, were held to just ten ponts between them.

The Gophers, now 6-4, were led by guard Rick McCutcheon's 22 points.

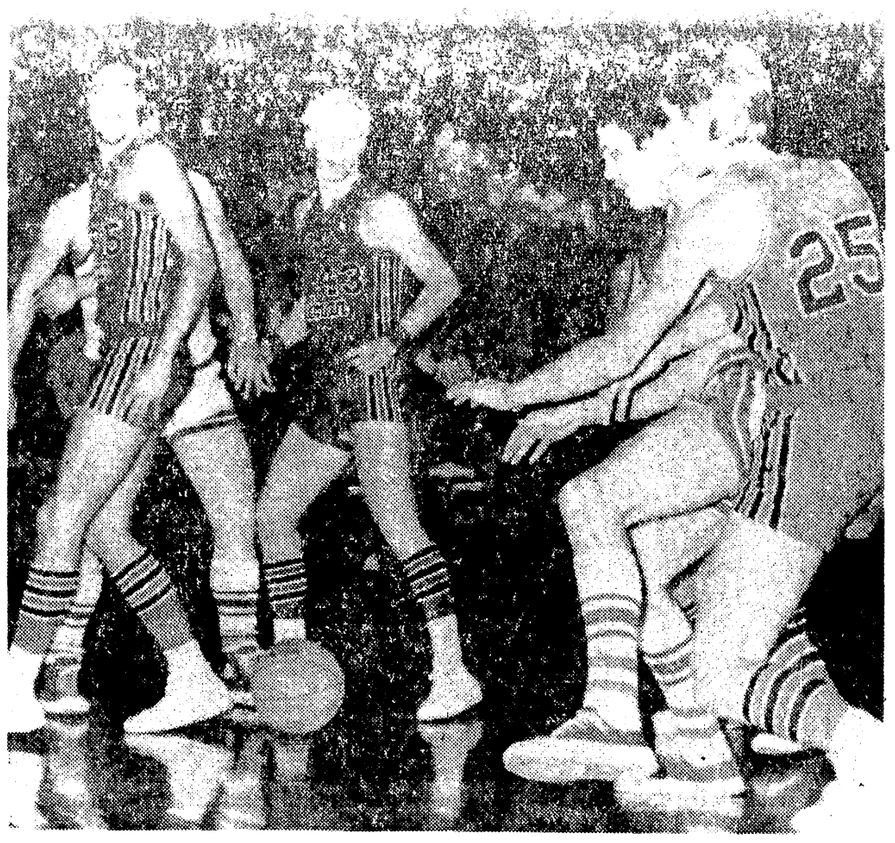

Candy LaPrince added 14 points, and Nate Washington chipped in with 13 points and 13 rebounds for Iowa.

Cardinal Games To Start Early

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The St. Louis Cardinals, in an effort to aid in the conservation of energy during the nationwide fuel crisis, announced Saturday that nearly all of their 1974 night home games will start earlier than in the past.

General Manager Bing Devine said all but six Saturday night home games will begin at 6 o'clock instead of 7, adding that the remaining six will start at 7:15 because they may possibly be broadcast nationally.

All week-night games will start at 7:30 instead of 8 o'clock.

GETS AWAY: The ball gets away and falls into a host of Rose-Hulman players during play at the Illinois College gym Saturday night. In on the play for the Blueboys is Dave Espenschied, second from right, while Rose players Bill Ransbottom (35), Doug Weber (43) and Steve Van Dyck (25) look on. IC won the non-conference game, 89-83.

Miller Shares Crosby Lead

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (AP) — U.S. Open champion Johnny Miller battled wind, rain, hail and cold for a 70 and moved into a share of the second-round lead in the weatherplagued Bing Crosby National Pro-Am Golf Tournament Saturday.

Miller had a two-round total of 138, four under par, and was tied with rookie Gary McCord for the top spot as the famed "Crosby weather" once again forced delays, stranded some players on the course and threatened further disruptions to the already ragged tournament schedule.

McCord, a thoroughly chilled 25-year-old who has played in only one previous tour event, slipped from an opening 65 to a 73 that took almost 7½ hours to complete.

Hail storms caused suspensions of play ranging from a few minutes at Pebble Beach to more than an hour at Cypress Point. At times, the ground was covered with the white pellets and left the three courses on the Monterey Peninsula looking as if a blizzard had hit.

About two dozen pros, each with an amateur partner, were stranded by darkness and will complete their rounds early Sunday morning prior to the start of the third round.

Thursday's first round was washed out by a day-long rain, setting the tournament schedule back one full day. It's now scheduled to end Monday.

But the weather could change that. The forecast called for rains all day Sunday.

"If we get rain all day, were dead," said Jack Tuthill, tournament director for the Tournament Players Division of the PGA and the man in charge of this event.

"The courses are soaked now. They can't take any more water there just isn't any place for it to go."

"Virtually unplayable," said Jack Nicklaus, who has won the last two Crosby events and who was the pre-tournament pick to win this event that offers $215,000 in total prizes.

Nicklaus had a 73 and was well back in the field at 147.

Lanny Wadkins, a two-time winner last season and one of the outstanding players on the tour, had a 73 and was tied with Grier Jones at 140, two strokes off the pace.

Jones had a 69.

Hale Irwin, with a 71, was at 141 and the group at 142 included Barney Thompson, Dave Glenz, Gary Saunders and John Jacobs. Jacobs had the best round of the day a 68 at Spyglass Hill.

Gary Player had a 72-143, Bruce Crampton 72—145, Tom Weiskopf 73—146 and rookie Ben Cranshaw 75—148.

Bridgewater Has 30 In 70-58 Win

WOOD RIVER — Mike Bridgewater fired in 30 points to lead Jerseyville to a 70-58 Mississippi Valley Conference victory over Wood River Saturday evening.

Jerseyville, now 8-3 for the year and 4-2 in the conference standings, led by nine after eight minutes and broke it wide open in the fourth period.

Backing Bridgewater, who added 18 rebounds, were Don Elliott with 18 points and Greg Burton with 16.

COACH RETURNS

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Frank Kush, head football coach at Arizona State University, said Saturday that he would return as the school's coach next season.

During his 16 years as head coach at Arizona State, his teams have compiled a 131-34-1 record.

Auto Racing Ready

To Let Chips Fall

NEW YORK (AP) — The auto racing industry, feeling a bit more chipper about the energy shortage, plans to open its 1974 season on schedule—for better or for worse.

Along with representatives of other sports and leisure-time activities, motorsports people met in Washington last week with government energy conservation leaders and—like the other representatives—pledged to cooperate in reducing consumption.

"We will do our part," said Bill France, a stock car racing pioneer and chairman of the National Motorsports Committee. "We pledged to reduce our at-track consumption by at least 25 per cent. We will do that, and as much more as we can reasonably do."

Across the country, more than 1,000 local and area tracks reportedly were gearing up to operate as usual.

"We just can't close our doors," said Richard Howard, president and general manager of the Charlotte Motor Speedway. "The motorsports industry has millions of dollars of stockholder money invested in tracts and racing equipment. We've got to operate them, there's no doubt about it."

Because gasoline is expected to be in short supply, especially for weekend driving, most experts see a decline in track attendance this year. An estimated 40 million fans passed through track gates in 1973, making it second only to horse acing as a spectator sport.

All major auto racing sanctioning bodies, including those in hot rodding and drag racing, have announced full schedules for the coming season.

The first major race of 1974 will be Jan. 20 at Riverside, Calif., 60 miles from Los Angeles and in the heart of one of the areas hardest hit by the gas shortage.

The event is the Western Winston 500 for Grand National stock cars of the National Association for Stock Car Auto Racing.

Les Richter, the former allpro linebacker for the Los Angeles Rams who heads the Riverside track, said practice and qualifying periods have been reduced at least 25 per cent because of the fuel crisis. He said advance ticket sales have been good for the $106,330 opener.

There are 28 other major races on the NASCAR schedule, four of them at Daytona Beach, Fla., leading up to the $236,325 Daytona 500 Feb. 17, richest event on the stock car circuit.

The Sports Car Club of America and the United States Auto Club also plan to run their professional series this year as usual.

Early Spread Boosts Bradley Over No. Texas

DENTON, Tex. (AP) — Bradley jumped to an early lead Saturday and beat North Texas State University 95-71 in a Missouri Valley Conference basketball game.

Bradley never trailed and hit 50 per cent from the field in the first half to North Texas' 30 per cent.

Four Braves scored in double figures, led by Seymour Reed with 22. Mark Dohner had 19, and Mike Harrel and Doug Shank each scored 12.

Bradley also controlled the boards with 50 rebounds to the Eagles' 34.

Leading scorer for North Texas was Bobby Iverson with 25 points, followed by Stan Blackmon with 18.

Bradley is 6-4 for the season and 1-1 in the conference and North Texas is 3-4 and 0-1.

Hughes Twins Guide Badgers By Wildcats

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Twins Kim and Kerry Hughes combined for 41 points and helped Wisconsin dominate the boards Saturday, leading the Badgers to an 87-53 victory over Northwestern in a Big Ten basketball opener.

Kerry hit 21 points and Kim 20 as the once-beaten Badgers rolled past the outmanned and smaller Wildcats.

The 6-foot-11 brothers each scored during the first minute of play as the Badgers jumped to a 4-0 lead. Midway through the first half, they reeled off 10 straight points, and Wisconsin held a commanding 47-28 halftime advantage.

Northwestern Coach Tex Winter's attempt to speed up the tempo of the contest was frustrated by the deliberate ball control tactics of the taller Badgers.

The victory was the eighth for the Badgers, whose only loss was to sixth-ranked Marquette, 49-48, in the finals of the Milwaukee Classic last weekend.

Bryan Ashbaugh had 14 for the Wildcats, now 5-5. Willie Williams, who had been averaging almost 17 points a game, was held to nine by Wisconsin's rugged sophomore, Dale Koehler.

Wisconsin's press bothered Northwestern and contributed to numerous Wildcat turnovers, 15 of them in the first half.

"They took the ball away from us in the back court, and that should never happen," Winter said, shaking his head.

"This was not the Northwestern team we saw today," he added. "I believe we were scared. Scared of their size."

But the Northwestern coach said he was impressed with Wisconsin.

"They're a very imposing ball team," he said. "I think they'll hold their own against anybody in the Big Ten. But why shouldn't they? They're one of the biggest teams in the nation, and they've got experience."

Wisconsin Coach John Powless indicated he was surprised at the Badgers' performance following a sluggish week of practice.

"Our redshirts just kicked the heck out of us all week," Powless said. "But we wanted to play hard and we did. We were aggressive, and boarded extremely well."

Powless said Kerry Hughes' ability to hit the long one-handers early in the contest enabled the Badgers to effectively work the ball to the inside later.

Central Michigan Whips Western, Sets Marks

MOUNT PLEASANT, Mich. (AP) — Central Michigan got a 26 point performance from James McElroy and set two school records Saturday in defeating Western Illinois 102-82 in non-conference college basketball action.

The Chippewas sank a record 48 field goals in 76 attempts for a record 63 per cent from the field and topped the 100 point mark for the third time this season in raising their record to 6-5.

Western Illinois, in slipping to 6-3 for the season, fell behind 48-31 in the first half and could never get closer than 12 points in the final half.

McElroy, a junior guard from Detroit, sank 12 of 16 field goal attempts. Junior Dan Roundfield chipped in with 24 points and led all performers with 14 rebounds, five assists, and two blocked shots.

Central's junior forward Jim Helmink had 18 points and freshman guard Leonard Drake added 16 for the Chippewas.

The losing Leathernecks were led by sophomore guard Tommie Fowlkes with 18 points and junior guard Bobby Dye with 16 points. Dye is a former Muskegon Catholic Central High school star.

Central Assistant Coach Walt Schneider complement the Chippewas on offense. "Also I think our fine defense took the heart out of them in the first half. If we can keep playing that kind of defense we'll stay with our opponent in the Mid-American Conference." Schneider said.

The victory was Central's final tune up before it begins Mid-America Conference play next Saturday afternoon by entertaining Kent State University.

Judge Overrules

IHSA Suspension

ROCK ISLAND, Ill. (AP) — A Circuit Court judge temporarily overruled Friday an Illinois High School Association order barring Rock Island High School from further interscholastic competition.

Judge Conway Spanton issued a temporary injunction against the suspension of the high school from IHSA membership.

The suspension effectively barred the school from competing with other schools in everything from basketball to debate.

The IHSA said Friday it had suspended the school because it recruited two basketball players in violation of association bylaws. The violation allegedly occurred while the school was on probation for still another violation, the IHSA said.

Judge Spanton said the IHSA ruling needlessly penalizes persons who weren't involved in the alleged recruiting violation. The injunction was issued pending IHSA reconsideration of its decision.

At a press conference Friday Harold Voyles, school principal, said the school agreed with the IHSA's findings of a violation in the case.

Voyles said that as a result the school had relieved varsity basketball coach Jim Gleboff and sophomore coach Wayne Jessel of their coaching duties. The two will be retained as teachers.

But Voyles said the school felt the IHSA penalty was too harsh.

"It seems grossly unfair, unjust and willful and capricious of the IHSA board to punish not only innocent basketball players but also student participants in every other activity for a quarter of their school lives," said Voyles.

The IHSA said the suspension would not be for more than one year. The association also said it would reconsider the suspensions if "satisfactory disciplinary measures" were taken against those involved in the recruitment.

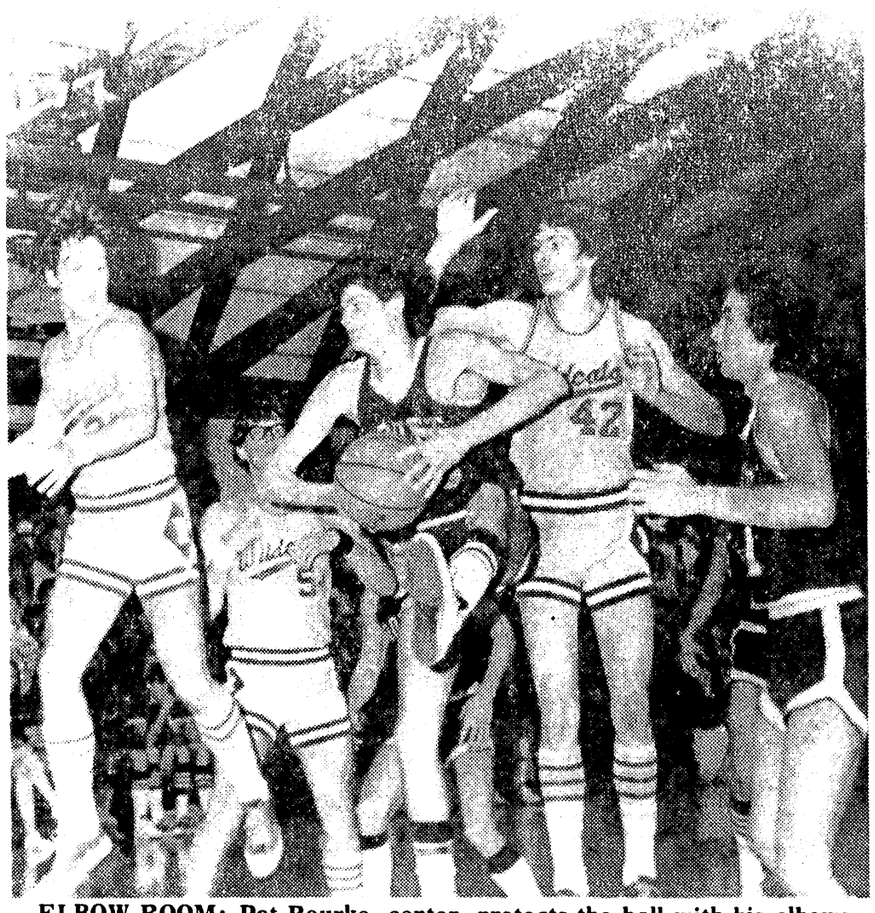

The school has been on probation since last February for competing in a music festival in Cedar Rapids, Iowa, which was not sanctioned by the IHSA, an association spokesman said.

The spokesman said the suspension was invoked after an investigation indicated a Rock Island coach had enrolled two pupils from other schools this fall.

The two were Danny Jones, from Lockport Central High School, and Frank Watkins, from a Milwaukee school, he said. The two boys participated in practice but dropped out of school before the basketball season began.

The injunction meant that Friday night's basketball game between Rock Island and Moline High Schools was to be played as scheduled.

Judge Spanton scheduled a hearing for Jan. 21 on whether the injunction should be made permanent.

ELBOW ROOM: Pat Rourke, center, protects the ball with his elbows as he comes down with a rebound in the Rockets game with Winchester Friday night on the Wildcats court. Surrounding Rourke on the play are Brian McKinney, left, Gordon McKinney (54) and Rodney Little (42). Routt won the game 54-45.

New AL Head Favors Limited Inter-Play

BOSTON (AP) — Lee MacPhail, the American League's fifth president in 74 years, said Friday he favors "limited interleague play," but he thinks realignment of the major leagues is nowhere in sight.

"I've always been in favor of interleague play, but on a limited scale," MacPhail said during an informal luncheon Friday.

At 56, he has been around baseball for many years, the last eight as general manager of the New York Yankees. He formally became league president Jan. 1, succeeding Joe Cronin.

"I wouldn't be for interleague play on a wholesale basis, but I think it would be good for baseball on a limited scale," he said. "By limited I mean games between such teams as Oakland and San Francisco, the Yankees and the Mets and other similar rivalries."

MacPhail said he will operate in Cronin's Boston office for the next few months, then move to New York.

He said he hopes to speed games by "eliminating dead spots" and noted that one new rule bars a batter from leaving the box once he steps in for such things as dusting his hands with the resin bag.

Frankie Frisch of the St. Louis Cardinals and Lefty Grove of the Philadelphia Athletics were the first players to be selected Most Valuable in their respective leagues when the voting began in 1931.

Rockets' Defense Tops Wildcats

By Buford Green
Sports Editor

WINCHESTER — Routt High School held Winchester to only five field goals in the second half and notched a defensively-impressive 54-45 non-conference victory Friday night in a battle between two of the area's top Class 'A' schools.

With leading scorer Dirk Keller the offensive standout of the game, the entire Routt defense sparkled, particularly in the second half when the Rockets broke open a tight contest with a late splurge.

Climbing to 6-4 for the season and handing Winchester only its second loss in ten outings this year, Routt changed from an opening zone defense to a tight man-to-man late in the second half and got good mileage from it throughout the final 16 minutes. The host Wildcats hit only five of 21 second half attempts and managed only 31% shooting for the night. Routt hit only a mediocre 40% from the court but overshadowed any shooting ills with the effective defense.

Keller stashed away 24 points in the low-scoring affair, netting 18 in the second half and 14 in the fourth period when the Rockets broke it open, holding a 12-point margin with a little over a minute showing.

The deliberate, defense-dominated first half saw the score tied no less than nine times, the lead change hands on three occasions and four points the most separating the two evenly-matched squads.

Tied 14-14 after eight minutes, both clubs fell cold in the second frame, Routt hitting only four of 12 and Winchester three of 11. Winchester coughed up the ball ten times in the half to five by Routt, none in the first period, and the Wildcats led the boards 16-12.

Jim Bernardini and Keller shot Routt into a 30-25 lead in the slow-paced third frame, with starters Rodney Little of Winchester and John Vahle of Routt sidelined with foul woes. The Wildcats hit only one of nine shots in the quarter and trailed 32-29 entering the final quarter.

Keller hit four quick points to jump the advantage to 36-29 before the Winchester press provided a layup and Gordon McKinney had a three-point play as the Wildcats tied it with 5:10 left.

From there Routt controlled the action. Pat Rourke hit two free ones and Keller scored twice through the press on Bernardini assists. After Mike Hainsfurther broke the string, Keller scored again to match Gordon McKinney's bucket for a 42-40 difference with three minutes showing.

The Rockets ripped off the next ten points and the outcome was settled. Vahle hit a baseliner, Bernardini a layup after a steal and Keller two short jumpers and a pair of free throws for a 52-40 spread with 1:25 left.

Routt came back in the second half to hold a final 33-30 rebound advantage, 13-10 offensively, and had only 13 turnovers to 22 by Winchester.

Following Keller's 24-point effort, Routt had Vahle and Bernardini with ten each. Williams had 14, 11 in the first half; and the McKinney brothers 12 apiece for the losers.

Bunch, Spartans Top Hawks 86-69

WHITE HALL — Bud Bunch poured in 28 points to pace host North Greene to an 86-69 Illinois Valley Conference victory Friday night.

North Greene, now 5-5 overall and 1-2 in the IVC, jumped to a huge 31-10 lead at the first stop and held a 51-27 spread at the end of the opening half. Carrollton outshot the Spartans 22-16 and 20-19 in the final two quarters.

Bunch hit 13 field goals and two free throws for his high total. He was followed in the winning list by three other Spartans in double figures with Kevin Blake getting 14, Ken Holmes 14 and Bob Kirk 12.

Kevin Roundcount had 17 and Steve Graner 14 for Carrollton in the defeat.

North Greene completed 39 of 77 tries for 50 per cent from the field, compared to 33 per cent for the Hawks, who hit on 29 of 85 shots. The Spartans were charged with 23 turnovers in the game, while Carrollton was marked for 20. The Hawks outrebounded the Spartans 55-42.

VIT Nets 84-83 Win Over Balyki

TABLE GROVE — Host VIT survived a late Balyki surge that sent the game into overtime and posted a wild 84-83 extra period victory Friday evening.

VIT got 33 points from Gray, most of them from outside, and had two players with 15 points.

Balyki, playing without leading scorer Trevor Moore, out for an indefinite period with the mumps, got 20 points from Ron Toncray and 19 from Dale Hodgson, two of five players in double figures.

The losing Thunderbirds now stand 2-8 for the season.

Yankees Struggle

By Second Place

By MILTON RICHMAN

UPI Sports Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) — Del Wilber figures he holds the world record for quick turnovers.

One day was all that he served as a major league manager.

It happened this past September when he was named manager of the Texas Rangers after Whitey Herzog was fired. Del Wilber managed the club only one day before he was succeeded by Billy Martin.

The reason all this rushes to mind right now is because the New York Yankees have quit wringing their hands, given up the idea, ostensibly anyway, that Dick Williams will manage their club this year, and settled on quiet, gentlemanly Bill Virdon instead.

There is the feeling in some quarters Bill Virdon won't manage the Yankees too long, particularly since he was given only a one-year contract compared with the three-year one Williams received. But if this possibility bothers others, it certainly doesn't seem to disturb Bill Virdon.

That Doesn't Bother Him

He knows he's the Yankees' second choice, and that doesn't bother him either. He knows the Yankees haven't really closed the door entirely on the possibility of signing Williams in the future, and insists this doesn't upset him at all.

"Well, what does this mean?" someone asked him at Thursday's hastily called news conference.

"It means," he said, without being smug about it, "I'm the manager of the New York Yankees."

Then came another question, actually pertaining to the same general subject.

"Do you feel you're the interim manager?"

"Not at all," said Virdon.

What if he should turn out to be?

So what? He was interim manager at Pittsburgh, taking over for Danny Murtaugh in 1972 and then being replaced by him late last season. In a sense everyone is an interim manager of sorts.

What Makes It Intriguing

What makes it so intriguing in this particular case is the extreme difficulties the Yankees encountered trying to get Williams before they finally named Virdon.

George Steinbrenner, the principal owner of the Yankees, made it quite clear Williams conceivably could manage the club at some future date.

They asked him whether Virdon had been given any understandings, presumably on how safe his job is.

"No understandings," said Steinbrenner. "By that I mean no understandings per se except that all our options are open."

"He was given no reassurances about Dick Williams?"

"None," said Steinbrenner.

"What if Williams becomes available tomorrow?"

"I can't say," replied the Yankees' owner. "It's a hypothetical question."

Looking the whole thing over, the Yankees would seem to have extricated themselves from the tight spot they were in rather nicely.

They Were Ready

They were ready to give Charlie Finley players and cash in return for permission to sign Williams, and when he wouldn't go for the players they offered, he could've gotten at least $100,000 from the Yanks in cash.

He wouldn't go for that. When the Yanks did sign Williams three weeks ago, they gave him $90,000 a year for three years.

Bill Virdon will get closer to $50,000, so there's a saving right there.

More than that, the Yankees keep their players, and they still have a chance to land Williams at some future date. So they did all right.

Charlie Finley got himself tons of publicity and didn't get hurt too much either except he doesn't have a manager now. Charlie will take the publicity every time. Managers aren't that hard to get.

The only one really left out in the cold, for the time being anyway, is Dick Williams.

He won't be long though.

He'll have a job in due course, and if it turns out to be with the Yankees, Bill Virdon won't break down and cry about it either.

After all, until only a few days ago, he was all set to manage Denver of the American Association for $25,000.

NFL Players Urge Government To Study Turf

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Football League Players Association made another bid Friday to have the government's Consumer Products Safety Commission hold hearings on the hazards of artificial turf.

No decision was made immediately by the five-member commission

Chairman Richard O. Simpson said the panel wanted to receive information relating to injuries from the NFL club owners, in addition to other data, before making a decision.

Simpson indicated, however, that the commission was not given any new information by the Players Association to justify the panel changing an earlier decision on the holding of a public hearing on artificial turf.

The commission previously turned down the players' request for an outright ban on artificial turf, but said it would set in motion the machinery to set up standards for both professional and amateur playing fields as well as football equipment.

Tigers Down Plains, 33-30 In Dual Meet

GREENFIELD — The Tigers racked up six weight class wins, four by pins, to pull to a 33-30 victory over Pleasant Plains in a dual wrestling meet Friday night.

Ray Hodgerson, who holds a 6-0 season mark with all wins coming by pin, flattened his opponent in 4:49 of their 98 pound match, with Ray Meneley winning by pin in 1:26. Larry Bradshaw won at 119 pounds with a 16-12 decision, while Tim Dixon at 132 won in 4:24, Ron Hudson pinned a 4:42 at 138 pounds and Scott Hubbard won by forfeit at heavyweight.

Greenfield, now 4-2 in dual meets, will face Porta at home Thursday.

ABC To Air Cosell Story a la Howard

By Karol Stonger

NEW YORK (AP) — The American Broadcasting Company, the network Howard Cosell made famous, will televise "Howard Cosell At Large: What's He Really Like?" Sunday at 2:30 p.m. EDT.

Too bad we never find out what he's really like.

We hear him describe himself as he has done so many times before: pompous, obnoxious, vain, cruel, verbose.

We hear him say, as he's said many times in the past, that it was Monday night football, in three hours of prime time, that vaulted him into prominence.

We see him rapping with kids on college campuses, gyrating at ringside of a championship fight, bantering at poolside with sports celebrities and chewing out technicians in the ABC broadcast booth.

We hear him say, as he's said many times in the past, that sports writers lack literacy and culture, are gutless and are guilty of sanctifying saints instead of telling it like it is.

Somehow, it has the immediacy, the same impact, of a rerun of last week's game.

ABC tries to tell who Howard Cosell really is by taking us into his home at Pound Ridge, N.Y. There, one daughter Hillary, describes him as "loving, emotional, overprotective." There, he romps with his only grandchild, young son of Jill Cosell Cohane. There, his wife of 28½ years, Emmy, describes him as having courage, guts "but always at heart he's a little Jewish boy who's not sure of himself...a baby on the road who will complain about the bed being uncomfortable."

But it is former world heavyweight champion Muhammad Ali who best sums him up. The two are riding through New York in Ali's limousine, and Ali, says:

"Enjoy it because you're not going to be on top too long."

PGA Announces Must Tourneys For All Pros

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Leading professional golfers, who have been free to choose where they play, were ordered Friday to compete in three specific tournaments this year.

The designated tournaments are the Colonial Open, May 16-19 at Fort Worth, Tex.; the Kemper Open, May 30-June 2 at Charlotte, N.C., and the World Open, Sept. 12-15, at Pinehurst, N.C

The announcement was made by Joe Dey, PGA commissioner.

The Colonial, for many years an invitational event and the Kemper have increased their purses to $250,000 each and the World Open offers $300,000 in total prizes. All will be televised nationally.

The three tournaments, called designated tournaments, are the forerunners of a contemplated 10-event slate in which the game's leading players will be required to compete.

The players who must play in those tournaments are: U.S. Open, PGA and Masters champions from the last five years, the leading money winners from the last five years, the 1973 British Open champion, the 1973 Ryder Cup team members and the top 30 money winners from 1973.

Viking Veteran

Feels New Spirit

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (AP) — Grady Alderman, ranking veteran of the Minnesota Vikings, senses a deeper feeling of intensity in himself and his teammates in preparation for Super Bowl VIII than before the 1970 game against Kansas City.

Alderman, the last of the Vikings selected in the 1961 expansion draft, will be completing his 14th National Football League season Jan. 13 at Houston against the Miami Dolphins in the Super Bowl.

The 6-foot-2, 245-pound offensive tackle is one of 18 players on Minnesota's 40-man roster who played in the 23-7 Super loss to the Chiefs in Super Bowl IV.

"The emotion was there the last time," said Alderman. "But last time, we had only one week between games and we did not have enough time to prepare for that game. Kansas City used a 5-2 defense, and we'd never seen it before.

"This time, we'll have an extra week. The layoff has got to help guys who are banged up. Also, we're more familiar with Miami. I think we will be more intense in our preparation than we were the last time."

The Vikings have met the Dolphins three times in the last two years, losing 19-17 in a 1972 exhibition and 16-14 in the 1972 regular season, and winning 20-17 in the final second of a 1973 exhibition game.

Alderman notes this will be a considerably different Viking team from the one beaten in the 1970 Super Bowl at New Orleans.

"We relied more on defense in those days," said Alderman. "Our offense is more capable than ever. We have the attitude that we can score from anywhere on the field."

The Vikings have 10 starters, both offensively and defensively, who did not start in the 1970 game. In addition, standout cornerback Bobby Bryant missed the game with an injury.

The biggest names not with the Vikings that year but now with the club are quarterback Fran Tarkenton, wide receiver John Gilliam, running back Chuck Foreman and middle linebacker Jeff Siemon.

Ed White is starting at guard, Stu Voight at tight end, Carroll Dale at wide receiver, Oscar Reed at running back, Nate Wright at cornerback and Jeff Wright at strong safety.

NEW YORK (UPI) — The channel catfish often tops 50 pounds in weight.

According to the Garcia Sportsmen's Information Bureau, the world record is a big 57-pound channel cat caught in Lake Moultrie, S.C.

Finley, Williams May Both Lose

NEW YORK (AP) — Manager Dick Williams and owner Charles O. Finley appeared Friday to be headed for a courtroom showdown in the wake of their winter-long baseball contract battle.

And the two men who may benefit most by this bizarre confrontation between employer and employe are Bill Virdon and Dave Bristol.

Virdon signed Thursday to manage the New York Yankees for 1974 only one month after committing himself to the minors as manager of Houston's Denver farm club in the Pacific Coast League. "I was shocked when the Yankees called," he admitted.

Virdon signed Thursday to manage the New York Yankees for 1974 only one month after committing himself to the minors as manager of Houston's Denver farm club in the American Association. "I was shocked when the Yankees called," he admitted.

That leaves the world champion A's without a manager. The No. 1 candidate appears to be Bristol, who spent time huddling with Finley during the winter baseball meetings in Houston last month.

Bristol coached at Montreal last season and had prior managing terms with Cincinnati and Milwaukee. "Everybody knows I want to manage," he said. "I'm just waiting for someone to ask me."

Finley wasn't asking quite yet. "I don't have any comment to make at all," said the usually outspoken Oakland owner after the Yankees announced that they were giving up, at least for the moment, their pursuit of Williams.

Williams, however, had plenty to say.

"I am taking Finley to court," he said. "I'm not done yet."

Finley already has filed suit against Williams in federal court in San Francisco, seeking to have the manager prevented from working for any other baseball team for the next two seasons—his remaining contract time with the A's. Williams' countersuit will charge Finley with blocking the manager's right to work in the game.

"I'm out of baseball," said Williams, "but not for good until my attorneys are heard from. As far as I'm concerned, no one owns me."

A SURPRISED COACH

DETROIT (AP) — When 23-year Detroit hockey veteran Alex Delvecchio was called into the office to be told he would coach the Red Wings at first he thought he was going to be traded. "But when general manager Ned Harkness asked me to take over as coach," says Delvecchio, "I guess the surprise showed on my face."

Delvecchio admits the Red Wings will have to dig themselves out of a big hole He took over the team when it had won only two of 12 games, one of which was a tie.

Free Shots Deal Ducks OT Loss

CANTON — Steve Harrison canned two free throws with 25 seconds left and Canton held on for a thrilling 54-53 overtime win over Havana in a non-conference tilt Friday night.

Havana had a chance to win but missed a one and one free throw shot with ten seconds left.

High scorer Dennis Hermann's ten fourth quarter points and Brad Sarff's seven sparked a Havana comeback that saw them grab the lead at 45-43 before Canton's Brad Yocum's shot sent the game into OT.

Hermann led the losers with 20 points followed by Mike Bohn's ten Yocum and Don Alexander both hit 16 for the winners

Record Automobile

Production In 1973

DETROIT (AP) — With automakers reporting a sharp drop in sales of 1974 models, the auto industry is looking back fondly on record production totals for 1973.

Led by American Motors, each automaker on Wednesday reported percentage gains over 1972 North American production totals. In 1973, 13,817,179 units rolled off the assembly lines, an increase of about 12 per cent over 1972's record of 12,358,631.

American Motors scored a 28 per cent increase in its car and Jeep production, which totaled 448,642, up from 350,336 in 1972.

Industry leader General Motors, which built more cars and trucks last year than Ford, Chrysler and AMC combined, reported a 13 per cent increase in production totals despite its cutback of 80,000 cars during December.

GM assembled 7,095,431 cars and trucks last year, compared with 6,200,711 units in 1972. GM car production in December was down from 1972's 419,297 level to 285,578 last month. All but AMC reported production decreases in December this year compared with December 1972. AMC reported a 12 per cent increase to 23,481.

Ford announced production totals for the year of 4,055,882, a six per cent gain over 1972's 3,823,300 total.

Chrysler, with 2,217,224 units assembled, reported production increases totaling 232,940 cars and trucks compared with 1972, an increase of more than 12 per cent.

U.S. passenger car production was 5,252,768 for GM; 3,442,554 for Ford; 1,556,377 at Chrysler; and 355,855 at AMC.

GM reported truck production up more than 30 per cent, from 1,071,200 in 1972, to 1,398,863 in 1973. Ford truck production was up 16 per cent to 963,457; Chrysler truck assembly up 14 per cent to 400,125.

AMC Jeep production was up 30 per cent to 92,787.

DON SLOCUM is president of D&D Sports Center, Inc., which purchased the store of that name the first of this year. Slocum said the store, located at 1641 Lakeview Terrace, will stock more merchandise than in the past. Store hours will be 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Saturday.

Start-Of-The-Year Rally Sparks Market Advance

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market inaugurated 1974 with the traditional start-of-the-year rally this past week, sparked by technical factors and encouraging economic and political developments.

The Dow Jones industrial average, a major stock market indicator, amassed a 32.31-point gain to finish the week at 880.23.

Advances swamped declines, 1,647 to 247, among the 1,894 issues traded on the New York Stock Exchange.

The broad-based NYSE composite index rose 1.12 points to finish at 52.87. Volume was a heavy 82.09 million shares, up from 74.19 million the previous week.

"The market this week benefitted from seasonal influences and positive fundamental news," said Newton Zinder of E.F. Hutton & Co.

"Its advance reflected normal reinvestment demand as well as reports of progress in the Mideast and indications the government may be about to ease its tight money policy."

On Monday the Dow rose 2.84 points in the heaviest trading on the Big Board since Nov. 21. Brokers said it was due to a combination of year-end tax selling and reinvestment buying.

All stock exchanges were closed for the New Year's holiday on Tuesday. The following day the Dow rose 4.46 points and analysts said investors were just marking time, waiting for some hard news developments.

The news came after the close, when the Federal Reserve Board announced it was reducing the amount of cash which investors who purchase stock on credit must put up.

The market responded with a wildly enthusiastic performance on Thursday and the Dow surged 25.37 points. It was the blue chip indicator's biggest advance since Dec. 6 and its eighth biggest jump since records were started in 1929.

On Friday the Dow eased .46 points and brokers said the market was absorbing some of the gains it compiled in the previous session.

Automotives, suffering from the repercussions of the oil shortage, were weaker. Chrysler, the Big Board volume leader for the week, slipped ⅜ to 14⅞ and General Motors dropped 1 to 47.

On the American Stock Exchange, advances overpowered declines by 1,119 to 104 among the 1,327 issues traded. The market-value index soared 6.42 points to 95.49.

Other market indicators also posted gains. The Associated Press 60-stock average rose 13.4 points to 300.8; the Standard & Poor's 500-stock index advanced 1.36 points to 98.90; and the NASDAQ composite index of over-the-counter trading added 2.42 points to 94.10.

Investment Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI) — The unexpected easing of Arab oil cutbacks against Western Europe and Japan "lend support to the market's efforts to make a base after its long decline," says Standard & Poor's Corp Since the oil situation has been a major market influence, "some testing of the market's initial ebullience would not be surprising, particularly if delays develop in the negotiations," it continues. The firm predicts an emerging investment climate that will favor a gradual extension of commitments.

Although the U.S. trade surplus dropped in November to $85 million from $525 million the previous month, a still further improvement in the overall picture is likely in 1974, according to First National City bank. A wind-down in the U.S. economy and "the delayed impact of the devaluations of the dollar should help exports and discourage imports," the bank notes.

"January is often regarded as a bellwether month for the market with an up January meaning an up year," says E. F. Hutton. The firm says this trend occurred last January when the month was down and the year followed the losing pattern.

Business—Market Wrapup

1973 City Report

Businesses Open, Expand

By FRANK BRIDGEWATER

A lot of businesses opened during 1973 in Jacksonville; several others acquired new owners; and a number enlarged their quarters.

Among businesses which opened their doors last year in Jacksonville for the first time were: Acme Collection Service, 1164 W. Morton Rd.; Baskin Robbins Ice Cream, 904 S. Main; Brahler Bandag, Inc., Rt. 36 West; C.A.R. (Complete Automotive Repair), 622 N. Main St.

McLean's Family Pharmacy, 1515 W. Walnut St.; New Venture Store, 227 S. Main St.; Party House Package Liquors, W. Morton Rd.; Petefish Mobile Home Sales, 1902 S. Main St.; Sambo's Restaurant, 1604 W. Morton Rod.; TSC (Tractor Supply Co.), 850 S. Main St.; Taco Gringo Restaurant, 501 S. Main St.; and Vas Ready Mix, 652 Brooklyn Ave.

Local and area businesses which had a change in ownership last year include: Al's Ready Mix, 710 Brooklyn, owned by Albert Whewell; Crazy Horse Campgrounds, Rt. 1 Ashland, Dale and Joan Tripp; Kwik Kopy Printers, 604 E. Vandalia Rd., Jerome Watson; and Sport City of Jacksonville, 1010 N. Main St., Edward Deutsch.

Among businesses which enlarged quarters in 1973 were A&P Foods, Lincoln Square Shopping Center; R. W. Brennan Heating & Cooling, 619 E. Morton Rd.; Crawford Home Center, 220 E. Douglas Ave.; Jacksonville Machine, W. Morton Rd.; Jo-Lu's Pets, which moved to 804 W. Morton Rd.; and National Auto Body, Rt. 36 West.

The lists were compiled by the Jacksonville Area Chamber of Commerce and, according to Executive Secretary Gordy Fish, may be incomplete.

Fish said the lists were updated about a half dozen times during the year by himself and several others.

Robert Caldwell, Chamber President, Friday described 1973 as "an outstanding year for the people of Jacksonville." He said the Chamber accomplished a great deal during the year "working hand in hand with the new administration" in such areas as Urban Renewal and the selling of the light department.

Claiming he is not a "purveyor of gloom and doom," Caldwell predicts 1974 "will be a great year for Jacksonville business and industry in spite of some of the setbacks — the energy crunch, material shortages and inflation."

Commodity Futures Gain

By ED DE MOCH
AP Business Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — Commodity futures generally improved in price on the nation's major exchanges the past week, but there were a few, small exceptions.

Farm commodities, those on the Chicago Board of Trade and the Chicago Mercantile Exchange, were mostly higher when trade ended for the week on Friday after the holiday-abbreviated week.

Commodities traded on eastern exchanges were mostly higher. Cocoa, cotton, orange juice and world sugar were some of the exceptions, closing lower.

The demand for commodities was largely, it appeared, a hedge against rising prices. The United States dollar was relatively strong against the pound sterling, gold was higher and tended to influence buying of silver.

Buying of farm commodities also was influenced by rather heavy snow and bitter cold, which could force expanded use of feed grains and meals. On the CBT and CME, as prices moved ahead under strong demand, sellers fell back and, in many cases, shorts were forced to cover positions.

There was continued concern that the expected lower soybean acreage might not produce enough crops to meet demands later this year, and this brought buyers in.

When trade ended for the week on Friday, wheat was 18½ to 21 cents a bushel higher, March 5.55; corn was 2½ to 4¼ higher, March 2.73½; oats were 5½ to 6½ higher, March 1.45 and soybeans were 17 to 22 higher, January 6.07.

Soybean oil was 30 to 160 points higher, January 24.20; soybean meal was 50 to 450 points higher, January 175.00; and iced broilers were 215 points lower to 100 higher, January 39.35.

Pork bellies advanced 500 points under a good demand that was set off by concern over stocks, and live hogs and live cattle advanced because of thinner deliveries to stockyards caused by inclement weather. Shell eggs reflected weather concern also.

The strength of the U. S. dollar and concern over inflation were buying factors in copper, silver, cocoa, coffee, sugar and other so-called international commodities. Demand was very good and profit-taking at week's end appeared to be minimal.

Silver rose some 6 cents an ounce, coffee and copper rose 300 points and wool 800 points. Cocoa fell some 500 points and cotton 400, while orange juice and sugar were down some 50 points.

CASH GRAIN

CHICAGO (AP) — Wheat No 2 soft red 6.05n; No 2 hard red 5.75n. Corn No 2 yellow 2.71¼n. Oats No 2 extra heavy white 1.57½n. Soybeans 5.91n.

No 2 yellow corn Thursday was quoted at 2.71¼n.

Potato Market

Scott Farm Services Elects Robert Brown

WINCHESTER — Robert A. Brown of Winchester was elected president of Scott Farm Services, Inc. at a recent organization meeting of the board of directors.

Brown succeeds George H. Krusa of Bluffs who asked to be retired from the board at the company's annual meeting Dec. 6. Krusa served on the board for 25 years.

Other officers elected for one year terms are Leroy Pond, Bluffs, vice president; Robert Worrell, Winchester, secretary; and Roger Hurrelbrink of Winchester, treasurer.

In addition to the corporate officers, the following men serve as directors: J. W. Freeman, Dale Buhlig and Thomas Brackett from the Bluffs area; and Donald Haney and R. Edward Frost from the Winchester area.

Scott Farm Services, Inc. sells farm production supplies and markets grain in Scott County. It is a farmer owned cooperative with approximately $4 million in sales which is about evenly divided between grain and merchandise.

The company has facilities in Winchester and Bluffs.

Buettner Retires After 44 Years

Albert Buettner retired from the Hertzberg New Method Bookbindery Dec. 28 after 44 years. He began with the Hertzberg Bindery in Des Moines, Iowa in 1929. When the company merged and moved to Jacksonville in 1954, he moved also.

Albert Buettner

He worked most of the 44 years on the same linotype machine, printing the titles on the backs of books bound by Hertzberg.

Buettner was honored at the annual Hertzberg Christmas banquet by his employer, friends and fellow workers.

During his 44 years of work at the bindery, he never missed a day.

Fed Slashes Margin Requirement

NEW YORK (AP) — The Federal Reserve Board slashed the margin requirement for stock purchases this past week to its lowest level in more than a decade, letting investors buy stock with less cash.

Margin is the minimum amount of cash an investor has to put down to buy stock. The board cut the requirement from 65 to 50 per cent, allowing half the price of a securities purchase to be met through credit.

Many in the securities industry hoped the move would bring some life into a stock market that has sagged and suffered since October.

"This is an important step that should serve to encourage investors to take a more active role in the securities markets, and in the process it should aid the nation's capital-raising machinery," said Paul Kolton, chairman of the American Stock Exchange.

Brokers Thursday credited the margin cut and Henry Kissinger's announcement that President Nixon would take a personal role in Middle East oil talks with touching off one of the stock market's biggest rally days since the Depression.

The Dow Jones industrial average soared 25.37 points to close at 880.69, its eighth biggest one-day gain since 1929 and the largest since last Dec. 6, when hopes were rising for a Middle East peace.

The market consolidated its gains Friday. The Dow finished the day down .46 at 880.23, but advances outnumbers declines on the New York Stock Exchange 2 to 1.

Sagging sales in large American automobiles was reflected this past week in Detroit's plan to produce cars in January at rates well below last year's levels.

The January production target at General Motors, biggest of the automakers, was 358,000, down 29.9 per cent from actual production in January 1973.

Ford's target was down 21.5 per cent from last January's production and Chrysler was shooting 36.4 per cent lower. American Motors said it would cut large car production 10 per cent, but that reduction still left AMC's January target 3.8 per cent above year-earlier production.

All the auto companies said their 1973 production was higher than that of 1972. GM assembled 7.10 million cars and trucks, more than all three of its domestic competitors together and a gain of 13 per cent over 1972. Ford was up 6 per cent at 4.06 million units and Chrysler gained more than 12 per cent with a total of 2.22 million.

Bradney Retires From Rowland

Homer Bradney retired Jan. 1 after serving 24 years in the security business. His last position was an account executive at Rowland & Co., 1 Dunlap Ct.

During World War II, Bradney was appointed by Gov. Dwight Green to serve as vice chairman of Civil Defense for downstate Illinois.

In the closing days of the war, he was named by Green to organize and direct the Illinois Veterans Commission, and served as administrator of the commission.

Bradney helped organize the National Association of State Directors of Veterans Affairs and was president of the organization for two terms.

In 1949, he left state service to open an office in Jacksonville in the security business for Fuszschmelzle & Co. He served as vice president of the company until its merger with Rowland & Co.

...rooms a week. B stickers were for people doing essential work and they received enough gas to get them back and forth between home and their jobs. C stickers were for physicians and others whose cars were absolutely essential to their professions, and they got larger rations.

"Farmers got all the gas they wanted," Pilger said. X stickers went to public officials and some other privileged few who received all they wanted.

Ration Books

Gilbert (Gilly) Launer, prominent Cass county farmer and stockman, who still farms on a "big spread" on the Chandlerville Lincoln Memorial blacktop, is one of the few people known to possess some of the ration books issued in those days. The books contained the stamps that were surrendered at the filling station when gas was purchased.

Pilger recalls the red tape connected with rationing, all the forms that had to be filled out and the inspections that were made regularly by enforcement officials.

The late John Taylor was one of the Cass county ration office personnel, Pilger recalls.

A speed limit at the time was 35 miles per hour and since cars were smaller and less powerful, and were not equipped with air conditioning and other fuel hogging apparatus, the miles per gallon were greater than on present day cars.

The rationing of tires and sugar was handled in somewhat similar ways and those who remember it say there were sometimes extra stamps floating around but the shortages were "for real" and they "hurt."

The former notary public Mr. Jolly also had vivid recollections of the wartime rationing at the Illico station where he worked the first day it was opened 50 years ago.

He said the Cass ration board had a separate office on the west side of the square in Virginia where Nell Springer was in charge.

Jolly remembered selling gasoline at six gallons for $1 as a Dollar Day special and said heating oil was 6 cents a gallon for number 2 and 6½ cents a gallon for number 1 oil. Farmers got ration coupons worth 100 gallons of either heating oil or gasoline, he recalled.

REITHER
On Beardstown

By Virgil Reither

BEARDSTOWN — The winters aren't like they used to be — or so it seems even though the temperatures have been below zero, the wind factor has been even lower, and the snow has stopped traffic and caused other difficulties without number.

It was tougher, perhaps, when you were just a lad; but it was infinitely worse when granddad was a little nipper.

Take, for instance, the winter of the deep snow back in the year of 1830-31.

That snow, folks, was the most noted meteorological event in the history of Illinois.

The snow began, so the record says, in the latter part of November, 1830, and continued with only brief "intermissions" until January of 1831.

3-4-Foot Snow

Then a cold rain set in which froze as it fell, forming a heavy crust on the snow. More snow fell with a severe cold blast lasting two more weeks. Average depth in Beardstown (and who can refute it?) was three to four feet on a level, but seven and eight feet deep in drifts caused by winds. Fences and lanes and roads were covered.

Much corn was in the fields and it was next to impossible to extricate it. The oldest inhabitants had experienced nothing like it since previously winters had been extremely mild.

Wild game suffered and in many cases starved. It caused a scarcity of game for several years. Deer were never plentiful thereafter. Game birds died from lack of food and domestic animals suffered.

It was a disastrous winter for the settlers in the Beardstown area! It retarded emigration to a great extent, too.

That's how it was in 1830-31, and no snowplows!

Gas Rationing

One of the few Beardstown filling station operators still around with memories of World War II rationing days is Irvin Pilger, now retired, who managed a station at Fourth and Monroe streets for the Illico Independent Oil Company between 1931 and 1963.

His succinct comment about rationing was: "It was a pain in the neck."

Pilger noted first that rationing during the days between 1942 and 1945 applied not only to gasoline but to tires, sugar and other items, and he remembers there "was a lot of underhanded work" in connection with it.

Rationing in those days was directly the result of German attacks on U.S. shipping, and there were black markets and other shenanigans as could be expected.

But Mr. Pilger thinks most people complied with a program that in Cass county was directed by a board stationed in Virginia. He made out many application forms, he said, and had them notorized by Carl Jolly, also an Illico employee now retired, who then was a notary public, too.

The recollections of the old timers on gasoline rationing is that all car owners received stickers for their windshields. They were A, B, C, or X. The A

LAFAYETTE SCHOOL — Every Friday one of Mrs. Mary Richardson's language art classes writes stories for Mrs. Janet McCarty's first grade children to tell. On December 7, instead. of stories, the first graders dictated letters to Santa Claus. On December 18, their answers arrived from "Santa Claus." Each child (shown above) received an individual letter and was thrilled at such personal attention.

TESTING on individual spelling cards is a part of the new method used at Eisenhower school to improve spelling techniques.

"THE LOST AND FOUND CHRISTMAS" was presented by middle grade classes at South Jacksonville School. The play was under the supervision of Mildred McKean and Marian Russell assisted by student teachers Carol Dyer and Becky Phillips. The original production was created by the Paper Boy Players, a New York Children's Theater Group, and requires the students' talents in art, music, and drama.

THE MAKING of a Viking ship by Sharon Baldwin, a student from Mrs. Aufdenkamp's sixth grade, Lincoln school, involved a considerable length of time. In order to create a "seaworthy" ship it was necessary for Sharon to do such tasks as detailed reading for needed information, and to measure and assemble materials — some of which were such interesting ones as mints, pipe stem cleaners, and lollipops.

The end result: A pleasing creation as well as a learning experience.

MURRAYVILLE — Part of the DISTAR reading program at Murrayville School is learning to write. Children's reading skills are reinforced by writing the sounds they learn to read. Murrayville kindergarten children first learn to write the letter-sounds in sand. Next, they write on the chalkboard. Then they write the sounds on paper. This multisensory approach helps strengthen the reading process. Pictured above, Mrs. Harriet Bradney, the kindergarten teacher, helps Joey Hall write in the sand while Angela Brady practices her sounds at the chalkboard.

A New Method, An Old Subject

Here's something new in learning to spell — spelling cards.

During communications at Eisenhower School, each child has a time for spelling in the form of cards. Index cards (3x5) are made up by the teachers who write three to five words on one side of the spelling card. These words are taken from the reading materials and lists of frequently used words at all levels.

A child is given the cards one at a time. The child practices the words on a specially designed practice sheet. After practice, the child brings the sheet and card to an adult who will dictate the words to him. He writes them on the back of the spelling card. Immediately the words are checked and corrected, if necessary. Missed words are re-written and the child is retested on only those words.

When mastery of each word is accomplished the card is hung on a peg (nail) below the child's name.

Periodically, review tests are given over past words with special emphasis on words missed by each individual child.

Illinois Farm

OUTLOOK

Bread And Meat Reports Issued

Two important "bread and meat" reports were issued by the USDA on December 21. They were the winter wheat report and the quarterly report on hogs and pigs. Here are the principal facts from the latter report, together with some thoughts about the outlook for hogs and pork. We will report more extensively on the wheat situation next week.

The number of market hogs and pigs on farms December 1 was estimated at 52.4 million. This is 4 percent more than the newly revised estimate of the number on hand a year earlier.

Previous Estimate Revised

The revision of year-before estimates was in accord with long-established USDA practice. Revised estimates of hog numbers on farms are based in part on the number slaughtered during the seven months after the reporting date, in this case December 1.

The original estimate of the number of market hogs and pigs on farms December 1, 1972, was 52.5 million, which was 3 percent less than the number on hand at the same date in 1971. The revised figure for 1972 is 50.5 million, which is down 4 percent from the original estimate, and is 7 percent less than the number listed for December 1, 1971. Commercial hog slaughter during the seven months from December, 1972, through June, 1973, was 46.3 million, 11 percent less than for the same months a year earlier. We believe that a large part of that reduction was due to slow gains that were caused by very bad weather during the fall, winter, and spring, and by reducson, and probably will continue more favorable for rapid gains than they were last winter and spring. In addition, protein supplement may be fed more freely, because the cost of corn is much higher than it was a year ago. Thus hogs may reach market weights more rapidly than they did last winter and sprng. Hence, we would not be surpirsed if hog marketings exceed 1973 levels by more than 4 percent — which was the estimated increase in numbers of market hogs and pigs on farms December 1.

Price Outlook Beclouded

Price prospects for Hogs are beclouded by uncertainties concering fuel shortages, employment, and general business activity. Many consumers will restrain their spending for meat because of unemployment and fear of unemployment. It might be well to note that during the first half of 1973 hog prices ranged mostly between $34 and $37 a hundred pounds. Remember, too, that consumers did not support the market last summer when hog prices rose above $40.

Looking further ahead: Farmers reported intentions to farrow 6.5 million sows during the six months December-May, practically the same as a year ago. If farmers carry out their plans and the number of pigs saved per litter is normal, the winter-spring pig crop will total 46.7 million, up 1 percent from last year. Most of these pigs will reach market weights during the last six months of this year.

We expect that the winter-spring pig crop will be slightly larger than was indicated by the USDA survey at the first of December. Even so, market supplies of pork next fall will not be excessive. Hog prices apparently will continue at profitable and probably through much of 1975.

Day Group Of Lynnville CWF In Gordon Home

The Day Group of the Lynnville CWF met January 2 with Mrs. Lloyd Gordon.

The meeting opened with a prayer for the new year by Mrs. Claude Jewsbury. Mrs. James Organ, chairman, led the CWF prayer. A short business meeting was held with the secretary's and treasurer's reports given and the correspondence read.

Mrs. Darrell Wynn demonstrated how to make yarn octopuses. They are to be given to children while patients at Passavant hospital.

The lesson was given by Mrs. James Heaton, introducing the new study book and discussing the first chapter. Mrs. Mazie Todd led the worship.

The offering was taken, including the Least Coin Fellowship. The meeting closed with the CWF benediction.

During the social hour the hostess served a salad, in keeping with the holiday season.

The next meeting will be with Mrs. Claude Jewsbury February 6. Margaret Heaton will have the lesson and Mrs. James Organ the worship.

Response To TV Show —

It Just Ain't So At Local Colleges

By JOHN B. MARTIN

"The College Money Crunch," a 60-minute NBC network documentary sponsored by the Xerox Corporation and narrated by Ed Newman at 9 p.m. Thursday apparently sent the academic community of Jacksonville into a dither.

The program was billed as "a penetrating study of the conditions and costs of higher education as they affect students, parents and colleges."

A news conference was called at 3 p.m. Friday in the social room of main hall on the MacMurray campus. Illinois College President Donald C. Mundinger and MacMurray President John J. Wittich spoke both in "rebuttal" and "for clarification" in connection with the NBC special.

Both college presidents, as well as a good segment of the academic community of Jacksonville, were fearful that the NBC special might have had "a large audience" in the Jacksonville area and second, might have created some "wrong impressions" concerning the two local colleges.

Dr. Mundinger said he felt the television program provided a real service to the public, simply by making them aware that private education sector does have a real problem. But he felt there was a danger in the generalization or scare statements put forth.

"We must understand the problems," he said, "then take a look at how it applies to each institution."

Dr. Wittich said he was fearful that the public may wrongly interpret some of the statements made in the program that "families in the $12 to $25,000 income bracket can't afford to send their sons or daughters to a private school . . . we are not out of their market."

Dr. Mundinger said he felt the program might have been too quick to characterize the liberal arts educational institution as moving in one direction one month and another direction the next. "Far from that," he said, . . . "we at Illinois College have tried as best we know how from the very beginning to turn out a well-rounded, thinking individual who will use these traits for the benefit of society." He contended that the educational and academic courses change constantly, but the goals in education have continued nearly 150 years.

Money Problems

Dr. Wittich said calling attention to the "money crunch" of the private college is, in fact, a reality. "We do not expect the enrollment to rise in the immediate future . . . we must be more aggressive in recruiting students."

Dr. Wittich said about 35 percent of all students attend private colleges. He said there are a number of students who come from what is considered high income families and [illegible] the advantages of a liberal education.

Both presidents agreed that the salvation of the private college included sound academic programs. Both also agreed that there was a "money crunch" in the private sector of education caused by inflation, unemployment and other factors.

Some colleges which have "overbuilt" are now listed among the institutions which have either closed the doors or are bankrupt.

Just The Opposite

"Just the opposite is true at Illinois College and MacMurray," Dr. Mundinger contended. "We have never been stronger . . . we have a good history, a large alumni and friends who help secure students and support the institutions with their funds."

Both MacMurray and Illinois College are either in process or completing fund drives to build new buildings. MacMurray has a $3.5 million educational complex under construction and Illinois College a $1.5 million library soon to be under construction.

Both presidents were quick to emphasize that their respective projects were not "overbuilding," [illegible] ing on the MacMurray campus would help eliminate five older buildings which are no longer economical to operate. He said it was his hope to upgrade the present programs and consolidate the services in the five old buildings under one roof "at a considerable savings in operating funds."

Dr. Mundinger said the library on the hilltop campus would improve the facilities for the current students and provide upgrading in the quality and volumes available for research in those fields now being covered.

Dr. Mundinger said he felt the junior college program would, no doubt, take students away from Illinois College, by using the local tax base to support the program. He said the present state scholar program by which students may use scholarships at private institutions provides a wider base and tends to bring new money into the community.

Both colleges pump between $8 to $10 million annually into the Jacksonville economy. This is exclusive of what money the 1,500 students spend themselves at local businesses . . . and several estimate this figure to be [illegible] by the public, ranging from kiwanis pancake day to political gatherings. Both colleges include public invitations to a long list of cultural events throughout the year . . . year-in and year-out.

Both presidents felt that perhaps the key, or at least a big part, cited in the TV program was the lack of support from the local community. Both also expressed satisfaction in their relations with the Jacksonville community.

Dr. Mundinger said he felt the public could ask their legislators on the state and national level to provide a "fair and just policy" of awarding scholarships.

Unique Relationship

The two Jacksonville institutions are unique in their relations with the community and visa versa. Jacksonville is among the few, if not the only community in downstate Illinois with two liberal arts private educational institutions. Illinois College is the oldest in the state and MacMurray isn't too many years younger.

Illinois College has provided three former governors, a presidential hopeful who tried three times, a half-dozen senators and more than a couple dozen members of Congress. Lesser governmental officials abound in the alumni records. A faculty member and five alumni are serving on the present city council.

MacMurray has been more than generous in permitting use of college

At the same time, Jacksonville citizens have dipped into their pockets to share in building programs from the very beginning of both institutions. The present CACHE program sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce provides money for operating expenditures for both colleges . . . on an annual basis.

Illinois College has a long history of operating in the "black" and within a balanced budget, as has MacMurray.

Few people have accused the administrations of the two local schools as being "reckless spenders."

One of the problems suggested in the television documentary was to "restore public confidence in higher education."

All indications in Jacksonville seem to point toward the fact that Illinois College and MacMurray College does enjoy a "high degree" of confidence among the community.

One can't be absolutely certain why such a news conference was called, but when two college presidents get together for a single purpose it would be something less than polite to attend.

Armstrong Fire Set By Student, Officials Say

An Armstrong Junior High School student was blamed for setting a fire in the school that caused an estimated $1,500 worth of damage Friday.

The boy, whose name was withheld because of his age, admitted starting the fire, according to a fire department spokesman. The youth was turned over to city police and released to the custody of his parents after questioning.

The fire was set in a bookcase which contained loose paper and art supplies. The bookcase and an adjoining wall were burned. There was smoke damage in the room, located on the north side of the building, and some damage to the carpet.

Firemen used a pressurized water can and smoke ejectors at the fire scene.

Firemen estimated the damage at $1,000 to the building and $500 to the contents.

Energy Drain Brings Second Thoughts On Rail Abandonment

By BERNARD BRENNER
UPI Farm Editor

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The energy crisis has brought a critical new factor into controversies over abandoning some of the nation's marginal rail lines, a federal transportation specialist says.

In the past , backers of moves to make it easier for railroads to cut out unprofitable lines have relied mainly on the need to help restore profit for rail companies. But proposals to abandon rail lines now must also be weighed against the net energy drain produced when freight is shifted from railroad cars to trucks, Paul Mills contends.

Mills an Agriculture Department transportation expert, says shifting a ton of freight from rail to the highway can more than triple the energy needed to move it.

"For example, to move one ton one mile, a barge consumes approximately 500 British thermal units, a locomotive 750 BTU's, a truck 2,400 BTU's, and a plane 63,000 BTU's," Mills noted in a paper prepared for a recent agricultural outlook conference.

In addition, Mills says intercity trucks travel more miles to deliver a ton of freight than railroads. In 1970, he said, rail lines delivered about twice as much freight as intercity trucks but ran their locomotives only 448 million miles compared with nearly 35 billion miles for trucks.

Mills said his warning about increased fuel needs when trucks are subsituted for trains should emphatically not be regarded as a suggestion to eliminate trucking.

"Far from it. The trucking industry is . . . vital to the economy of the nation. We'd depend upon trucks to help supply us with the essentials of life,"Mills said his warning about increased fuel needs when trucks are substituted for trains should emphatically not be regarded as a suggestion to eliminate trucking.

"Far from it. The trucking industry is . . . vital to the economy of the nation. We'd depend upon trucks to help supply us with the essentials of life," Mills said.

But in dealing with potential cutbacks of rail service, Mills said advocates must now face up to the practical reality that any such move will result in some shift to expanded truck use. Before making any such move, he said, officials should first find out how much extra energy demand the change would create and weigh that drain before making a final decision.

....THIS WEEK AT DIXON SPRINGS

A Silent Feedlot Thief

Coccidiosis probably steals one and a quarter million dollars annually from Illinois cattle feeders, according to estimates made by University of Illinois veterinarians Paul Fitzgerald and Manford Mansfield. This parasitic infection severely erodes intestinal tissues often causing death and almost always causes lowered vigor and reduced cattle gains.

Fitzgerald and Mansfield say that poultrymen have recognized coccidiosis as a major problem in their industry; but cattlemen, in general, have not realized how much the disease costs them.

Coccidiosis studies in feeder cattle at Dixon Springs have produced information on practical ways that cattle may be protected against the disease. The protection involves a combination of inoculation and the feeding of medicated feeds. Low level inoculations through the feed help calves develop immunity to coccidiosis and the drug, amprolium, in the feed keeps the "inoculation infection" under control.

Medicated feeds against coccidiosis in cattle have not been used because they are thought to be too costly. However, poultry growers have used medicated feeds profitably, and Fitzgerald and Mansfield argue that cattle feeders could use the medication as profitably. Costs are very similar, representing about two percent of the market value of both broilers and cattle. Fitzgerald and Mansfield maintain that the cost to cattle feeders could be less than this because cattle would not require medication throughout their growing and feeding period.

Unprotected and coccidia infected steers at Dixon Springs weighed 95 pounds less than uninfected controls following an eleven-month experimental period. Assuming a feed intake of 6,500 pounds from birth to 1,000 pounds market weight, the calculated cost of medicating all the feed is about seven dollars. Much, much less than 6,500 pounds of feed would need to be medicated for a relatively short protection period. The use of medicated feeds appears to be economically feasible, particularly on farms where coccidiosis outbreaks occur frequently.

A First

Serendipity is the name of the first and only known 4-H club ever organized in the nation's many Job Corps Centers. Pope-Hardin Counties Extension Advisers, Ken Jones, Mary Lewis, and Pauline Berry made such a club possible in a Community Resource Development Project.

Twenty boys, residents of the Golconda Job Corps Center, became active, community improving members of this unique club under the capable leadership of Dick Berry and Matt Nychay.

The same as the legendary Prince of Serendip, the Serendipity 4-H Club turned misfortunes into good fortunes through their community improvement activities. The club members built and installed playground equipment at the Pope County Grade School, improved the recreation field and ball diamond at Rosiclare, improved the facilities at Kaskaskia Youth Camp, and cleaned up a family cemetery and improved the markers.

Perhaps the most appreciated and most personally satisfying activity of the Serendipity Club was their unselfish giving to retarded children at Bowen Center in Harrisburg. Club members made games and toys for the children, took them to Bowen Center, and devoted 2½ hours each week to entertaining and playing with the children.

Serendipity Club leaders, Dick Berry and Matt Nychay, who are staff members of the Job Corps, have managed to instill the idea of service to others in the boys.

To the question, "What has 4-H meant to you?" the boys unanimously responded, "Through 4-H and our Corps training, we have improved ourselves so that we can help others. Until we help ourselves and improve ourselves, we cannot help others."

Serendipity is indeed an appropriate name for a 4-H club of once unfortuantes who have found the secret to real fortune.

Butter Production Down, Cheese Up

WASHINGTON (AP) — Butter production dropped four per cent last November from the previous month and trailed a year earlier by 18 per cent, says the Agriculture Department.

Production of American cheese, however, rose six per cent from October and was up one per cent from a year earlier.

'Parity' Best In 19 Years

WASHINGTON (AP) — Unofficial Agricultural Department computation puts the 1973 farm parity ratio at its highest point since 1954, pushed there by among other things the Russian wheat deal.

The ratio expresses as a percentage the relationship of prices farmers get for raw products and the cost to produce them. Although not directly a measure of farm income, the ratio does reflect at a given time how well farmers are doing.

In addition to the ratio, the Agriculture Department reported Wednesday that farm prices, recovering slightly from three months of decline, increased 1.5 per cent in the month Nov. 15 to Dec. 15.

The parity ratio, allowing for a similar boost in expenses, remained unchanged from mid November at 89 per cent. Theoretically, farm prices and costs are in harmony at 100 per cent.

Statisticians in USDA say they will not compute the annual parity ratio for 1973 until later. An unofficial computation put last year's indicator at 88 per cent.

At that level, the ratio was the highest since 1954 when it was 89 per cent. It has not been 100 per cent for an entire year since 1952, during the inflationary cycle prompted by the Korean War.

The 1973 rate, up 14 points from a year earlier, also eclipsed the high mark of 80 per cent registered during the Democratic presidential years of 1962 and 1966.

Politically, at leat for Farm Belt voters, the remarkable upturn in the ratio last year proved at last a campaign point Nixon made in Des Moines on Sept. 14, 1968.

At that time Nixon said the Democratic farm record was tragic and that the parity ratio of 74 per cent which then prevailed was an "intolerable" level.

But in 1969 the ratio averaged 74 per cent, the rate Nixon said was intolerable. And it would worsen. By December 1970, the indicator slumped to 67 per cent, the lowest since the depths of the nation's worst economic depression 37 years earlier.

There were ups and downs for another year. Then, beginning with the massive sale of U.S. grain to the Soviet Union, farm prices began to rise. So did retail food prices, so that in 1973 consumers saw eating costs go up at unprecedented rates.

By mid-December it was clear farmers would reap record profits in 1973 of more than $25 billion, up more than 20 per cent from 1972 which had been another record.

If one development can be linked with the upsurge in the parity ratio, record farm income and high food prices it is the tremendous export demand for U.S. commodities.

Morgan Service Co. Meets Here Monday

Robert Hierman, general manager of the Morgan County Service Company, announced Friday that the 47th annual meeting would be held on January 7 in the Blackhawk Restaurant, Jacksonville.

Manager Hierman stated that reports detailing all operations of the company during the past twelve months would be made. He indicated there would be much information of vital interest contained in these reports to the membership.

"It is hoped that every member and patron will attend the annual meeting and add his best thinking and his counsel to the discussion regarding the ways and means in which he can best be served by his company throughout the next year. The presence, interest, and participation of all are needed in charting the company's course of action for the coming year," Hierman says.

The principal speaker will be Melvin E. Sims, president of board of FS Services, Inc. He is a native of Adams county, Ill., and a graduate of the College of Agriculture, University of Illinois, where he received his degree in 1941. He farms in partnership with his brother, and they operate a 1,120-acre grain and livestock farm at Liberty, Ill. Mr. Sims is married and has a son and daughter.

Mr. Sims is well known throughout the agricultural business world and serves in positions of leadership in many local and national organizations.

Mr. Sims currently serves as director and president of Illinois Grain Corporation; is a trustee of the American Institute of Cooperation; and serves on the boards of directors of the following organizations: The National Cooperative Refinery Association, McPherson, Kansas; Foundation for American Agriculture, Washington, D.C.; Agricultural Cooperative Development International, Washington, D.C.; Board of Governors of the Agricultural Hall of Fame (chairman of the board), Kansas City, Missouri; Farm Foundation, Chicago; Cooperative Fertilizers International (chairman of the board), Chicago; Farmers Expoert Company, Kansas City, Missouri; and is the FS shareholder representative of CF Industries, Inc., Chicago, Illinois. He is also a member of the Agricultural Advisory Committee of the Central National Bank, Chicago, and is listed in Who's Who in America. In February of 1972, Sims was appointed by President Nixon to serve on the Federal Farm Credit Board for a six-year term.

MELVIN E. SIMS

This appointment was confirmed by the Senate on March 3, 1972. Also, Mr. Sims is a member of the Advisory Council on Japan-U.S. Economic Relations.

Mr. Sims' career has been distinguished by its quality of leadership in the organizations he has served, both national and local.

Promise Ample Fuel To Farms

Farmers will continue to be squeezed in the cost-price spiral as they ponder 1974 farm income prospects, but they can look forward to another good year of earnings, and credit availability should be no problem.

That is the year-end assessment of E. A. Jaenke, Governor of the Farm Credit Administration, the agency which supervises the $21 billion borrower-owner Farm Credit System.

Cutting the good 1972 and 1973 farm income levels, Jaenke predicted that farm income will be better than average in 1974, but will not reach record 1973 levels because of rising production expenses, moderating farm prices and slower expansion of exports.

"We are genuinely optimistic that adequate credit will be available through the Farm Credit System," Jaenke said, "but because of the higher cost of money and inflationary pressures, the price may be higher."

Borrowers in the Farm Credit System — The Federal Land Banks and Associations, Federal Intermediate Credit Banks and Production Credit Associations, and Banks for Cooperatives — were doubly rewarded during 1973 by the record farm income levels and improvement in overall loan quality, Jaenke noted in his year-end report. Because of the strengthening of farmers' financial positions, the number of loan foreclosures, delinquencies and problem loans declined.

Illinois Valley Angus Breeders At Dinner Meet

The Illinois Valley Angus Association held its annual dinner meeting Saturday, Dec. 8, at St. Michael's Hall, Greenfield.

Janet Handlin, Eldred, entertained the group during dinner with piano selections. Janet was also recognized as our Angusette for the association for 1973.

A business meeting was conducted by President Meade Woods, Carlinville. The spring sale was discussed and a sale report by Joe Reznicek, sales manager, of Hettick was given. The sale will be held Wednesday, March 6, at Carrollton Sale Barn with a quality offiering of Angus bulls and females.

The door prizes were awarded to Earl Rahe, Bluffs; Mrs. Joe Ingle, Batchtown; and Randy Walker, Gillespie.

The following officers were elected: President, Thomas Handlin, Eldred; Vice President, Thomas Walker, Gillespie; Second Vice President, Leslie Knebel, Pocahontas; Secretary-Treasurer, Wilbert Joyce, Greenfield; Publicity Chairman, Wilberta Joyce, Greenfield; State Director, Gene Murphy, Girard.

Directors from the following counties were elected: Pike — Dick Hoover, Milton; Scott—Vernon Rahe, Bluffs; Calhoun — Joe Ingle, Batchtown; Jersey — Laverne Tuetken, Jerseyville.

The annual field day will be held in June with Morgan county as hosts.

State Jobless Rate Below National Norm

CHICAGO (AP) — Unemployment in Illinois followed the national trend and increased in December, primarily because of the energy crisis. The state's level, however, remained lower than the national rate.

Statistics released Friday by the Illinois Bureau of Employment Security said the statewide unemployment rate rose from 3.6 per cent in November to 3.9 per cent in December. There were 195,000 persons out of work in December, compared with 179,000 the month before.

A spokesman for the bureau said the jump was due mainly to layoffs in the aircraft and automotive industries which are cutting back the number of flights and production because of fuel shortages.

In Washington, the Labor Department reported the nation's unemployment rate moved up from 4.7 per cent to 4.9 per cent of the work force.

Record Farm Exports Help U.S. Restore Favorable Trade Edge

By DON KENDALL
AP Farm Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Record farm exports are continuing to be the mainstay in Nixon administration strategy for putting U.S. trade with other countries on a sound footing for the first time in three years.

Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz, who has vigorously opposed suggestions for curbing foreign deliveries of U.S. grain and other commodities, estimated Thursday that farm exports in calendar 1973 jumped to a record of about $17.4 billion.

That would be up approximately $8 billion from the previous high of $9.4 billion in 1972, Butz said in a statement. Most important, he said, last year's farm sales exceed agricultural imports by a wide margin.

"Agricultural exports for 11 months (of 1973) were $15.7 billion against agricultural imports of $7.6 billion," Butz said. "Meanwhile, nonagricultural exports were $48.2 billion, compared with nonagricultural imports of $55.7 billion."

Thus, according to Butz's arithmetic, the surplus in U.S. farm trade last year "put this country well on the way to its first favorable trade balance since 1970."

The statement by Butz and the figures on U.S. trade followed a report last week by the Commerce Department showing similar statistics. Asked why USDA seemed to be duplicating the earlier announcement, one department press officer said, "Commerce plays down agriculture, so we put out our own stuff."

The farm export figures also were on a calendar-year basis, despite a practice of also computing them on a fiscal year standard. Butz and others previously announced farm exports are expected to be about $19.3 billion for the year ending next June 30.

Butz has consistently heralded farm exports as a national economic advantage and uses each opportunity to give farmers a pat on the back.

"American farmers, by virtue of their superior ability to produce, have marketed enough products to foreign customers this year (1973) to offset the value of all our imports of coffee, cocoa, bananas and other agricultural products, of all our petroleum imports for the year, plus a substantial balance to apply against other nonagricultural imports," he said.

Livestock Feeds

WASHINGTON (AP) — An analysis of 1973 feed prices paid by farmers to produce livestock shows why many curbed production last year.

The Crop Reporting Board says that using 1967 feed prices as a base year, feed items in 1973 cost an average of 64 per cent more. The 1972 rate was eight per cent higher than the base.

Baled Alfalfa hay, for example, averaged $51.70 per ton nationally last year, compared with $40.20 in 1972. Soybean meal, another prime ingredient, was $14 per 100 pounds, up from $6.62 the previous year.

USDA Prepares New Directive On Farm Ponds

Ponds, and how to build, maintain and use them, are the subject of a new publication of the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

The 14-page illustrated booklet, "Building a Pond," was written by the Soil Conservation Service in response to growing public interest in the subject.

The publication gives advice on selecting a site, building an embankment or excavated pond, the requirements for satisfactory pond spillways, sealing leaky ponds, and maintaining completed ponds. The various uses of ponds for livestock, fire protection, fishing, recreation, irrigation, and wildlife habitat are also discussed. Photographs, maps and diagrams help to illustrate some of the concepts.

Single copies of "Building a Pond," FB 2256, are available from the Office of Communication, U.S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D.C. Additional copies are available from the Superintendent of Documents, Government Printing Office, Washington, D.C. 20402, at 25 cents a copy.

Housing Helps Clinic Jan. 8th At Extension

The Morgan County Cooperative Extension Service is sponsoring a Housing Circle January 8th for families who are building new homes or planning to remodel their home. The housing circle is very popular for families remodeling kitchens, adding bathrooms, planning family rooms, storage and trying to improve the traffic pattern in their home.

Families who would like to take advantage of the Housing Circle should call 243-2900 or 243-2712 for reservations and information to bring to the meeting.

The meeting will begin at 10 a.m. Tuesday, January 8th, with Don Jedele and Ron Raetzman, housing specialists at the University of Illinois, discussing planning principles. During the afternoon individual conferences will be arranged with the specialists to discuss their individual problems.

For more information contact Eloise J. Tholen or George A. Trull, Morgan County Senior Extension Advisers.

H. Humphrey In Hospital For Checkup

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey's physician disclosed Saturday that the former vice president underwent x-ray therapy last month for a possibly malignant bladder tumor.

Dr. Edgar Berman said the condition would be rechecked in about two months to determine if the treatment had been fully successful.

Berman made the disclosure after the 62-year-old Minnesota Democrat entered Bethesda Naval Medical Center for what the doctor described as "his final checkup before he goes on vacation."

Humphrey entered the hospital Friday night and is expected to remain four or five days.

Berman said that during Humphrey's second year as vice president in the Johnson administration, a small tumor was discovered on his bladder.

It was benign and several have been removed since then that also were non-malignant.

"In September, we took one out that looked a little more suspicious ... On the basis we just didn't want to take any chances with it," he said.

It was decided to use x-ray therapy as a precautionary measure, Berman said.

Despite the fact the treatments "knock the hell out of you," Berman said, Humphrey insisted on going to the Senate every day while undergoing them.

Development Screening For Pre-School Children

WHITE HALL — North Greene School District 3 is cooperating with Four Rivers Title VI program in sponsoring a developmental screening program for all three- and four-year-old children in the Hillview, Patterson, Roodhouse and White Hall areas. Parents please note children who are 2½ years of age may also participate.

Hours Jan. 8th

Parents are to pre-register their child this Tuesday, Jan. 8th.

At the Roodhouse Christian church in Roodhouse from 10 a.m. to 12 noon.

At the White Hall Christian church, White Hall, from 1 to 2 p.m.

Questionnaires will be completed at these times and appointments will be made for the actual screening day.

Screening Pattern

On screening day the child will participate in activities scaled to his age level.

These activities are to help identify the child whose developmental difference in motor coordination, basic concepts, speech and language or physical conditions require more complete study.

Early identification of these differences is most important to the child. Service is available after identification at no cost to the parent as this is a federally funded program.

Persons reading this article are asked to mention the program to friends who may have children in this age group. This way the message reaches many who otherwise not be aware of the service.

Kohoutek Fading Fast

HOUSTON (UPI) — The Comet Kohoutek was reported by the Skylab 3 astronauts as getting "fainter than faint" Saturday without having lived up to its advance billing as the astronomical wonder of the century.

The comet was getting dimmer as it streaked away from the sun, according to observations by astronauts Gerald P. Carr, Edward G. Gibson and William R. Pogue.

The research pilots made routine observations of the sun, studied the stars and upper atmosphere with three different cameras and shot a variety of pictures with hand-held cameras of specific targets on earth in one of their busiest days of seven weeks in space so far.

Astronomers were still predicting Kohoutek will be visible from earth late next week just after sunset in the western sky. But the astronauts' view of it above the interference of earth's atmosphere was becoming poorer by the day.

"It was fainter than faint," mission scientist Gibson said after chasing Kohoutek across the heavens with special cameras. "I wasn't holding out too much hope. I just lucked out."

Pogue narrated a comet television show for ground-based observers, displaying rough sketches the crew made of how Kohoutek appears to them when viewed with the unaided eye.

"The comet has properties which the scientists are very interested in," he said. "They're using it as a scientific probe of the sun itself...and it's also thought to provide clues regarding the origin and basis for creation of the solar system."

The astronauts' reports on the comet the lweatively faint star.

Report Artillery Clash Near Suez

The United Nations observer force reported Saturday that an Egyptian cannonade began an intense artillery, tank and mortar clash that erupted late Friday on the edge of Suez city.

Deputy spokesman Birger Hallden said the fighting broke out when Egyptian artillery in Port Taufiq, east of the canal opposite Suez city, opened fire and big Israeli guns on the west bank replied.

Hallden said, "The incident lasted two hours and eight minutes."

The Israeli command in Tel Aviv reported two of its soldiers were wounded in the fighting. There was no report of any Egyptian casualties.

Israeli forces opened up with machine gun and small arms fire about 1½ hours later near Suez city, sparking a second clash that lasted more than an hour, Hallden said.

Units of the Egyptian 3rd Army east of the canal are surrounded by Israeli troops who established a beachhead west of the waterway during the final hours of the October Middle East war.

The Egyptians have declared that in reality it is the Israeli west-bank beachhead that is trapped.

Envoys from the two nations are negotiating a pullback in Geneva designed to reduce frequent clashes along the jagged cease-fire lines.

Israeli Defense Minister Moshe Dayan and U.S. Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger, in a four-hour meeting in Washington, apparently reached agreement on the disengagement proposal that Israel will make at the Geneva talks.

Following the meeting, the second in two days, Kissinger said the U.S. and Israeli positions "have approached each other very substantially."

He said the Israeli government, on the basis of Dayan's meetings in Washington "and its own consideration" will now "formulate some proposals for formal consideration in Geneva."

Ship Sinks, Fear 100 Drowned

MANILA (UPI) — Almost 100 persons were feared drowned Saturday in the sinking of the ferry Tagbilaran in strong winds and high seas in the central Philippines shortly after midnight.

At least 37 bodies were recovered, including those of 11 children. Still missing were 45 others. A coast guard spokesman said earlier that 135 survivors out of the 212 passengers and five crewmen aboard were picked out of the water by rescue ships.

The 100-ton Tagbilaran sank at 12:30 a.m. Saturday off Bagacay Point in Cebu province, 330 miles south of Manila, on the return trip from Baybay town in Leyte province to Cebu city.

UPI correspondent Buddy Quintana in Cebu said about half of the bodies are unidentified, including the 11 children. He said most of the passengers were residents of Leyte province returning home from Christmas holidays in Cebu City.

Rescue ships from the Philippine navy, coast guard, national and local police combed the area where the ship went down as well as nearby islands in a search for survivors.

Officials said the inter-island ship, built in 1945, was authorized to carry 220 passengers and was not overloaded. Captain Heriberto Buto, 51, survived and is being treated in a Cebu hospital.

federal price supports for raw milk was tied to $527,000 in campaign contributions from three major dairy cooperatives, and possible ties between billionaire Howard Hughes and Nixon's brothers.

In his letter to Chairman Sam J. Ervin, D-N.C., Friday, Nixon said: "To produce the material you now seek would unquestionably destroy any vestige of confidentiality of presidential communications, thereby irreparably impairing the constitutional functions of the office of the presidency."

Sen. Howard H. Baker Jr., R-Tenn., committee vice chairman, said "it was a mistake ... to attempt to subpoena a great volume of documents which may not be relevant to the investigation."

"I was not consulted when these tapes and documents were subpoenaed. I knew nothing about it," Baker said. "I think the committee should reconsider the entire matter and while I hope the committee should have any relevant tapes we should also avoid a fishing expedition."

Even though Ervin said the committee would sue to force Nixon to comply, it appeared a court confrontation on the new issue was several weeks away.

Dash said the committee would file Monday an amended complaint and brief in its original suit asking for tapes of five conversations that the President had with former White House counsel John W. Dean III about Watergate. The White House will have 10 days to reply.

Dash said that rather than file a new suit over Nixon's Friday refusal, the committee would wait until U. S. District Judge John J. Sirica rules on the original suit to set a precedent.

Armed guards surrounded the dock as 18-year-old waitress Allison Thompson of Santa Barbara, Calif., Abdelkhir el-Hakkaoui, 25, of Morocco, and Athar Naseem, 21, of Pakistan were continued without bail until Jan. 14.

A second American girl detained at Heathrow on Friday as a "known associate" in the California connection was still being questioned at a police station. Scotland Yard refused to identity her.

At Travis Air Force Base in California, FBI agents arrested Theodore D. Brown, 31, a Navy veteran, and charged him with helping Miss Thompson smuggle firearms and ammunition into Britain.

Brown was charged with violation of the Neutrality Act and the Firearms Control Assistance Act and was held in lieu of $25,000 bail.

FBI agents said he had been employed at an art gallery in Santa Barbara, Calif., not far from Goleta where he lived with his wife and two children. They said he had been on medical retirement from the Navy since 1966.

area has no telephone communication with the rest of Peru even under normal circumstances. Most homes in the area are of poor quality construction.

The Peruvian Red Cross sent emergency supplies, including medicines, tents, blankets and food to the stricken area around the Malael River and the organization's National Executive Committee was in permanent session in Lima to coordinate relief efforts.

First relief brigades equipped with short wave radios reported difficulty in reaching the disaster zone because landslides blocked access roads and government transport crews were dispatched to the area to repair the damage. The Peruvian army was placed on alert to help out in the relief effort.

A young boy, Jaime Villavicencio, died in the collapse of an old house 25 miles south of Lima. In a suburb of the Peruvian capital, an unidentified old man ran out of his house and died under the wheels of a passing car.

First aid stations reported treating 20 persons for various injuries, including nervous collapse.

Telephone communication was cut off with the northern half of the country, apparently because of cable failure in the Lima area. Firemen reported only a few old walls collapsed because of the tremor and some doors jammed by minor tilting of houses.

Peru is located along one of the major geological faults in the world. In an average year, more than 100 minor tremors are felt. A major earthquake comes along once every two or three years.

ARENZVILLE — Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Lovekamp of Arenzville quietly observed their 58th wedding anniversary Sunday, Dec. 30th. Mr. Lovekamp noted the wedding day 58 years ago was very warm and the roads were muddy.

Mr. and Mrs. Adam Beets and daughter, Brenda, spent the pre-Christmas weekend at Freeport with their son and family, Mr. and Mrs. Mervin Beets, Gregory and Amy. Others visitors there were Mr. and Mrs. John Haynes, Curt and Scott of Normal; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Zirkle, Bob Allen and Barbara, Bloomington.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Harville and son, Nick, spent the holiday week with Mr. and Mrs. Randy Miles and Jason at Madison, Wisconsin, and Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Anderson, Tina and Shawn in Lake Mills, Wisc. Both are daughters of the Harvilles.

Mr. and Mrs. James Davis, Steve, Patty and Donna spent Dec. 30th with Rollie Davis in Moline.

Mrs. Mabel Schnitker and Miss Laura Roegge spent several days with Mr. and Mrs. Ray Schnitker and family at Bluffs. Mrs. Schnitker spent two days with Mr. and Mrs. Leland McAllister in Meredosia.

Dinner guests Dec. 25th of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Manuel were Mrs. Fairy Manuel, Browning; Mrs. Sharlene Kirkbride and Kim; Mr. and Mrs. John Wayne, all of Vermont, Ill.; Mr. and Mrs. Donald Danner and Jason, Ipava; Mr. and Mrs. John Ruppel, Katrina and Bryan, Springfield; and Kathy and Gary Manuel.

Holiday guests of Mrs. Esther Morrison were Miss Jessie Morrison, Dayton, Ohio: Mr. and Mrs. Frank Spikes, DeKalb; and James Morrison, Decatur.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Jones had as guests Dec 25th Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Ward of Beardstown and Mr. and Mrs. Leo Jones.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Sarlie entertained Dec. 25th Mrs. Dennis Haley of New York City, who is staying for a more extended visit; Mr. and Mrs. Al Gray of Moline; Mrs. Fred Knight and Mrs. Lydia Hierman, Jacksonville.

Gas Poisoning Cases Increase

BALTIMORE (AP) — The number of persons treated here for swallowing gasoline while siphoning it from automobile tanks increased ninefold the first weekend that most service stations were closed because of the fuel shortage, state health officials report.

Dr. Neil Solomon, state health secretary, said nine fuel-swallowing cases were reported in Baltimore Dec. 1-2 of last year by the department's Poison Control Center. The same period in 1972 had only one such accident reported, officials said.

For the entire month of December, Solomon said 15 cases of gasoline-swallowing during siphoning operations were reported. In November, the number of such cases "averaged about one a week," a department spokesman said.

Swallowing even a small amount of gasoline can cause respiratory infection and pneumonia, the secretary warned.

Racial Battle Breaks Inside Colorado Prison

CANON CITY, Colo. (UPI) — Prison guards in riot gear segregated inmates of the Colorado State Penitentiary Saturday and "shook down" their cells for homemade knives and hammers in an effort to prevent a new outbreak of racial fighting.

"We took some weapons off the prisoners but they still got some in their cells," said prison Capt. William Wilson. "The trouble was racial. We've got them locked up and we're not letting them out yet. We can't if we want the prison to return to normal."

Fighting broke out among about 100 black, brown and white inmates Friday night. Off-duty guards were called back to the penitentiary that holds 1,500 prisoners to quell the trouble.

Acting Warden Gordon Heggie said the incident apparently was triggered when a group of convicts burned an inmate on the hand with paint thinner ignited with a flaming broom.

Priceless Grasshopper Believed 'Helicopped'

BOSTON (AP) — Robbers who stole an 80-pound copper grasshopper weathervane that for 232 years sat atop Boston's historic Faneuil Hall probably used a helicopter, police said Saturday.

Police and city officials said the missing four-foot long grasshopper, gilded with gold leaf, is priceless. An expert said it would probably sell for hundreds of thousands of dollars.

The superintendent of the old hall, located in the Haymarket Square area, discovered the grasshopper was missing when he went on the roof to raise the flag Friday. The last time he remembered noticing it was a month before, but several persons said they saw it around Christmas, police said.

Police Det. Paul R. Carroll discounted the possibility that the thieves could have climbed up inside or outside the building to take the grasshopper. He doubted that they could climb up to the top of the building's cupola, lift the heavy weather vane off its perch and climb down with the bulky piece.

Carroll said a crane would need a 100-foot boom to reach the top of the 80-foot high building.

A number of weather vanes have been stolen in Massachusetts during the past two years, and there were reports the thieves used helicopters.

The vane was hammered in 1742 by Deacon Shem Drowe, a coppersmith who was commissioned by Boston merchant Peter Faneuil, who owned the building.

Faneuil Hall was the scene of plotting by American patriots before the Revolutionary War.

Workers took the grasshopper down in July 1952 to refurbish it. Inside, they found a copper cylinder with the inscription. "Lunch for grasshopper, from the city, March 26, 1889."

The grasshopper was also found to contain copies of five daily newspapers published in Boston on March 26, 1889; the 1888 annual of the city's Superintendent of Public Buildings, and a book titled "The Organization of City Government of Boston for the Year 1889."

Ralph Raynard, the manager of a company that has been making weather vanes since 1853, said the grasshopper would bring hundreds of thousands of dollars on the market. But he added:

"There is no real way to estimate the value of an antique weather vane. There is usually a story attached to it. In the case of the Faneuil Hall weather vane, the story parallels the history of the country."

Good Heavens!

As far as science can estimate the universe contains about 100,000 million billion stars—about as many as grains of sand on all the world's beaches.

Small-Town Illinois Drivers Not Hurting

CENTRALIA, Ill. (AP) — While big-city motorists stew in blocks-long lines for a shot at the gas pumps, small-town Illinois drivers seem to find fuel about as hard to come by as it is to say "fill'er up."

A spot check of service stations scattered across Southern Illinois shows that only in Alton—a St. Louis suburb—has any station been hit with inordinate demand. And at that one, named "The Working Man's Friend," regular is going at a cut-rate 39.9.

What it means depends on who you talk to.

At Liberty Oil Co. headquarters in Mount Vernon, Vice President William Glassman, fumes at talk of an oil shortage. Liberty operates gas stations in eight states, depending on refineries of larger oil companies for supplies.

He says the refineries are withholding gas from the market to drive up prices and urban gas stations are taking the cue. When the government announces it will allow price hikes, he says, supplies go dry mysteriously.

"If you can wait two more days that same product that is just sitting in your tanks becomes more valuable," he says. "They are trying to lock more and more profit into crude oil and when it's up supplies will come back up and you'll see price wars again. Except the wars will end at 41 cents a gallon instead of 24."

If urban service stations are doing that, why not rural pumpers? For a couple of reasons, Glassman says: small town dealers depend on steady customers, trade built up over the years—on friends. And rural dealers tend to be franchise holders less susceptible to oil company pressure—meaning fewer Sunday closings and less pressure on motorists to tank up before weekends.

Hugh Watson, president of the Martin Oil Co. in Carbondale, operates another chain of stations; 80 outlets in seven states. Faced with the task of buying up to four million gallons of gas at a time, he's sure enough of the shortage. If it isn't as visible in rural areas, he says, the reason is "We don't have the long lines but we don't have that many people. There are more gas stations per capita in rural areas than there are in urban areas.

"We're just as short in Carbondale, Marion and Herrin as they are in Chicago in relation to the number of people," he says. His stations, though very few are in urban areas, have been forced to close Sundays and to cut hours. About 13 outlets have gone out of business for lack of supply.

Maybe so. But few other retailers seem to be having problems as grave. Centralia Derby gas station operators Richard and Catherine Tibbs say they need only call the refinery to get their allocation.

If there's a shortage, they say, it was created by the oil companies to drive up prices. Furthermore, their customers think the same. Even at peak periods—Saturday nights—there are seldom more than six cars on the lot at a time. A gallon of regular is 41 cents.

In Carbondale, not far from the Martin offices, Paul Nass has run a Shell station for five years. His business is up on Saturdays, sometimes the cars are three and four deep, but sales are down Monday and Tuesday. Conserving his supply, he closes early and on Sundays and holidays. But so far no rationing, customers turned away and no runs on his pump. His allocation is down but he's had no trouble getting it.

Harry Frier is getting the fuel he needs at his Gulf station in Harrisburg. On the Saturdays before Christmas and New Year Day sales were heavy and he thought about limiting strangers to $2 sales. But didn't have to.

"So far," he said, "we haven't had any problem. I think there is plenty of fuel. When the price goes right I think it will level off and we won't have any problems."

For the time being, he said, "I'm pumping as much gas as ever and maybe a little more."

In Cairo, a regular fuel stop for motorists on Interstate 57, Gary Squires owns two Shell stations. During the peak holiday traffic cars were sometimes six deep on his lot but he sold all he cared to at 49.9.

Squires had been closed Sundays, but not anymore. His competitors stayed open and he decided to do well. To keep his allocation in line with demand he limits his sales per day. That requires closing a few minutes early at most and frequently not at all.

At Mount Vernon, Stanton Bean has run a Standard station at the same corner for 41 years. As far as he can tell business is about normal. His allocation has been cut to 500 gallons a day and he is closing three hours early but he's still serving his regular customers and no one seems to go wanting.

That's partly because Mount Vernon, a town of less than 20,000, has more than 50 stations—several highways run through town.

"We've got such good coverage," he says. "So many stations in such a small town and people have their regular customers."

And further north in Salem, another interstate town, some dealers find themselves saddled with surpluses because highway travel is down, especially on Sundays, and more gas is available for local use. Bob Winks, an attendant at the Standard station by the Interstate, surveyed the vacant highway a few Sundays ago and mourned, "We've got more gas than we know what to do with."

Dumas Services Held Saturday

Funeral services for Russell L. Dumas were held Saturday afternoon at the First Baptist Church, Reverend Harry Mattingly officiating. Organist was Mrs. Beverly Sturgess.

Pallbearers were Byron W. Stewart, Ruel Becker, Darrell G. Wilson, George Randolph, Claude Lewis, Lee Roy Dwyer, William G. Thompson and D. M. Spotts.

Ushers were Gilbert Mulch and James Luster. Burial was in Memorial Lawn Cemetery.

CAR FIRE

City firemen were called to 869 East State about 6:45 p.m. Saturday to put out a car fire.

Firemen reported a ground wire on a car belonging to Mrs. Fern Watts burned off. There was little or no damage.

VILLAGE OF SOUTH JACKSONVILLE

Applicants are needed to help with the special census to be held in South Jacksonville beginning on Jan. 7, 1974. The village has asked for the census due to the increase in population since the last census. This will mean additional revenue to the village in Motor Fuel Tax funds.

A Representative from the Census Bureau will be interviewing and testing the applicants at 9:30 a.m., Monday, January 7.

Any resident interested may obtain an application by calling T. W. Goodwin at 243-2517 over the weekend, or by appearing at the village hall on Monday, Jan. 7, 9:30 a.m.

WILL BE SOLD AT PUBLIC AUCTION
FRIDAY, JANUARY 11, 1974
at 1:00 o'clock P.M.
AT SANGAMON COUNTY FAIR BARN
New Berlin, Illinois

Pursuant to the terms of the Will of HATTIE M. CORRINGTON, Deceased, the Trustees will sell at public auction to the highest and best bidder on Friday, January 11, 1974, at 1:00 o'clock P.M. at the Sangamon County Fair Barn, New Berlin, Illinois, upon the terms hereinafter set forth, the following described tracts of real estate, to-wit:

TRACT I:

The Southwest Quarter of Section 26, and part of the Southeast Quarter of Section 26 described as follows: Beginning at the Southwest corner of said Quarter Section, thence running East 25 rods, thence North 32 rods, thence West 25 rods, thence South 32 rods, to the point of beginning, containing 5 acres, in Township 16 North, and Range 8 West of the Third Principal Meridian, Sangamon County, Illinois, subject to highways as now existing, containing 165 acres, more or less.

This tract is located about 8 miles Northwest of New Berlin and seven miles Southeast of Ashland. It is located on a good all weather road. It is highly productive and composed of brown silt loam soils maintained in a high state of fertility. It is all in cultivation except the farmstead, which is improved with a comfortable modern seven room house, a small five room house, garage, and various out buildings, including barn, machine shed, and corn crib.

TRACT II:

The Southeast Quarter of Section 27, in Township 16 North, Range 8 West of the Third Principal Meridian, Sangamon County, Illinois, subject to highways as now located, containing 160 acres more or less.

This tract is located immediately West of Tract I and is bounded by good all weather roads on two sides. There are no buildings on this tract. The soil is brown silt and black clay loam maintained in a high state of fertility.

TRACT III:

The East Half of the Southeast Quarter of Section 28, Township 16 North and Range 8 West of the Third Principal Meridian, in Morgan County, Illinois, and the Southwest Quarter of Section 27, in Township 16 North and Range 8 West of the Third Principal Meridian, in Sangamon County, Illinois, subject to highways as now located, containing 240 acres, more or less.

This tract is located immediately West of, and across the road from, Tract II. It is highly productive and composed of black clay and brown silt loam soils maintained in a state of high fertility. It is all tillable. It is improved with a modern six room home, garage, barn and machine shed.

Tracts I and II will first be offered separately, and then offered together. Tract III will be offered separately only.

TERMS: Cash, meaning fifteen per cent (15%) down at the time of sale, and the balance on or before February 14, 1974, concurrently with delivery of Trustees' Deed.

Sellers agree to pay the 1973 real estate taxes payable in 1974 by deducting a sum equal to the 1972 taxes from the balance of the purchase price.

Possession will be given to the Buyer at the time of delivery of deed subject to the rights of the tenant, Dan Flinn, which expire February 28, 1974.

An Abstract of Title showing good merchantable title and right to sell and convey in the Sellers will be furnished to the buyers, or at the option of the Sellers, title insurance in the amount of the purchase price. The Abstract may be seen at the offices of Bellatti, Fay & Bellatti, 333 West State Street, Jacksonville, Illinois.

Capitol Records Laying Off 106

Capitol Records Company is laying off 106 employes at its Jacksonville plant effective Monday, according to George Zeigler, personnel director.

Zeigler said Saturday afternoon the layoff is necessitated by "a shortage of work resulting from a material shortage. Records and tapes are made from petrol-based materials, and there is a nation-wide shortage of these now."

Zeigler said the plant will continue to operate on a reduced basis. The company will retain 464 employes, barring the need for further layoffs.

"I hope that we'll be able to call them back soon," said Zeigler, "but I don't know how soon it will be."

Capitol Record's plant is located west of Jacksonville at the Illinois Route 104 bypass and West Lafayette Avenue intersection.

13 From Scott County At Farm Income Tax School

MRS. JAMES COX
Correspondent

WINCHESTER — Tom Walker, Scott County Extension Adviser, reports that thirteen tax practitioners from Scott County enrolled for the recent Farm Income Tax School sponsored by the University of Illinois Cooperative Extension Service.

The two-day school provided an intensive training session of instruction for figuring and filing farm as well as general income tax returns.

The Springfield and Chicago Districts of the Internal Revenue Service and the State of Illinois Department of Revenue helped plan and prepare teaching materials. They also provided specially trained instructors.

The school brought the tax practitioners up-to-date on new federal and state income tax rules, regulations and interpretations. The end result of the school will be more income tax returns properly prepared.

Farmers are urged to seek the counsel of competent income tax practitioners and consultants. The help of a well-informed tax practitioner is well worth the cost.

Tax practitioners and consultants who enrolled for the income tax school from Scott County included:

Mrs. Mildred Allen of Bluffs; Mrs. Hazel Cody, Mrs. Eloise Gillham and L. Allan Watt from Office of L. Allan Watt, Winchester; Mrs. Wilma H. Collins, of Manchester; Mrs. Beverley Evans, Mrs. Wanda J. Pence, and Richard E. Mann of Hutchens and Mann Law Office of Winchester; Maurice Glossop, Winchester; Mrs. Jeanne Howard of Howard's Tax Service in Alsey; Mrs. Marilyn Hubbert and William S. McKenzie of W. S. McKenzie Law Office, Winchester; and William F. Sponsler of Sponsler Acct. Service of Alsey.

Band Boosters

The January meeting of the Scott County Band Boosters will be held Thursday, at 7 p.m. January 10, in the music room of the Winchester Grade School.

The time has been changed to 7 p.m. so those attending the meeting may be able to see the basketball game also scheduled for that evening.

All the tournament chairmen are urged to attend this meeting and present their report.

Marriage License

Jimmie Duane Wade of Winchester and Janet Karen Stillflew of Jacksonville.

Court Fines

Dennie Engelbrecht of Bluffs, $25 and $10 costs, fleeing a police officer.

Mary Sue Mann of Winchester, $10 and $5 costs, improper backing.

Divorce

William McCullough vs. Goldie Irene McCullough, desertion.

Homestead Exempt Applications Ready

Morgan county residents who are eligible for the Homestead Exemption on real estate taxes but have not previously filed for the benefit may do so any time between now and July 31, 1974.

Those persons who have filed for the reduction in taxes in previous years must file a Certificate of Status Report in order to continue the benefit in force, according to Lawrence J. Quinlan, Morgan county supervisor of assessments.

Quinlan said over 1,800 of the Certificates of Status were mailed to property owners on Dec. 31.

Easy to Re-File

Property owners who receive their Certificate of Status Forms from the Assessor's office will find it is completed, except for the signature of the owner.

It will be necessary for the property owner to sign the form in the presence of a Notary Public or an assessing official.

Return One Copy Only

After the signature has been witnessed, the white copy only should be returned to the assessor's office. The second copy should be retained by the property owner for his or her records.

Property owners may visit the assessor's office in person to sign the certificate, although it may be witnessed by any Notary and mailed to the office at the convenience of the property owner.

$1,500 Reduction Free

The Homestead Exemption is a reduction of $1,500 in the Equalized Valuation on which the real estate tax bill is based. Quinlan said the reduction would amount to somewhere between $50 and $70 on the tax bill, depending upon the area of the county in which the property owner resides.

Qualifications

Qualifications for the exemption are simple: 1—The property owner must have reached the age of 65 years prior to January 1, 1974. 2—The property owner must have a legal or equitable interest in the property for which the exemption is requested. 3—The property owner must actually live on the property.

First-Time Filers

Those property owners who are eligible for the Homestead Exemption and who have not yet made application for the benefits should visit the office of the supervisor of assessments in the basement of the courthouse and take with them the following documents:

1—Proof that they have reached age 65 years on or before January 1, 1974. A birth certificate is adequate proof.

2—A copy of the deed or other legal document by which they obtained title to the property. This should be a copy since it must be filed with the application. Don't take the original document unless you plan to have a copy made.

Other Exempt Properties

Quinlan said Certificate of Status Forms had also been mailed to the owners of exempt properties, such as churches, schools, cemeteries, cities, villages and the like

More than 200 of those forms were also mailed on Dec. 31 and cover about 1,000 parcels of real estate for which records must be maintained

Three Held In Pittsfield

Extensive Search In Pike County

FBI agents, Illinois state police and Pike County sheriff's deputies conducted an extensive manhunt in the New Canton area Friday night, according to state police, but the several-hours search was to no avail.

The lawmen were seeking Lonny Rife, 41, rural New Canton, who is wanted on a federal fugitive warrant and an Adams County warrant charging him with aggravated battery. State police stopped Rife on a gravel road about one and one-half miles southeast of New Canton about 10:30 p.m. Rife fled into the woods and escaped the manhunt which ensued, state police said Saturday night.

Three persons who were stopped with Rife were detained by lawmen and charged with a number of offenses. They were all lodged overnight in the Pike County jail; they were released on bond Saturday.

Pamela Jensen, 25, rural New Canton, was charged by state police with aiding a fugitive, unlawful use of weapons, aggravated assault and criminal damage to propery. She reportedly fought arresting officers and in the process kicked out the windshield of a state police car.

Glenn E. Darnell, 29, rural Barry, was charged with aiding a fugitive, unlawful use of weapons and permitting an unauthorized person to drive.

Terri K. Farrell, 41, Quincy, who was identified by County Sheriff Charley Cheek as Marlene Kate Peterka, 34, was charged with aiding a fugitive and unlawful use of weapons.

Pamela Jensen's bond was set at $5,000, and bond for the other two was set at $2,500.

Ask Freeze On Firings, Closings

Denounce Walker Approach To Mental Health Programs

EDITOR'S NOTE: Jacksonville area residents and employes of the Jacksonville State Hospital have been watching events at that institution with great alarm for almost a year. Layoffs, cutbacks in service, low morale, lack of funds and numerous unanswered questions have led observers to believe the Illinois Department of Mental Health and the Walker administration plan to close down the facility.

Local politicians and community leaders have pressed the Walker administration for a clear commitment on the future of the Jacksonville State Hospital. Many of these officials are scheduled to meet with Governor Dan Walker and Department Director LeRoy Levitt February 11.

CHICAGO (AP) — A coalition of citizens groups accused Gov. Daniel Walker on Saturday of breaking his campaign promises to improve mental health programs and instead "dismantling mental health services."

Mrs. Fay Ruth, co-chairman of the Mental Health Coalition, said her group would like to see Walker "order a freeze on all firings of employes and closing down of state mental health programs until there are public hearings and everyone is informed about the effects of these planned cutbacks."

The coalition and the Council for Handicapped Children represent more than 30 organizations. They charged Walker with "ignoring imput from the general public and dismantling mental health services."

A study prepared by the Mental Health Association of Greater Chicago compares Walker's campaign statements with actions of his administration and asks the governor to "clarify the contradictions and ambiguities" between the two.

The association called on the governor to answer published reports that LeRoy Levitt, state mental health director, has been:

— Impounding funds appropriated by the General Assembly for mental health services.

—Indiscriminately discharging mental patients from hospitals without setting up proper community mental health services.

—Firing staff members to accomodate fiscal planning, not mental health policies.

—Planning in secret without contacting the groups that would be affected by any changes and then penalizing employes who talk to the public or the press.

—Using lower echelon employes as scapegoats, charging them with negligence when understaffing is really at fault.

Contacted in Chicago, Levitt either denied the charges or said his actions were misunderstood. He said he was holding up funds while he reviews grant applications. The applications will be thoroughly screened and grants dispersed according to a "sensible and rational" system of mental health care, he said.

He denied categorically that there has been secrecy in planning, saying, "There is more dialog now than ever before."

He termed the charge about mental patients being indiscriminately discharged "a very malignant remark ... we do not dump anybody into the community indiscriminately."

As to firing needed staff, Levitt said about 1,800 persons, mostly in the administrative, support and physical plant areas, have been released since he took charge, leaving the staff at about 20,000. He said about 800 persons would be hired in the near future.

Levitt said his actions are "simply threatening a lot of traditionalists," adding that 90 per cent of the criticism of him "is a reaction to very profound and needed change."

The association asks Walker to explain how announced shutdowns of mental health facilities and staff cutbacks can fulfill his promises of more mental health services if the administration is not increasing expenditures to private mental health agencies.

Alan Hopkins, associate executive director of the association, said, "These same charges were made by Gov. Walker during his campaign against Gov. Ogilvie and are now being made against him."

Hopkins said "indications based on current spending are that the Department of Mental Health will withhold nearly $40 million in appropriated funds at the current rate of spending."

Levitt has announced that the patient load would be reduced 30 per cent in the next five years and that his department would make greater use of community-based private mental health agencies.

On the other hand, private agencies have charged Levitt with cutting back their funds and making it impossible for them to absorb the patient load that would be created by reducing state programs.

MOWER MISSING

John McGinnis reported to Morgan County sheriff's deputies Saturday afternoon a mower is missing from Arcadia Cemetery.

CALL RESCUE SQUAD

The Morgan County rescue squad was called to 306 Anna Saturday about 7:45 p.m. Ronnie Clark, 9, was experiencing breathing difficulty, and squad members used an inhalator to help him.

The boy was taken to Passavant Hospital by ambulance, and he was admitted in satisfactory condition.

Car Recovered Off Myrtle

City police recovered a car Saturday which was reportedly stolen from Richard Green, 816 Dunlap. Green reported the vehicle missing from his residence, and police found it run down an embankment on Myrtle Street.

The car was towed to the city police garage for further investigation.

THEFT REPORTED

City police received a theft report from K. E. Vasconcellos, 1010 Edgehill, Saturday morning. A portable welder had been removed from the Hardin Avenue construction site at MacMurray College.

Probe Death Of Bluffs Man Carl Pahlmann

Carl H. Pahlmann, 65, Rural Route 1, Bluffs, was found dead in a shed at his residence Saturday afternoon, according to Jeff Lair, Scott County deputy coroner. Lair stated that a .22 calibre rifle was found at Pahlmann's side and that he evidently died of a gunshot wound.

An autopsy was conducted at Passavant Hospital Saturday night to determine whether Pahlmann's death was accidental or suicide Lair said. An inquest will be scheduled later.

Lair reported Pahlmann's wife found him when she came home about 3 p.m. Saturday. The body was brought by ambulance to Passavant for the inquest.

He was born in Scott County October 15, 1908, son of Herman and Mary Magelitz Pahlmann. He married Bertha Vortman April 18, 1933, and she survives.

Also surviving are a daughter Louise, at home, and his mother, of Bluffs. Five sisters and three brothers survive: Marie Pahlmann, Mrs. Roy (Anna) Vortman, Mrs. Leo (Emma) Nortrup, and Clarence Pahlmann, all of Bluffs; Henry Pahlmann, Chapin; Herman Pahlmann, Wood River; Mrs. Norma Schuessler and Mrs. Frank (Doris) Baptist, both of Mt. Sterling.

He was a member of Trinity Lutheran Church, numerous church organizations and Scott County Farm Bureau.

The remains were taken to Bates Funeral Home at Bluffs, and arrangements were incomplete Saturday night.

River Towboats Feel Fuel Shortage Pinch

BEARDSTOWN — Beardstown "river men" home on leave from their towboats as well as crewmen whose craft stop here for water seem in agreement that their industry is beginning to feel the effects of the fuel shortage.

To a man these fellows ask not to be quoted because "we don't know enough about it," but they also are unanimous in comments to the effect they sometimes don't really know where their next "fill up" is coming from.

The towboat Minnesota, which is moving soybeans and other grain up the Illinois river to Chicago ports, pulled into the Beardstown dock at the end of State street January 2 and "took on" more than 1,000 gallons of water. A deckhand said the 3200 HP powerplant on the "old" boat used more than a gallon of fuel per HP and was low on fuel at the time. The Minnesota had returned to Beardstown from the Peoria area where it had "tied off" 12 barges and was here to get five barges left a few days ago — heavy ice in the river made the going slow and "touch."

Captain Noel Clark and Captain Alf Dufelmeier both said they experienced little trouble thus far getting fuel — they explained that their offices handle the logistics of fueling in a way that keeps their boats supplied at proper and regular intervals. Both Dufelmeier and Clark work boats which are somewhat smaller than the biggest craft seen here often — these have power of something like 5,000 horsepower and will use about 5,000 gallons of diesel fuel every 24 hours.

Clark, a veteran river boat captain who has enough time in to retire, says his boat is powered by engines totaling 1,800 horsepower and the fuel usage amounts to 2,200 gallons per 24 hours. On his last trip he left the boat at New Orleans.

All the men from the boats seem to be in agreement that operation of the towboat barge industry could be crippled. Massive cutbacks in fuel to operate the vessels have been announced in St. Louis. In some cases it has been reported allocations are to be cut to half of the 1972 usage.

St. Louis is the last fueling point on the Mississippi between St. Louis and St. Paul and is the last for barge traffic on the Illinois until Chicago.

All Points Short

All fueling points are said to be in the same circumstance as St. Louis. Adding to the woes of the industry is also a hefty price boost for diesel oil from 11 to about 16 cents a gallon.

Beardstown rivermen who work on the Illinois waterway say they most frequently refuel at Wood River.

A crew member of one boat which stopped here for water said his company, on one occasion at least, had effected a transfer of fuel from one vessel that had full tanks to another that was running very short. This story struck some other boaters as a surprise and they said they had never heard of the practice.

The shortage of fuel for boats on the Waterways could effect many other industries.

Since there is also a shortage of railroad cars a cutback on boat hauls could be doubly felt. Water transportation is generally considered the cheapest way to move grain, coal and other freight. American Waterways Operators say a ton of freight can be moved for $1 on the water a distance of 333 miles, while $1 will take the same load only 160 miles by rail, 17 by truck and five by air.

City Streets Safe From Salt Shortage

It doesn't appear Jacksonville's streets will suffer from a shortage of salt this winter.

John Crowder, superintendent of the street department, said last week the city should be able to get all the salt it needs.

Crowder orders salt by the trailer load from Meredosia (where it arrives in barges) and can get an order filled within 24 hours.

The city got its salt from Havana and Peoria before the Meredosia connection, but the orders could not always be promptly filled.

The unusually heavy snowfalls this winter have created salt shortages in some cities such as St. Louis, where officials have expressed concern about their ability to obtain enough salt if the heavy snows keep coming.

Heavy Snows

A record 14 inches of snow floated down on Jacksonville Dec. 19, and another seven inches fell on Dec. 30.

Crowder said the city got two trailer loads — 45 tons — of salt from Meredosia. The city does not stockpile salt here, although 60 tons can be stored at the city garage.

It is easier getting salt from Meredosia, Crowder said, because, if necessary, city employes can drive up to the river town and haul it back themselves.

Crowder has been figuring the cost to the city of the snow removal for the last two snowfalls and is preparing a report for Alderman John Schulz, chairman of the city council's Municipal Services Committee.

Schulz will present the report at tomorrow evening's council meeting.

Such items as overtime for members of the street department, cost of the salt and chemicals used, and the amount paid to trucking firms for their assistance will be included in the report.

Beginning To Melt

The brownish color on city streets is caused by salt, Crowder said Thursday, and he predicted, "If it gets above 20 degrees, I think you'll see some melting."

His prediction was fulfilled Saturday as the mercury climbed to 24 degrees and much of the snow turned to slush.

The city could have applied more salt, but when the weather was below the 20 degree mark it wouldn't have helped.

Chloride was mixed with salt for use on the town square. The chloride melts at a lower temperature, and as it begins the melting process, it makes the salt more effective.

"So far," Crowder concluded, "I don't know that we're hurting for anything — only warm weather."
